BEEP BALL . . . examined by Lloyd Watts.

Quiet! Children Playing Softball

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

In this softball game, the fans hold back their "Huzzah!" when the batter's up.

Also, there's no chatter from the infield.

And the fans sit silent after a hit, when the player sprints toward base. Only after he finds his way to home plate can the cheerers roar.

The players, you see, are blind children.

They need silence from the fans because they hit the ball by listening to it. It beeps!

They find the bases by listening to them. The bases beep too.

Thanks to the Frank H. Woods Telephone Pioneers Association in Lincoln, blind and visually impaired children in Nebraska can play softball next summer at Camp Arrowhead in Lexington.

The Pioneers — employes 15 years or more at the Lincoln Telephone Co. — last week donated two "Beep Balls" to the Christian Record Braille Foundation, which sponsors National Camps for Blind Children across the U.S.

Some blind or partially sighted children have "never handled a ball before," said Wendell Carpenter of the foundation's national headquarters, 4444 S. 52nd.

The Beep Ball "will allow them to be a more normal child," helping "to acquaint them with what's around them" despite their visual handicaps, Carpenter said.

Ten-year-old Lloyd Watts, 2440 S. 10th, accepted the Beep Balls on behalf of the foundation frm the Pioneers.

Association president Tom Goldenstein and vice president Art Sharp pulled the plug from a ball, activating the beep through seven little holes, and initiated it in a game of catch with Lloyd.

The partially sighted youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Watts, attended Camp Arrowhead this summer, one of 20 similar foundation camps across America.

Carpenter, a Nebraska district representative for the foundation, said the Pioneers wanted to donate the ball after learning about the camp in Nebraska.

The Pioneers provide the transistorized unit inside the rechargeable Beep Ball, a regulation softball developed by the Mountain States Telephone Employes nine years ago and manufactured by Wilson Sporting Goods.

The Beep Ball is "just one of many" items the Pioneers have provided for the sightless, Carpenter said.

Not all visually handicapped children are able or want to play ball, he pointed out, but "The ones who do play it really enjoy it."

Because it's most always a new experience, playing with the Beep Ball starts slowly, he said. Then, "They come along rapidly."

Rockefeller Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford nominated Nelson A. Rockefeller to be his vice president Tuesday, commending him to a receptive Congress as a "good partner for me . . . for our country and the world."

Rockefeller, the former governor of New York and twice a campaigner for the Republican presidential nomination, declared he was deeply honored and eager to do Ford's bidding while serving "all the people of this great country."

Rockefeller said later that he believes Ford "has every intention" of seeking election in 1976 to a full four-year term as President.

He said the subject arose in prenomination discussions with the President, and "that was my impression, that's what I urged, that's my assumption."

Rockefeller, 66, said it would not be appropriate to speak of his own desires for 1976 — whether he would be Ford's running mate — before he is confirmed by Congress, regarded a virtual certainty.

Besides, he said, when the issue of 1976 came up Ford "talked about himself, and not about me."

That disclosure came before reporters at the Capitol, where Rockefeller paid a few courtesy calls after the nationally broadcast nomination ceremony at the White House Oval Office.

And the statement ran counter to an exchange he had with the White House press corps:

Q: Governor, did you talk to the President about his plans for 1976?

A. No, sir.

Long regarded as the Republican party's ranking liberal, Rockefeller consistently had spurned any notion that he settle for the vice presidency in years past.

Now, he was thrust into that job by the unprecedented process of succession that began Aug. 9 when Richard M. Nixon resigned a presidency devastated by the Watergate scandal.

Within minutes after Ford announced the nomination, congressional leaders began arranging the confirmation procedures. A final vote could come in September.

Ford, who last year went through the same 25th Amendment process to become vice president, offered Rockefeller the services of his own personal staff to help him prepare for it.

Ford's press secretary, Jerald F. terHorst, said both the President and Rockefeller had talked with Nixon by phone shortly before the nomination was announced. Nixon was quoted as telling Ford that he "picked a big man for a big job."

Ford told the nation that Rockefeller will "make a great teammate."

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., called Rockefeller "one of the most experienced and capable men in the country."

FORD . . . commends Rockefeller as 'good partner.'

"I think it was an excellent choice," said Senate Democratic Whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia.

And Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he was "enormously pleased."

Scott and Byrd pledged to expedite confirmation, with Scott expressing hopes it could be completed within 35 to 40 days. This compares with the 55 days required to confirm Ford last fall, when Nixon nominated him to succeed the resigned Spiro T. Agnew.

The Senate Rules and Administration Committee, which along with the House Judiciary Committee will conduct confirmation hearings, began an immediate investigation into Rockefeller's background.

The nominee, a millionaire member of one of America's wealthiest families, told a news conference that he would make whatever financial disclosures are required and probably will put his vast holdings in trust.

He bluntly turned aside reporters' questions about his personal finances. "You're not the committee of Congress," he told them at the White House press room session after Ford announced his nomination.

Ford said he was certain Rockefeller will receive majority approval in both the House and Senate, as required by the Constitution's 25th amendment.

SeTech Budget Request $6.9 Million

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

After throwing barbs at the Unicameral's education funding process Tuesday, the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech) Area Board approved a $6.9 million budget request for 1975-76.

The board approved a preliminary budget in July. Then Tuesday, after three hours of review, Chairman Merle Ebers of Milford called the budget actions an "excercise in futility."

Board member Gary Carstens of Beatrice said, "We talk about local control, but when we sit here and talk about it (the budget), we bounce it right back to the Legislature" to wield the ax on all final appropriations.

Budget requests for SeTech's Fairbury, Lincoln and Milford campuses and area operation will be submitted Friday to the State Board of Technical Community Colleges for approval. In turn, the budget goes through the State Department of Administrative Services for final action by the Legislature.

Carstens and Ebers voted no on the motion to submit the budget to the state board.

The SeTech budget this year is $4,837,566. The continuation requests for existing programs and services in 1975-76 total $6,429,189 — an increase of almost $1.6 million or 32.9%.

Budget requests for new programs next year amount to $484,254, bringing the total requirement to $6,913,443.

The largest increases requested are for capital outlay, at $1,024,263, or 162% more than in this school year.

"Those are the only things I'm really going to have to justify" to the state board and the Legislature, said Area President Robert S. Eicher.

"I'd like to shoot for the moon with our first request" for capital improvement funds and offer no alternatives, Eicher said, adding "We've done little in buying new equipment in the last two years."

Board member G. Alan Dunlap of Milford agreed, saying "Capital expenditures have been neglected for a long time" and are now required to sustain a successful operation.

Without the capital improvement requests, Eicher said the budget increase is 23%, within legislative guidelines. Chairman Ebers, acknowledging it might be short-sighted, said "I would like to see the cut made in new programs and beef up" continuing programs and capital improvements.

In discussing proposed campus expenditures, confusion developed over Lincoln Campus Director Jim Lightbody's budget requests, which included figures that didn't tally.

SeTech Views School Buildings

"I'm not going to approve a budget that has inconsistencies in it," Ebers declared. But the budget was approved with the board directing Eicher to get accurate figures on the Lincoln campus, for submission to the state board.

In budget highlights, the Fairbury campus continuation request is $752,745, a 30.8% boost. With $31,255 requested for new programs, the total asking is $784,000. Capital improvements at Fairbury represent the greatest increase, at 229% for $125,179.

The Milford campus is seeking a 32% increase in its continuation request, $2,624,472. No new programs are scheduled at Milford, but again outlay requests were upped 278%, from $96,000 this year to $363,763 in 1975-76.

At Lincoln, the campus asking is $2,494,916 for continuation programs, a 34.9% increase over this year. The total request with new programs is $2,947,915. Capital outlay requests of $267,405 represent a 79% increase.

The SeTech area office is asking for $557,056 next year, a hike of 31.5% over its $423,666 1974-75 budget.

Financing the budget would require $5,793,342 from the state general fund, a 43% increase. Tuition and fees are expected to provide $810,744; federal grants, $279,357, and revolving fund, $30,000. No local current taxes are entered in the budget.

The State Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the one-mill property tax levy which in part funded the six community college areas in Nebraska.

The State Board of Technical Community Colleges and area college attorneys have formed a committee to study ways to derive continued local funding.

The committee, according to SeTech Board Attorney Doug Curry, has drafted proposed legislation which would allocate funds to the college areas based on full-time equivalents for student enrollments. The increased state aid to replace local property taxes would be paid with no strings attached to the college areas, thus rendering the state board powerless in funding matters and returning control to the local boards.

Curry questioned whether the proposal was contrary to the intent of the Supreme Court decision, by simply shifting funding sources. He said current embroilment over the state aid to education bill might also affect community college funding from property taxes.

Thus Curry urged the SeTech board to take no position on future local funding. Chairman Ebers agreed, saying legislators "are the ones that got us into it. Let's see how they get out."

Dunlap also said he believes property tax funding schemes do "not pass the constitutional mustard" to satisfy the high court decision.

AFL-CIO Endorses Demo Nominees

Fremont — The AFL-CIO state convention Tuesday endorsed all nine Democratic nominees for statewide or congressional office, and urged voters to repeal the 1974 state school aid act.

On a day largely devoted to politics, delegates to the 19th annual labor convention listened to addresses from Republican gubernatorial nominee Richard Marvel and two Democratic congressional hopefuls.

Marvel admitted that his legislative record has "not always agreed with your platform," and that he sometimes has voted in the Legislature "against your wishes."

But, he suggested, no organization should ever expect "the complete support" of any officeholder.

Marvel stressed his support during 18 years in the Legislature for the needs of state employes, and suggested that his 13-year tenure as chairman of the Appropriations Committee has resulted in "the savings of millions of dollars of tax funds."

Marvel's appearance before the delegates followed by one day Gov. J. James Exon's convention speech.

Following the recommendations of their Committee on Political Education (COPE), the delegates handed their endorsement to Exon and his Democratic running mate for lieutenant governor, Gerald Whelan.

All three Democratic congressional nominees — Hess Dyas of Lincoln, Dan Lynch of Omaha and Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox — won labor's support.

Also endorsed were four other Democratic nominees for statewide office: Catherine Dahlquist, secretary of state; Kurt Rasmussen, treasurer; Richard Larsen, auditor, and Frank Morrison, attorney general.

A resolution approved by the convention urged voters to repeal LB772, the school aid measure which will be subjected to a referendum vote in November.

The act would equalize state and local tax support for the schools over a two-year period, boosting annual state funding from $55 million to $160 million or more.

"It's not so much a school aid bill as an unfair shifting of the tax load," State AFL-CIO President William Brennan of Omaha said.

"If, as I understand it, the bill relieves the large property owner of taxes, somebody has got to pick up the tab.

"We support school aid bills — but only when they are equitable."

Among other resolutions was a COPE-sponsored declaration that the State AFL-CIO take the initiative in forming "a new farm-labor coalition" in Nebraska.

Another resolution, adopted by the delegates, supports an increase in state legislative salaries "to a level where the average citizen can afford to hold the office."

The current salary is $400 a month; voters rejected a May primary election proposal to boost the level to $675 a month.

Dyas told the convention that his opponent, First District Congressman Charles Thone, has "firmly planted his feet on the opposite side of the fence from working people."

If elected, Dyas said, he would fight for tax reform, an agricultural policy to preserve the family farmer and comprehensive health insurance.

Lynch said his opponent, Second District Congressman John McCollister, was "a rubber stamp for the Nixon administration," whose policies "caused serious inflation."

McCollister's record, Lynch said, "does not fit the character of the Second District," which is chiefly populated by working people, older Americans and family farmers.

Nuclear Accident Probability Very Low, Study Says

Washington (UPI) — A person has a far greater chance of being killed by a hurricane or lightning than by a nuclear power plant accident, according to a two-year study released Tuesday.

"The fact is that nuclear accident probabilities are so low that they are insignificant compared to the overall risks due to other man-made and natural risks," said the draft report on the government-sponsored study into the safety of the nation's atomic power reactors.

"All other accidents, including fires, explosions, toxic chemical releases, dam failures, earthquakes, hurricanes and tornadoes, that have been examined in this study are much more likely to occur and can have consequences comparable to or greater than nuclear accidents."

Nevertheless, the report said there always is some chance of a nuclear accident just as there always is a chance of a non-nuclear accident. The draft said, "We do not now, and never have, lived in a risk-free world."

The $3 million investigation was financed by the Atomic Energy Commission and directed by Dr. Norman C. Rasmussen, professor of nuclear engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The AEC said the study was the most comprehensive ever undertaken on the subject.

There are now about 50 commercial nuclear power plants in operation and there have been no nuclear accidents. The study considered the type reactors used today and did not look at the advanced breeder type reactors expected to begin operation in the mid 1980s.

The question of sabotage to a nuclear power plant was not considered.

The major risk involved with a nuclear power plant is the release of large amounts of radioactive material due to a string of failures that would lead to the melting of the reactor's uranium dioxide fuel. Because the fuel contains only a small amount of the enriched type used in weapons, it is impossible for nuclear power plants to explode like an atomic bomb.

About 100 reactors are expected to be working by 1980, and the report said there is a probability of that one core melting accident would occur every 175 years. But the study found that only one in 10 potential core melt accidents would produce measurable health effects and that would occur on the average of once every 17 centuries.

The report said the chance of an individual living near a power plant being killed by a nuclear reactor accident is one in 300 million per year. This compares with one in 1,600 for all other types of accidents, one in 2.5 million for hurricanes or tornadoes, one in two million for lightning, one in 100,000 for air travel and one in 4,000 for motor vehicle accidents.

"The fact is that nuclear accident probabilities are so low that they are insignificant compared to the overall risks due to other man-made and natural risks," said the draft report on the government-sponsored study into the safety of the nation's atomic power reactors.

"All other accidents, including fires, explosions, toxic chemical releases, dam failures, earthquakes, hurricanes and tornadoes, that have been examined in this study are much more likely to occur and can have consequences comparable to or greater than nuclear accidents."

Nevertheless, the report said there always is some chance of a nuclear accident just as there always is a chance of a non-nuclear accident. The draft said, "We do not now, and never have, lived in a risk-free world."

The $3 million investigation was financed by the Atomic Energy Commission and directed by Dr. Norman C. Rasmussen, professor of nuclear engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The AEC said the study was the most comprehensive ever undertaken on the subject.

There are now about 50 commercial nuclear power plants in operation and there have been no nuclear accidents. The study considered the type reactors used today and did not look at the advanced breeder type reactors expected to begin operation in the mid 1980s.

The question of sabotage to a nuclear power plant was not considered.

The major risk involved with a nuclear power plant is the release of large amounts of radioactive material due to a string of failures that would lead to the melting of the reactor's uranium dioxide fuel. Because the fuel contains only a small amount of the enriched type used in weapons, it is impossible for nuclear power plants to explode like an atomic bomb.

About 100 reactors are expected to be working by 1980, and the report said there is a probability of that one core melting accident would occur every 175 years. But the study found that only one in 10 potential core melt accidents would produce measurable health effects and that would occur on the average of once every 17 centuries.

The report said the chance of an individual living near a power plant being killed by a nuclear reactor accident is one in 300 million per year. This compares with one in 1,600 for all other types of accidents, one in 2.5 million for hurricanes or tornadoes, one in two million for lightning, one in 100,000 for air travel and one in 4,000 for motor vehicle accidents.

Shooting Appears Deliberate

Nicosia (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Tuesday the fatal shooting of U.S. Ambassador Rodger P. Davies in the attack on the American embassy appeared to be a deliberate assassination.

The Cypriot government said arrest warrants have been issued for three Greek Cypriots in connection with the slaying.

"They obviously knew what they were shooting at," one diplomatic source said.

On the military front, a United Nations spokesman said all was quiet, so much so that President Glafkos Clerides left Nicosia to visit Greek Cypriot refugee camps on the southern coast.

But in Ankara, the Turkish government charged Greeks massacred 57 Turks in a village near Famagusta and Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit warned that if Greek Cypriot leaders and the U.N. force on Cyprus fail to act, Turkey would step in to protect Turkish Cypriots.

In London, the Foreign Office said Britain and the United States launched a new Cyprus peace probe Tuesday. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference in Washington Monday that Britain had come up with a plan that the United States would support but declined to disclose any details.

The London reports said the goal is agreement among the principal parties involved — Greece, Turkey, and the Greek and Turkish Cypriots — on a "sovereign, independent state of Cyprus" with autonomy for the two groups on the island.

Diplomatic sources said all of the 40 or more shots fired at the embassy during the anti-American demonstration by Greek Cypriots Monday were directed at either Davies' office or his penthouse apartment.

The sources said at least two gunmen were involved and that they used military weapons. They said they believed the arms may have been Soviet-made AK47 automatic rifles. These are the weapons issued to the Greek Cypriot national guard.

A government spokesman refused to identify the three wanted Greek Cypriots or say whether they were civilians, national guardsmen or guerrillas. Armed men wearing the military-type uniform of the EOKA-B, the guerrilla organization which backs the union of Cyprus with Greece, reportedly took part in the attack on the embassy.

Bursts of gunfire shattered the windows of the embassy, felling Davies with a fatal chest wound as he huddled in a corridor with staff members and other personel, embassy officials said.

Davies had taken over the post about a month ago, just before the overthrow of Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios which triggered the crisis on the Mediterranean island and brought Greece and Turkey to the brink of war.

Lindsey Grant, deputy head of the U.S. mission, flew back to Nicosia after being recalled from leave in Scotland. An embassy spokesman said L. Dean Brown, deputy undersecretary of state for management, would arrive on the plane being used to pick up Davies' body and serve as interim ambassador.

The Greek Cypriot radio in Nicosia described the situation on the island as quiet and calm.

The road from Limassol to Nicosia — the last route from the landlocked capital to the sea — remained open despite the threat from Turkish forces grouped less than five miles from the highway at a point 12 miles south of Nicosia.

"The Turks haven't moved since yesterday — yet," one Greek Cypriot soldier said.

The charge of Greek atrocities on Cyprus came from Turkish Information Minister Orhan Birgit.

"Fifty-seven of the 60 Turks living in the village of Atlilar near Famagusta have been massacred by the Greeks," he told newsmen in Ankara "Only an old and blind couple and a middle-aged man escaped the mass killing."

Birgit said Turkish reconnaissance planes spotted fresh mounds of earth at Atlilar and troops dug out the 57 bodies. He said foreign journalists would be permitted to visit the site.

FINALLY BAPTIZED . . . Baby Nathaniel is held by his mother as Fr. O'Rourke sprinkles holy water on him. The infant's father stands at wife's side.

Baptism Outside Locked Church

MARLBORO, Mass. (AP) — An infant denied baptism because of his mother's views on abortion was given the sacred Roman Catholic rite Tuesday on the steps of a locked church

The Rev. Joseph O'Rourke of New York defied his church superiors and splashed holy water on 3-month-old Nathaniel Morreale. Afterward, he said, "This is one of the greatest celebrations of life I've ever been to."

The pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis X. Meehan, refused to baptize the infant Aug. 11. Both he and the Archdiocese of Boston, which supported his stand, had no immediate comment on the ceremony.

The child's parents, Carol and Daniel Morreale, both 20, stood on the church steps with Bill Baird, a birth control advocate who is trying to set up an abortion clinic here

A crowd of about 300 stood in the street in front of the imposing brick church and clapped when Father O'Rourke said, "I baptize you, Nathaniel Morreale, in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit."

In a prayer, the priest decried "trivial conceits" and said, "Change our hearts of stone, our church of stone, into hearts of flesh "

The controversy over the baptism began when Mrs. Morreale was quoted in a newspaper as saying she favored a proposal by Baird, who runs abortion clinics in Boston and on Long Island, to open another clinic in Marlboro.

When the Morreales took their child to Immaculate Conception Church to be baptized on Aug. 11, Father Meehan and the Rev. John J Roussin refused. They said they questioned whether the boy would be raised as a Catholic

A factor in their decision, they said, was Mrs Morreale's support of Baird and the proposed clinic

Baird and the mother issued an appeal for a priest to perform the baptism, and Father O'Rourke, a director of a group called Catholics for a Free Choice, agreed to do it

When the ceremony broke up Tuesday, a few people shouted "baby killer," "abortionist pig" and other slogans

As the parents slipped away from the crowd, Mrs Morreale said, "I'm very happy."

After the ceremony, the priests of the parish issued a statement questioning whether the Catholic Church would recognize the child as one of its own members in light of the forbidden nature of the ceremony

The baptism "is surely as valid as any baptism in any Christian church. . .," the statement said. "It seems clear, however, that the child is not baptized into the ecclesial community of the faith that we call the Roman Catholic Church "

Signing Of Pension Reform Bill Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive compromise pension reform bill, hailed as one of the most important measures of this Congress, sailed through the House Tuesday amid Republican predictions that President Ford will sign it.

The House vote, sending it to the Senate for final action, was 407-2, with only Reps. James M. Collins, R-Tex., and Earl F. Landgrebe, R-Ind., in dissent. A chief supporter, Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., called it "a red letter day."

Asked by a reporter if Ford would sign it, Erlenborn replied: 'Without any doubt." Rep. Barber B Conable, R-N Y., agreed that Ford would accept the bill which emerged from a lengthy Senate-House conference session

Supporters said the bill's major goal is assuring that workers who are promised retirement benefits will actually get them. While the bill would not force companies to provide pension plans, it would set rules for existing ones and any started from now on.

It contains standards to guard plan participants, would grant workers permanent rights to future pensions after a specific time in a plan, would fix contribution standards to protect against problems of inadequate financing, and would set up an employer-financed and government-run insurance system to guard against loss of benefits if a plan fails.

There would be more generous tax breaks for wealthier professional people such as lawyers and doctors who would get a tax deduction by setting aside up to $7,500 a year into personal retirement plans compared to a present limit of $2,500 annually.

Furthermore, for the first time, workers who are not covered by any company plan could set up similar individual retirement programs but the maximum tax-deductible contribution would be $1,500 a year.

Chicago-Portland Train Restoration Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives and senators from several midwestern and western states urged the Department of Transportation Tuesday to restore passenger train service between Chicago and Portland, Ore., in 1975.

Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, told Transportation Undersecretary John Barnum the proposed route would "have the highest load factors (number of people compared to the number of available seats) of all Amtrak routes now proposed."

He also claimed the track between the two cities is in good shape and would need little maintenance work to keep it up to passenger service requirements.

Owens and other congressmen appeared at a meeting called by the Western Association of Railroad Passengers, a Carroll, Iowa, group that has been trying for two years to get passenger train service restored on the route.

WARP claims the route would be compatible with other Amtrak routes and would have potential profitability.

It says questionnaires carried in local newspapers along the proposed routes showed that 96 per cent of the 80,000 persons who responded would use passenger train service if it were available.

Fifty per cent would travel up to 50 miles in order to take a passenger train, WARP said.

Bill Keith, WARP chairman, suggested Amtrak run an inspection train along the route and "we'll show you what these people can do for Amtrak and not what Amtrak can do for us."

He said WARP was formed to represent "people who have taxation without transportation," a comment directed to the government subsidy of Amtrak's operations.

WARP has proposed that two trains be started on an experimental basis over the route.

One train would go from Chicago to Portland through Granger, Wyo.

The other would branch off at Granger and head south to Los Angeles.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said Amtrak's "fine service through southern Nebraska" already is operating at capacity.

He noted that in 1969, the last year passenger trains ran over that route, there were 125 on boardings and 129 off-boarding in Nebraska each day.

"That's enough for two full passenger cars per day in Nebraska alone," he said.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he has proposed an amendment to Amtrak's authority that would require it to operate in all states, and noted the proposed route would bring passenger train service to his home state.

VFW Rejects Ford's Feeler

Chicago (UPI) — Answering "President Ford's feeler," members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars voted unanimously Tuesday against conditional amnesty for Vietnam war deserters and draft evaders.

"This is our answer to President Ford's feeler," said James Van Zant, former VFW, commander and former GOP congressman from Pennsylvania. It was only Monday that the President proposed conditional amnesty in a speech to the VFW's 75th annual convention.

The convention unanimously passed two resolutions reaffirming the 1.8 million member organization's long-standing opposition to amnesty.

"We sustain total opposition to general and selective 'amnesty' for draft dodgers and military deserters and that they should be required to stand trial for their crimes and shall pay such penalties upon conviction as laws prescribe," one resolution said.

The other said the VFW members continue "total commitment to pursue their 'no amnesty' doctrine through our membership to congressmen and to the American people and to be firm in our stand not to relinquish, dilute or compromise this position."

New York Times News Summary

Controls Not Mandatory

Washington — President Ford announced after a meeting with leaders of Congress that there will be no federal mandatory wage and price controls. He said the leaders were unanimous that this Congress would not approve such legislation. His brief statement evidently sought to head off price increases or wage demands made in anticipation of new controls.

Court Seeks Views

Washington — The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington ordered all parties in the Watergate cover-up trial to file by noon Wednesday their views on the postponement sought by the prosecution and four of six defendants. They had appealed the ruling of Federal District Judge John J. Sirica that the trial would begin Sept. 9.

U.S. Urges Global Effort

Bucharest, Romania — At the U.N. world population conference, the United States urged a concerted effort to curb global population growth. In contrast, India said such efforts would fail without radical revision of the entire world's economics under which the wastage of resources by affluent countries' "super-consumerism" is "appalling." A parallel but unofficial population conference in the Romanian capital heard an American speaker warn that the world has food reserves for only 27 days. Lester R. Brown said shortages in countries dependent on Asian and American exports are likely to grow worse each year.

Concern Considerable

Detroit — Ford President Lee Iacocca said the $500 automobile price hike next month "will not be the end" of price increases on 1975 models. In an interview, he said that Ford profits are down to less than $100 per car in the U.S. while costs are going up at the rate of $50 per month per car.

Resignation Accepted

Seoul — The South Korean government announced that President Park Chung Hee has accepted the resignation of his long-time confidant and bodyguard, Pak Chung Gyu, who assumed responsibility for the death of Mrs. Park during the assassination attempt against the president last Thursday. Park thus lost his most trusted and influential aide.

Paris — Ten million strong and bursting with anger, the Common Market farmers are on the rampage again, burning crops and blocking roads to protest the failure of their incomes to keep pace with the cost of living.

"I am not prepared to provoke a return of the military," he said. "I won't give them that great pleasure."

Intensified Efforts Asked

Washington — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said one of President Ford's first acts in office had been to ask Soviet leaders to intensify efforts "to negotiate an effective and equitable limitation of strategic arms." In a speech to the American Legion convention in Miami Beach, he pledged that without such agreements, "we will maintain American strategic strength whatever the cost."

Nixon Impeachment Proceeding Ended

Washington (UPI) — The House officially ended the second presidential impeachment proceeding in history Tuesday by accepting the House Judiciary Committee's report but taking no stand on the conclusion that Richard M. Nixon should have been ousted from office.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who carefully led his 38-member committee and 100-member inquiry staff through nearly 10 months of investigation, research and interrogation, ended his panel's work with a 12-word announcement on the floor.

"Mr. Speaker, I submit a privileged report pursuant to House Resolution 803," he said. Speaker Carl Albert replied, "The report will be referred to the calender and ordered to be printed."

With that bit of formality, the impeachment proceedings against Nixon was ended. The report — which accused Nixon of lying to the American people, violating laws or causing them to be violated, and subverting the Constitution — became a part of history and a precedent for any future presidential impeachment.

The only other one was the 1868 impeachment of Andrew Johnson, who was acquitted in the Senate by a single vote.

Although the House intentionally avoided a vote expressing a sentiment on impeachment, a resolution by Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill was accepted.

It cited the chronology of the panel's official actions, including its votes on three articles of impeachment July 27, 29 and 30, and Nixon's Aug. 9 resignation which made further impeachment proceedings moot.

The resolution said the House accepts the report and "commends the chairman and other members of the Committee on the Judiciary for their conscientious and capable efforts in carrying out the committee's responsibilities under House Resolution 803."

The vote on the O'Neill resolution was 412 to 3 with 19 members not voting.

The House's final action came on the day when, if Nixon had not resigned, it would have been in its second full day of debate on the impeachment question.

Aug. 20 also was the 10-month anniversary of Nixon's firing of Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, since labeled the "Saturday Night Massacre" and giving rise to the impeachment proceedings.

The report of several hundred pages laid out the evidence which brought the panel to its unanimous conclusion that Nixon should have been impeached for obstruction of justice.

It also included special counsel John Doar's compilation of the evidence which led 28 members of the committee to conclude he was guilty of abuse and power and 21 members to voet that he should have been impeached for failure to comply with committee subpoenas.

Chicago-Portland Train Restoration Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives and senators from several midwestern and western states urged the Department of Transportation Tuesday to restore passenger train service between Chicago and Portland, Ore., in 1975.

Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, told Transportation Undersecretary John Barnum the proposed route would "have the highest load factors (number of people compared to the number of available seats) of all Amtrak routes now proposed."

He also claimed the track between the two cities is in good shape and would need little maintenance work to keep it up to passenger service requirements.

Owens and other congressmen appeared at a meeting called by the Western Association of Railroad Passengers, a Carroll, Iowa, group that has been trying for two years to get passenger train service restored on the route.

WARP claims the route would be compatible with other Amtrak routes and would have potential profitability.

It says questionnaires carried in local newspapers along the proposed routes showed that 96 per cent of the 80,000 persons who responded would use passenger train service if it were available.

Fifty per cent would travel up to 50 miles in order to take a passenger train, WARP said.

Bill Keith, WARP chairman, suggested Amtrak run an inspection train along the route and "we'll show you what these people can do for Amtrak and not what Amtrak can do for us."

He said WARP was formed to represent "people who have taxation without transportation," a comment directed to the government subsidy of Amtrak's operations.

WARP has proposed that two trains be started on an experimental basis over the route.

One train would go from Chicago to Portland through Granger, Wyo.

The other would branch off at Granger and head south to Los Angeles.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said Amtrak's "fine service through southern Nebraska" already is operating at capacity.

He noted that in 1969, the last year passenger trains ran over that route, there were 125 on boardings and 129 off-boarding in Nebraska each day.

"That's enough for two full passenger cars per day in Nebraska alone," he said.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he has proposed an amendment to Amtrak's authority that would require it to operate in all states, and noted the proposed route would bring passenger train service to his home state.

VFW Rejects Ford's Feeler

Chicago (UPI) — Answering "President Ford's feeler," members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars voted unanimously Tuesday against conditional amnesty for Vietnam war deserters and draft evaders.

"This is our answer to President Ford's feeler," said James Van Zant, former VFW, commander and former GOP congressman from Pennsylvania. It was only Monday that the President proposed conditional amnesty in a speech to the VFW's 75th annual convention.

The convention unanimously passed two resolutions reaffirming the 1.8 million member organization's long-standing opposition to amnesty.

"We sustain total opposition to general and selective 'amnesty' for draft dodgers and military deserters and that they should be required to stand trial for their crimes and shall pay such penalties upon conviction as laws prescribe," one resolution said.

The other said the VFW members continue "total commitment to pursue their 'no amnesty' doctrine through our membership to congressmen and to the American people and to be firm in our stand not to relinquish, dilute or compromise this position."

Controls Not Mandatory

Washington — President Ford announced after a meeting with leaders of Congress that there will be no federal mandatory wage and price controls. He said the leaders were unanimous that this Congress would not approve such legislation. His brief statement evidently sought to head off price increases or wage demands made in anticipation of new controls.

Court Seeks Views

Washington — The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington ordered all parties in the Watergate cover-up trial to file by noon Wednesday their views on the postponement sought by the prosecution and four of six defendants. They had appealed the ruling of Federal District Judge John J. Sirica that the trial would begin Sept. 9.

U.S. Urges Global Effort

Bucharest, Romania — At the U.N. world population conference, the United States urged a concerted effort to curb global population growth. In contrast, India said such efforts would fail without radical revision of the entire world's economics under which the wastage of resources by affluent countries' "super-consumerism" is "appalling." A parallel but unofficial population conference in the Romanian capital heard an American speaker warn that the world has food reserves for only 27 days. Lester R. Brown said shortages in countries dependent on Asian and American exports are likely to grow worse each year.

Rockefeller: Disdain To Acclaim

Not many years ago, Nelson Rockefeller stood before the GOP national convention and faced the booes and catcalls of the assembled delegates. That must have seemed like a long time ago to him as he stood before the microphones Tuesday morning as President Ford's nominee for vice president.

In picking Rockefeller, Ford went for largely an opposite of himself. Ford is relatively quiet while Rockefeller is more of an extrovert. The President is a man of practicality while his nominee is known more for his idealism.

The former New York governor has always been considered a part of his party's left wing while Ford has been in the right-wing camp. It is said, however, that Rockefeller has been cultivating the GOP conservatives of late.

Both Ford and Rockefeller, of course, are veterans of many a political war. They are, together, highly experienced in public affairs, with Rockefeller having an edge in the area of administration and Ford's strong suit found in the legislative branch.

The selection of Rockefeller, therefore, adds a great deal of balance to the White House team. Looking at the situation from a kind of mathematical point of view, one would say that the nomination puts the administrative branch right smack in the middle of Main Street politics.

Such, however, is not what we would hope for. The better situation would be for one or the other man to prevail in large part at various times on various issues, thereby giving the country the best of each rather than a total compromise of the two.

Rockefeller, also, will add an international flavor to the Ford administration that the President himself did not have.

Politically, the selection should be more of an asset than a liability. Certainly, the liberal Republicans will applaud Rockefeller and the conservatives can hardly enter much complaint when one of their own is still the head man.

While this writer is not a big Rockefeller fan, the New Yorker must be recognized as a man of substantial ability, of dedication and of integrity. His nomination must be chalked up as another good decision by the new Ford administration.

Somebody Should Know

County attorneys testifying before a legislative subcommittee this week want a change in the procedure for determining the court in which juveniles would be tried. Currently, the court determination is made by the county attorney involved who must file an affidavit stating how he made his determination.

It was said in this week's testimony that there was not enough time to compile the affidavit.

And what does the affidavit ask? It requires such information as the type of treatment that would be best for the juvenile, violence and premeditation in the crime, motivation, the sophistication of the crime, maturity of the juvenile, facilities available for the youth in the juvenile system and the best alternative for society and the juvenile.

Perhaps the county attorneys are right in maintaining this asks more of them than should be expected. But somewhere along the line, these are the kind of things that should be the determining factors in the disposition of juvenile cases.

If these determinations fall to the courts, then that is fine but no juvenile case ought to rest solely on the county attorney's charges and evidence. Such should not be the procedure, that is, if society intends any kind of rehabilitation of youthful offenders.

To do otherwise would be to make hardened criminals out of young people who might otherwise be salvaged. Not all of them will be salvaged but the effort is worth making if only a small percentage of them can be turned away from a life of continual crime.

If there is anything wrong with the law as it now stands governing the prosecution of juveniles, it is in the procedure, not in the requirements themselves. The information required by the law is exactly what needs to be provided at some point along the way if we are to intelligently dispose of these cases.

If not the county attorneys, the courts would be next in line of responsibility for making these determinations. If the criminal law process lacks at every point the capacity to meet this responsibility, then that capacity must simply be provided.

Watergate And Chappaquiddick

WASHINGTON — In going over the side, Richard Nixon may have taken Edward Kennedy down with him.

Sen. Kennedy remains well in the lead as the prospective Democratic nominee in 1976. But Nixon's collapse makes the nomination worth considerably less to him than it would have been otherwise. After the public has rebelled against a cover-up at the Watergate, will it buy a cover-up at Chappaquiddick?

If Nixon had been less directly involved in Watergate, he could have survived in office until the end of his term. That would have been ideal from a Democratic Party viewpoint. The next presidential election would then have been fought between two non-incumbents with the G.O.P. candidate carrying the burden of an unpopular, scandal-stained administration.

As it is, President Ford comes on as Mr. Clean and will have the advantages of incumbency The 1976 campaign may thus turn on normal economic and foreign policy issues.

The problem for the Democrats, however, is that if Kennedy is their nominee, it will be hard to focus attention on those normal issues and on such mistakes as Ford may have made by then. Instead, the Republicans will have no difficulty establishing as the prime question — do you believe Sen. Kennedy's story of what happened that night at Chappaquiddick?

SEN. KENNEDY
. . the facts and the judgment . .

The drowning of Mary Jo Kopechne and Kennedy's failure to notify police promptly or to seek help from a nearby house would have become an issue whenever he ran for president. But if Nixon had clung to power through the next election, Kennedy and his managers might have been able to establish in the public mind the fiction that Chappaquiddick was an old story, that it had all been hashed over before, and that it was in rather bad taste for any Republican to bring up the subject. As the saying goes, why rake up the dead past?

Under those circumstances, the Chappaquiddick story would only have percolated below ground. But after the paroxysm of press expose, public indignation, and congressional investigation of Watergate, there is no chance that the Chappaquiddick story can be pushed underground. It has become legitimized as a topic of political controversy. The public will expect to get all the facts and will expect to make a judgment on those facts as it did on Nixon's case.

The facts have not been forthcoming yet. No autopsy was performed. The coroner's inquest was a feeble and inconclusive affair. Senator Kennedy's speech to the people of Massachusetts was in the inglorious tradition of Nixon's "Checkers" speech, a mixture of partial and self-serving information mingled with and overwhelmed by an emotional plea for sympathy. It cannot stand as Kennedy's final word on the affair.

Robert Sherrill's article in the New York Times Magazine for July 14, 1974 entitled "Chappaquiddick Plus 5" was a major political event. Sherrill raised pertinent unanswered questions and pointed out serious discrepancies in the authorized Kennedy version of events. Unless Kennedy can clearly respond to those questions and reconcile those discrepancies, they will dog his footsteps throughout the next presidential race.

His reluctance to face the Chappaquiddick issue confronts his party with another problem. As long as he remains a potential candidate in 1976, his shadow keeps the sunlight from reaching any other putative Democratic nominee.

It is easy to understand why. Aside from his famous name and his family's legend, he is a superb candidate. He is an excellent speaker able to put serious issues in clear and dramatic terms: he has physical presence, an easy charm, and goes at the grueling business of campaigning with verve and gusto. Contrary to what was said of him when he first ran for the Senate a dozen years ago, he would be a formidable candidate today even if his name were Edward Moore. But because his name is Kennedy he has a devoted constituency that would make him a hard man to beat in a Democratic primary in any northern state.

That loyal constituency can nominate him but by itself cannot elect him. Can he persuade the independent voters as long as the full truth of Chappaquiddick remains unexplained? That is the question that haunts other politicians in his party including many who are sympathetic to him.

The Democrats are not bereft of other talent. Aside from several well-known senators, there are others deserving of serious consideration such as Rep. Sidney Yates of Illinois and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, Mayor Kevin White of Boston and former Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, and Governors Reubin Askew of Florida and John Gilligan of Ohio.

But these alternative candidates cannot capture sufficient attention to be discussed seriously As of now, none of them has his visible political strength but it is entirely possible that one of them could be elected in 1976 and that Kennedy could not. Until he resolves the Chappaquiddick mystery to the satisfaction of fair-minded people or withdraws from the race, however, the Kennedy problem will loom darkly over the Democratic Party's future.

The Reverse Presumers Of Guilt

WASHINGTON — "A man is innocent until proven guilty." Great words, the cornerstone of our legal system. Who said them?

Apparently nobody ever said them. Bartlett's Quotations offers no help, and the compilations of Bergen Evans and H. L. Mencken are silent on the phase. Burton Stevenson's magnificent quote-finder cites a line written in 1772: "Where the guilt is doubtful, a presumption of innocence should in general be admitted."

The Englishman who wrote that about the time of American independence went by the pen name of "Junius." Unlike most pseudonymous authors, he took the secret of his identity to his grave; not even his publisher knew who "Junius" was.

We do know, from his writings, that the coiner of "presumption of innocence" hated King George III and his ministers. Paradoxically, Junius did not presume the targets of his poison-pen letters to be innocent: he presumed the men around the king to be corrupt, and from his secret hiding place, vilified the high and mighty.

Since Junius would have been silenced immediately had he been found out, his ability to remain anonymous served the public interest. But there are Juniuses with us today who abuse the screen of secrecy as they play upon the new inclination of many Americans to presume a man guilty until he proves himself innocent

Take for example, the attempt to assassinate the character of Nelson Rockefeller A tipster who wanted to block Rockefeller's chances for the vice presidency took advantage of the presumption of guilt that fills this city like an ignitable gas.

Responding to press queries about the tipster's bait, an unnamed "White House official," later identified as the President's press secretary, was quoted as saying information had come to the White House implicating Rockefeller in "Watergate-type" campaign activities, and that the claims had been sent to Special Prosecutor Jaworski's office for investigation.

As rumors flew, the press secretary issued a statement, based on the special prosecutor's report, that the information originally sent to the White House counsel, Mr. Philip Buchen, was "without foundation."

My first reaction to the story was to dismiss it as a smear, mishandled perhaps by a new press secretary who did not yet know the ropes. But I had been on battlements over the past year, denouncing "smear," while the wood of the battlements rotted beneath me: this time, the temptation was to sit back and watch the rumors spread

Radio newscasts based on wire service flashes made the top national news in its raw form; newspaper reporters on longer deadlines were forced to cover not only the story, but the story of the story. How would the suspicion of "Watergate-style" wrongdoing, even if unfounded, affect President Ford's choice of Rockefeller as vice president? Wasn't there a requirement that the vice president not only be clean, but appear clean as well?

ROCKEFELLER
. . 'unnamed' tipster grabbed advantage

As the story was being shot down, the worry was about all those people who might be saying, "Where there's smoke, there's fire." In the recent past, there turned out to be fire raging beneath the smoke; it is hard to remind people now that where there is smoke there is sometimes somebody with evil intent operating a smoke machine.

Because the communication of accusation is now on such a hairtrigger, the presumption of innocence is the first line of defense against tyrannous prosecution of the accused and against the abuse of the power of the press. How do we assert that presumption again, after a president and vice president have given it a bad name?

We rebuild our resistance to the men who seek to gain high place over the bodies of their fellows We treat with suspicion those sniper shots from concealed positions, and object to attribution of charges from "sources" or "White House officials." We redirect our skepticism, which now surrounds denials, and aim it again at those who make the accusation.

The presumers of innocence are the gullibles, the people who are sometimes proven wrong with a vengeance. The presumers of guilt rarely look foolish, and for years will gleefully respond to any charge with the word "Watergate" in it, but it is they who weaken our system of justice as they debilitate our politics.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There must be others besides myself who would like to know how we can help a member of our family in a nursing home to have some physical therapy. They get so little exercise walking from their room to the dining room and back. Soon they are bed patients only because of inactivity. There must be something we can do to help them. They are not allowed to go outdoors by themselves because they might wander off. It seems to me some sort of physical therapy should be required in every nursing home. Please comment and tell how we can help. — E. G.

For openers, you might arrange to go to the nursing home fairly frequently and take your relative for walks. The mental stimulation of having these visits might be even more useful than the sheer exercise.

As I've written in this column before, just plain boredom plays gradual havoc with anybody, young or old, and homes with programs of activities, however simple, for their occupants, are making a valuable contribution to them.

When you suggest making "physical therapy" mandatory in nursing homes, I'm afraid that you are asking for more than you realize. Such a requirement would add very substantially to the cost of such homes, and it would have to reflect in the charges made for such care

But I do feel that keeping people interested has a tremendous impact on their well-being.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an awful time with bee stings until I remembered that if you mix a teaspoon of meat tenderizer with two or three drops of water to make a paste and smear it on, it counteracts the sting. No swelling or hurt. — P. J.

I've reported this in my column, but it's useful enough to bear repeating once a year. Thanks for reminding.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a mole on the side of my face and would like to know how to get rid of it without having to pay a lot of money. — K.A.B.

No way for you to do it yourself. But removal of a mole is quite simple for a physician. Since it is on the face, I would recommend that you have a dermatologist remove it. Or if it is in a particularly prominent spot, you might want a plastic surgeon to do it. It is not, in most cases, an expensive procedure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband desperately needs dialysis treatment because of failing kidneys. He recently underwent preliminary work at the hospital and was told to report for kidney treatment in a few days. Friends have informed me, however, that if a patient is bedridden (my husband is) the dialysis treatment would not help him. I desperately need some advice. — Mrs. C. K.

With "friends" like that, you don't need enemies! Why do they spout off about things they don't understand? What they told you is wrong. Kidney dialysis can be arranged even in the home if necessary. The National Kidney Foundation, which I am sure has a branch in or near your city, should be contacted about that. I'm sure the people at the hospital can help put you in touch — so listen to the advice you get at the hospital and shut your ears to false notions.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered with a sun rash when I go in direct sunlight and wonder if it is a lack of vitamin or something. If so what vitamin should I take? Or would a suntan lotion help? — J.F.

There's no vitamin deficiency which causes that. You evidently have developed a sensitivity to the ultraviolet rays, a problem shared by quite a few others. A suntan lotion, if it is one that contains a "sun screen" ingredient which filters out some ultraviolet, can help within limits, but your best course is to avoid the amount of sun that brings on the rash.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Specifically what is a low-fat diet? I have been put on one by my doctor due to gall bladder inflammation. — H. B.

It means exactly what it says — avoid fats in your food, because a cranky gall bladder can't be as helpful as it should be in digesting fats. So don't eat fried foods, trim fat off meat and eat the lean, and use butter or oleo sparingly. Skim milk or 2 per cent milk has had much of the fat removed from it.

The Vandenberg Connection

WASHINGTON — President Ford has recently been reading and praising George E. Reedy's excellent little book, "The Twilight of the Presidency," and passing it out to members of his staff. This tells us something about the new skipper and his approach to his job.

For Reedy, who has a long experience as a reporter and staff officer in Congress and as President Johnson's press secretary in the White House, argues in this book that the White House is an elegant trap which surrounds the president with flattery and machinery that distort his judgment by removing him from reality.

This was a prophetic book. It was published in 1970 long before the downfall of President Nixon, but it defines with remarkable foresight the dangers of secrecy, conspiracy and isolation that finally brought Nixon down.

What presidents need, Reedy suggests, is not to be protected by a young adoring White House staff and a timid cabinet that tells him nothing except what he wants to hear, but to be confronted by the hard facts and to be told once in a while by men beyond the age of ambition that he's not only wrong but "stupid."

Ford probably likes the Reedy book because it supports his natural way of doing things. He was never in much danger of locking himself up in the White House like Nixon. Over the weekend, he has been asking Kissinger for the awkward facts on Cyprus, inviting men and women of all persuasions to the White House, even reporters, and finding time to play golf, which is a torture that reminds all men of their imperfectijons.

But this is just the beginning of the problem. After you avoid isolation from reality within the White House, open up the doors, invite honest dissent from the White House staff, the cabinet, the Congress and the press, what do you do about the fundamental realities of inflation at home and hunger, monetary chaos and military aggression abroad?

All the people coming through these open White House doors now are impressed by the friendliness and good will on the other side, but King Hussein of Jordan, who was there over the weekend, has one view of "reality" in the Mediterranean and the Middle East, and many of the other guests have a different view.

In just a few days, the new President has made great progress primarily because he was not Richard Nixon, but looked like Ike and sounded like Harry Truman. He has changed the style of the White House and revived the spirit of the country. Now he has to deal with the larger realities of policy, and decide where he's going.

Perhaps the coming question is how his view of the nation and the world will be changed by his new responsibility. Every day since he has been in the White House, he has invited Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to brief him for at least an hour on one foreign problem at a time. The outcome of this will be interesting, since Kissinger is for cutting the military budget and the President is for keeping it where it is.

Ford will be doing the same close questioning with other members of his cabinet on other subjects. He has heard much contradictory advice before on the state of the nation and the world, as vice president and for 25 years in the Congress, but now he has to decide, as Harry Truman had to decide after the death of Roosevelt, and as Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan had to decide after he became chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee in the critical days after the last world war

The Vandenberg connection with Ford is interesting. They both came from Grand Rapids. In the formative years of Ford's political career in the House, Sen. Vandenberg was a towering figure first in Michigan and then in national and world politics.

Vandenberg started as an aggressive nationalist and isolationist, but as the world changed and his role in politics changed, he also changed from a party and regional man to a leader in the bipartisan transformation of American policy. This had a profound effect on Ford's own philosophy on U.S. responsibility for maintaining peace in the world.

The question now is whether Ford as president will change his views on domestic policy, on the military budget, on how to deal with inflation, high prices, wages, and the plight of the poor and the old, who are the principal victims of the present economic and financial crisis.

Beyond this lies a related but even more ominous problem. Ford, like Vandenberg, has accepted the policy of collective military security to avoid world war. But the emerging problem is not military but economic security What to do about the rising price of food and other raw materials, how to avoid disruption through inflation in the advanced countries and mass starvation in the poor countries, as world population outruns the supplies of available food and political cooperation.

There is nothing in Ford's voting record to suggest that he is prepared to grapple yet with these momentous questions. He is a conservative faced with radical problems, a big defense budget man confronted with either cutting the military budget or the social services or something else.

In short, he will have no trouble accepting George Reedy's advice to stay loose and available and listen to the facts, but the "facts" and the "realities" are formidable and will force him, as they did Vandenberg from his own home town, to reappraise his whole economic philosophy, or as Lincoln said, to think anew as our conditions are new

Not many years ago, Nelson Rockefeller stood before the GOP national convention and faced the booes and catcalls of the assembled delegates. That must have seemed like a long time ago to him as he stood before the microphones Tuesday morning as President Ford's nominee for vice president.

In picking Rockefeller, Ford went for largely an opposite of himself. Ford is relatively quiet while Rockefeller is more of an extrovert. The President is a man of practicality while his nominee is known more for his idealism.

The former New York governor has always been considered a part of his party's left wing while Ford has been in the right-wing camp. It is said, however, that Rockefeller has been cultivating the GOP conservatives of late.

Both Ford and Rockefeller, of course, are veterans of many a political war. They are, together, highly experienced in public affairs, with Rockefeller having an edge in the area of administration and Ford's strong suit found in the legislative branch.

The selection of Rockefeller, therefore, adds a great deal of balance to the White House team. Looking at the situation from a kind of mathematical point of view, one would say that the nomination puts the administrative branch right smack in the middle of Main Street politics.

Such, however, is not what we would hope for. The better situation would be for one or the other man to prevail in large part at various times on various issues, thereby giving the country the best of each rather than a total compromise of the two.

Rockefeller, also, will add an international flavor to the Ford administration that the President himself did not have.

Politically, the selection should be more of an asset than a liability. Certainly, the liberal Republicans will applaud Rockefeller and the conservatives can hardly enter much complaint when one of their own is still the head man.

While this writer is not a big Rockefeller fan, the New Yorker must be recognized as a man of substantial ability, of dedication and of integrity. His nomination must be chalked up as another good decision by the new Ford administration.

Somebody Should Know

County attorneys testifying before a legislative subcommittee this week want a change in the procedure for determining the court in which juveniles would be tried. Currently, the court determination is made by the county attorney involved who must file an affidavit stating how he made his determination.

It was said in this week's testimony that there was not enough time to compile the affidavit.

And what does the affidavit ask? It requires such information as the type of treatment that would be best for the juvenile, violence and premeditation in the crime, motivation, the sophistication of the crime, maturity of the juvenile, facilities available for the youth in the juvenile system and the best alternative for society and the juvenile.

Perhaps the county attorneys are right in maintaining this asks more of them than should be expected. But somewhere along the line, these are the kind of things that should be the determining factors in the disposition of juvenile cases.

If these determinations fall to the courts, then that is fine but no juvenile case ought to rest solely on the county attorney's charges and evidence. Such should not be the procedure, that is, if society intends any kind of rehabilitation of youthful offenders.

To do otherwise would be to make hardened criminals out of young people who might otherwise be salvaged. Not all of them will be salvaged but the effort is worth making if only a small percentage of them can be turned away from a life of continual crime.

If there is anything wrong with the law as it now stands governing the prosecution of juveniles, it is in the procedure, not in the requirements themselves. The information required by the law is exactly what needs to be provided at some point along the way if we are to intelligently dispose of these cases.

If not the county attorneys, the courts would be next in line of responsibility for making these determinations. If the criminal law process lacks at every point the capacity to meet this responsibility, then that capacity must simply be provided.

Watergate And Chappaquiddick

WASHINGTON — In going over the side, Richard Nixon may have taken Edward Kennedy down with him.

Sen. Kennedy remains well in the lead as the prospective Democratic nominee in 1976. But Nixon's collapse makes the nomination worth considerably less to him than it would have been otherwise. After the public has rebelled against a cover-up at the Watergate, will it buy a cover-up at Chappaquiddick?

If Nixon had been less directly involved in Watergate, he could have survived in office until the end of his term. That would have been ideal from a Democratic Party viewpoint. The next presidential election would then have been fought between two non-incumbents with the G.O.P. candidate carrying the burden of an unpopular, scandal-stained administration.

As it is, President Ford comes on as Mr. Clean and will have the advantages of incumbency The 1976 campaign may thus turn on normal economic and foreign policy issues.

☆ ☆ ☆

The problem for the Democrats, however, is that if Kennedy is their nominee, it will be hard to focus attention on those normal issues and on such mistakes as Ford may have made by then. Instead, the Republicans will have no difficulty establishing as the prime question — do you believe Sen. Kennedy's story of what happened that night at Chappaquiddick?

SEN. KENNEDY
. . the facts and the judgment .

The drowning of Mary Jo Kopechne and Kennedy's failure to notify police promptly or to seek help from a nearby house would have become an issue whenever he ran for president. But if Nixon had clung to power through the next election, Kennedy and his managers might have been able to establish in the public mind the fiction that Chappaquiddick was an old story, that it had all been hashed over before, and that it was in rather bad taste for any Republican to bring up the subject. As the saying goes, why rake up the dead past?

Under those circumstances, the Chappaquiddick story would only have percolated below ground. But after the paroxysm of press expose, public indignation, and congressional investigation of Watergate, there is no chance that the Chappaquiddick story can be pushed underground. It has become legitimized as a topic of political controversy. The public will expect to get all the facts and will expect to make a judgment on those facts as it did on Nixon's case.

The facts have not been forthcoming yet. No autopsy was performed. The coroner's inquest was a feeble and inconclusive affair. Senator Kennedy's speech to the people of Massachusetts was in the inglorious tradition of Nixon's "Checkers" speech, a mixture of partial and self-serving information mingled with and overwhelmed by an emotional plea for sympathy. It cannot stand as Kennedy's final word on the affair.

Robert Sherrill's article in the New York Times Magazine for July 14, 1974 entitled "Chappaquiddick Plus 5" was a major political event. Sherrill raised pertinent unanswered questions and pointed out serious discrepancies in the authorized Kennedy versio1 of events. Unless Kennedy can clearly respond to those questions and reconcile those discrepancies, they will dog his footsteps throughout the next presidential race.

His reluctance to face the Chappaquiddick issue confronts his party with another problem. As long as he remains a potential candidate in 1976, his shadow keeps the sunlight from reaching any other putative Democratic nominee.

It is easy to understand why. Aside from his famous name and his family's legend, he is a superb candidate. He is an excellent speaker able to put serious issues in clear and dramatic terms: he has physical presence, an easy charm, and goes at the grueling business of campaigning with verve and gusto. Contrary to what was said of him when he first ran for the Senate a dozen years ago, he would be a formidable candidate today even if his name were Edward Moore. But because his name is Kennedy he has a devoted constituency that would make him a hard man to beat in a Democratic primary in any northern state.

That loyal constituency can nominate him but by itself cannot elect him. Can he persuade the independent voters as long as the full truth of Chappaquiddick remains unexplained? That is the question that haunts other politicians in his party including many who are sympathetic to him.

The Democrats are not bereft of other talent. Aside from several well-known senators, there are others deserving of serious consideration such as Rep. Sidney Yates of Illinois and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona. Mayor Kevin White of Boston and former Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, and Governors Reubin Askew of Florida and John Gilligan of Ohio.

But these alternative candidates cannot capture sufficient attention to be discussed seriously As of now, none of them has his visible political strength but it is entirely possible that one of them could be elected in 1976 and that Kennedy could not. Until he resolves the Chappaquiddick mystery to the satisfaction of fair-minded people or withdraws from the race, however, the Kennedy problem will loom darkly over the Democratic Party's future.

The Reverse Presumers Of Guilt

WASHINGTON — "A man is innocent until proven guilty." Great words, the cornerstone of our legal system. Who said them?

Apparently nobody ever said them. Bartlett's Quotations offers no help, and the compilations of Bergen Evans and H. L. Mencken are silent on the phase. Burton Stevenson's magnificent quote-finder cites a line written in 1772: "Where the guilt is doubtful, a presumption of innocence should in general be admitted."

The Englishman who wrote that about the time of American independence went by the pen name of "Junius." Unlike most pseudonymous authors, he took the secret of his identity to his grave; not even his publisher knew who "Junius" was.

We do know, from his writings, that the coiner of "presumption of innocence" hated King George III and his ministers. Paradoxically, Junius did not presume the targets of his poison-pen letters to be innocent; he presumed the men around the king to be corrupt, and from his secret hiding place, vilified the high and mighty.

Since Junius would have been silenced immediately had he been found out, his ability to remain anonymous served the public interest. But there are Juniuses with us today who abuse the screen of secrecy as they play upon the new inclination of many Americans to presume a man guilty until he proves himself innocent

Take for example, the attempt to assassinate the character of Nelson Rockefeller A tipster who wanted to block Rockefeller's chances for the vice presidency took advantage of the presumption of guilt that fills this city like an ignitable gas.

Responding to press queries about the tipster's bait, an unnamed "White House official," later identified as the President's press secretary, was quoted as saying information had come to the White House implicating Rockefeller in "Watergate-type" campaign activities, and that the claims had been sent to Special Prosecutor Jaworski's office for investigation.

As rumors flew, the press secretary issued a statement, based on the special prosecutor's report, that the information originally sent to the White House counsel, Mr. Philip Buchen, was "without foundation."

My first reaction to the story was to dismiss it as a smear, mishandled perhaps by a new press secretary who did not yet know the ropes. But I had been on battlements over the past year, denouncing "smear." while the wood of the battlements rotted beneath me: this time, the temptation was to sit back and watch the rumors spread

Radio newscasts based on wire service flashes made the top national news in its raw form; newspaper reporters on longer deadlines were forced to cover not only the story, but the story of the story. How would the suspicion of "Watergate-style" wrongdoing, even if unfounded, affect President Ford's choice of Rockefeller as vice president? Wasn't there a requirement that the vice president not only be clean, but appear clean as well?

ROCKEFELLER

As the story was being shot down, the worry was about all those people who might be saying, "Where there's smoke, there's fire." In the recent past, there turned out to be fire raging beneath the smoke; it is hard to remind people now that where there is smoke there is sometimes somebody with evil intent operating a smoke machine.

Because the communication of accusation is now on such a hairtrigger, the presumption of innocence is the first line of defense against tyrannous prosecution of the accused and against the abuse of the power of the press. How do we assert that presumption again, after a president and vice president have given it a bad name?

We rebuild our resistance to the men who seek to gain high place over the bodies of their fellows We treat with suspicion those sniper shots from concealed positions, and object to attribution of charges from "sources" or "White House officials.' We redirect our skepticism, which now surrounds denials, and aim it again at those who make the accusation.

The presumers of innocence are the gullibles, the people who are sometimes proven wrong with a vengeance. The presumers of guilt rarely look foolish, and for years will gleefully respond to any charge with the word "Watergate" in it, but it is they who weaken our system of justice as they debilitate our politics.

"Save that! I think Mr. Nixon would like President Ford to have that!"

Top Spot Elusive . . .

Rocky Takes Second Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller has had his eye on the White House for 15 years. Now he's settling for second best, a choice he once said did not befit his temperament.

"The vice president is standby equipment," he declared in the past. "I don't think I'm cut out to be a No. 2 type of a guy."

However, President Ford nominated the 66-year-old former Republican governor of New York to be No. 2 on Tuesday.

In Rockefeller, Ford is getting a man of great charm, who can also be demanding and forceful, a man who long has displayed a concern for the country's future, a man who has been in some phase of public life for nearly 35 years, 15 of them as governor of New York.

The new president also is getting a vice president unlikely to offer opposition should Ford seek reelection in 1976, as expected. Rockefeller will be 68 by then, older than any man elected president.

In accepting designation as vice president, Rockefeller appeared to be accepting an end to his presidential ambitions. He had retired as governor last December, to put himself in position for a final try for the White House two years hence.

The vehicle to keep him in the public eye in the interval was the Commission on Critical Choices for Americans, which he set up and financed and which he headed after he left Albany.

Rockefeller savored many a triumph in his years as governor. He considered his greatest accomplishment the growth of the State University of New York, from 41 small campuses with 38,000 full-time students, to the present 72 campuses and almost 300,000 students — the nation's largest state university system.

On the other end of the scale, Rockefeller drew extreme criticism in 1971 when he refused to visit the scene and negotiate the nation's worst prison riot, at the maximum security Attica state prison. Instead, he sent in state police to quell the riot, at the cost of 39 convict and hostage lives.

At the peak of his political career in 1962, Rockefeller divorced his first wife, the former Mary Todhunter Clark, with whom he had five children. He married a divorcee, Margarette Fitler "Happy" Murphy, and they had two young sons. There were politicians who pointed out at the time that no divorced man ever had sat in the White House.

Born July 8, 1908, Rockefeller was one of five brothers and a sister born into one of the nation's wealthiest families, offspring of John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Abby Greene Aldrich Rockefeller.

As a youngster, Nelson raised rabbits to supplement a 25 cents a week allowance.

After Dartmouth College and his first marriage, Rockefeller clerked in the family's Chase National Bank, now the Chase Manhattan.

Rockefeller's familarity with South America, where the family had a financial empire, led Democratic President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940 to name him coordinator of inter-American affairs in the State Department.

After other government jobs, Rockefeller served in the first days of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the establishment of which he had recommended to Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In 1958, Rockefeller publicly decided that only through elective office could he "accomplish anything" and announced he would run for governor. He was 50 at the time.

A popular Democratic governor, Averell Harriman, was seeking reelection, professional politicians deemed it a bad year for a Republican, and so state GOP leaders gave Rockefeller his chance. A surprising ebullient and folksy campaigner, he scored an upset victory.

Rocky, as he became generally known, won re-election in 1962, 1966, and 1970. During those years, he more than quadrupled the state's budget — from $1.9 billion to $8.8 billion.

Rockefeller at various times was characterized as too conservative by liberals, and too liberal by conservatives. But if his record as governor is any indication, he was neither, ideologically. The central thread running through all his actions was bigness — big ideas, big promises, big spending — rather than fixed concepts or approaches.

In his early years in Albany, Rockefeller spent huge sums in an attempt to deal with the problems of housing and water pollution. Later, he turned to drug related crime and welfare costs as major problems.

He instituted the state's Medicaid program, created the first state agency in the nation to rehabilitate dope addicts, won extraordinary powers to bypass local zoning laws and revitalize urban slums.

Rockefeller also signed one of the most controversial bills ever put before him — the nation's first abortion-on-demand statute.

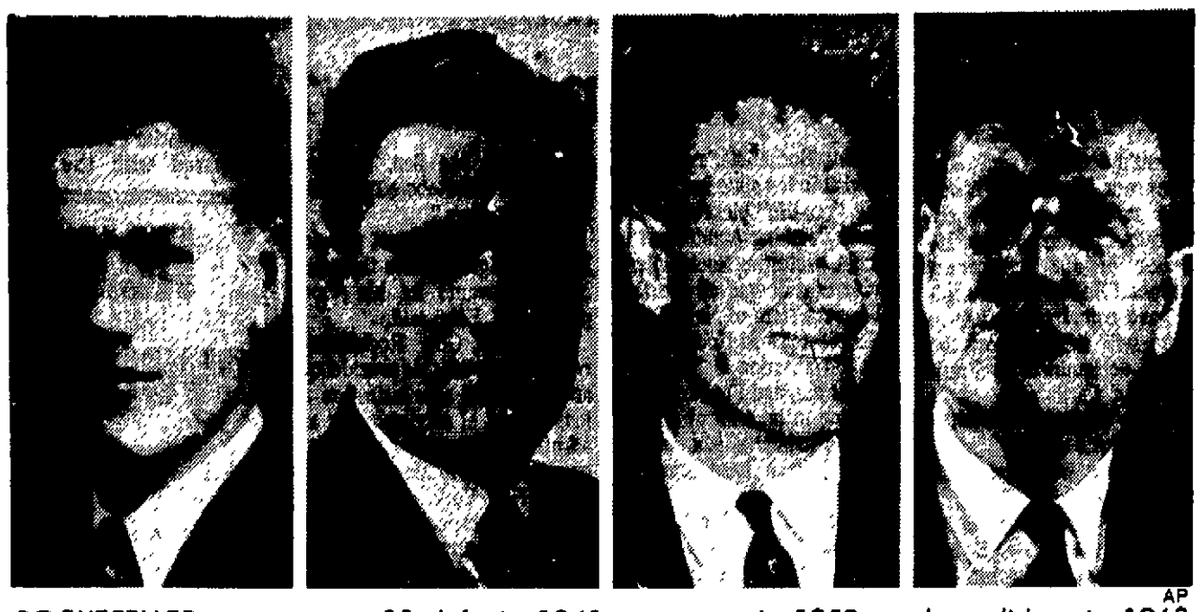

Throughout these busy years, however, Rockefeller never took his eye off the White House. He first tested the presidential waters in 1959, but decided the then Vice President Richard Nixon had the 1960 nomination locked up.

In his strongest bid, Rockefeller lost the GOP presidential nomination to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. The latter's supporters shouted down Rockefeller the San Francisco convention when he offered support of a platform plank condemning political extremism. In 1968, Rockefeller was defeated for the nomination by Nixon.

Rockefeller seemed to have a final shot at the White House in 1976. He quit Albany, after installing as his heir Malcolm Wilson, his loyal and tireless lieutenant governor.

Then Nixon quit, leaving the White House to Gerald Ford, and making the latter the almost certain GOP nominee for 1976. Rockefeller apparently accepted the writing on the wall, and decided that after all he might be "a No. 2 type of a guy."

"If I'm confirmed," he told President Ford in an acceptance statement, "it will be my great honor to serve you . . ."

Big Holdings Could Complicate Investigation Before Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vast financial holdings of Nelson A. Rockefeller could greatly complicate the investigation that will precede congressional hearings on his confirmation as vice president.

Although he is expected to win confirmation without much difficulty eventually, some members of the House and Senate committees that will conduct the hearings see a long process.

Under precedents set 10 months ago when President Ford became the first vice president to be confirmed under the 25th Amendment, a detailed accounting of a nominee's personal financial situation would be required.

Sen. Howard AON, D-Nev.,man of the Senate Rules and Administration Committee, which will conduct the S the Senate Rules and Administration Committee, which will conduct the Senate probe, said Tuesday it will be just as ttoughitsexamination of Rockefeller as it was of Ford.

He said Rockefeller would be asked to provide his income tax returns, as Ford did, but it would be up to Rockefeller whether they were made public. Ford made his returns public.

Ford's relatively simple financial situation required weeks of investigation by the FBI and the House and Senate committees.

Rockefeller has holdings in one of the nation's largest family fortunes.

"Where do you begin?" asked Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which will conduct the House inquiry. Rodino mentioned just a few of the corporate, industrial, banking, real estate and international ventures of the Rockefellers.

Both chairmen said preliminary steps were taken immediately after Ford's announcement that he had picked Rockefeller as his vice president.

Neither Cannon nor Rodino would predict when the hearings might begin. Congress is shutting down this week for a recess — two weeks for the Senate, three weeks for the House.

Cannon said one of the biggest problems for the committee will be to determine if Rockefeller's financial holdings involve any conflicts of interest.

But Rodino said his committee will present the facts and it will be up to the House to determine whether the nominee should be confirmed."

Confirmation by majority vote is required in both the House and Senate under the 25th Amendment.

Although the chairmen would not predict how long the hearings might take, some committee members did. Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., said he thought they would run into January.

But Rep. George Danielson, D-Calif., noting that Rockefeller served 15 years as governor and has been in national politics even longer, said he expected "an easy confirmation."

Goldwater Grumbles

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater said Tuesday that Nelson Rockefeller's nomination as vice president "won't go over" with rank and file Republicans and suggested he be dropped from the GOP ticket in 1976.

Goldwater, the conservative Arizonan who was the 1964 GOP standard-bearer, said Rockefeller "is not the one to put the party together" because of his liberal image.

"I can support it," said Goldwater when asked his reaction to the nomination. "He's very well qualified. But I don't know what it's going to do to the Republican Party."

Ford's Decision Well-Kept Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford made up his mind to nominate Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president the night before it was announced, White House officials said. But the choice was a well-kept secret in Washington, which usually doesn't keep secrets well.

Aides said Ford decided the best way to keep secret his major pronouncement was not to let anyone know for sure until the last moment.

He held members of the bipartisan leadership and the Cabinet at meetings in the White House on Tuesday morning until they joined him in the Oval Office for the televised announcement at about 9 a.m. CDT.

Selection of a vice president, a man he thought would make a good president, was Ford's first task "as soon as he got over the shock of being president," said counselor Robert Hartmann.

Because of the Cyprus crisis, it took Ford 11 days to pick his vice president. He consulted key leaders in Congress and Cabinet, soliciting three choices from Republicans throughout the government, getting advance FBI checks and a clearance from special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski for his half-dozen finalists.

Officials said Ford decided after a party Monday night to name Rockefeller. The former New York governor got word informally about two hours later from chief of staff Alexander M. Haig, who called Rockefeller to the White House Tuesday morning.

Rockefeller had gotten a giant clue that he was among the Ford finalists when the President telephoned him last Saturday to discuss the smear stories that had broken into print, later discredited at the White House, alleging Rockefeller money donations for dirty tricks at the 1972 Democratic convention.

Hartmann said Ford "asked numerous questions which might very well have aroused the governor's suspicion he was one of the finalists." But Ford hadn't made up his mind then and did not tell Rockefeller he had.

The official word was so long in coming that Mrs. Rockefeller wasn't present on the historic day.

Rocky Takes Second Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller has had his eye on the White House for 15 years. Now he's settling for second best, a choice he once said did not befit his temperament.

"The vice president is standby equipment," he declared in the past. "I don't think I'm cut out to be a No. 2 type of a guy."

However, President Ford nominated the 66-year-old former Republican governor of New York to be No. 2 on Tuesday.

In Rockefeller, Ford is getting a man of great charm, who can also be demanding and forceful, a man who long has displayed a concern for the country's future, a man who has been in some phase of public life for nearly 35 years, 15 of them as governor of New York.

The new president also is getting a vice president unlikely to offer opposition should Ford seek reelection in 1976, as expected. Rockefeller will be 68 by then, older than any man elected president.

In accepting designation as vice president, Rockefeller appeared to be accepting an end to his presidential ambitions. He had retired as governor last December, to put himself in position for a final try for the White House two years hence.

The vehicle to keep him in the public eye in the interval was the Commission on Critical Choices for Americans, which he set up and financed and which he headed after he left Albany.

Rockefeller savored many a triumph in his years as governor. He considered his greatest accomplishment the growth of the State University of New York, from 41 small campuses with 38,000 full-time students, to the present 72 campuses and almost 300,000 students — the nation's largest state university system.

On the other end of the scale, Rockefeller drew extreme criticism in 1971 when he refused to visit the scene and negotiate the nation's worst prison riot, at the maximum security Attica state prison. Instead, he sent in state police to quell the riot, at the cost of 39 convict and hostage lives.

At the peak of his political career in 1962, Rockefeller divorced his first wife, the former Mary Todhunter Clark, with whom he had five children. He married a divorcee, Margarette Fitler "Happy" Murphy, and they had two young sons. There were politicians who pointed out at the time that no divorced man ever had sat in the White House.

Born July 8, 1908, Rockefeller was one of five brothers and a sister born into one of the nation's wealthiest families, offspring of John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Abby Greene Aldrich Rockefeller.

As a youngster, Nelson raised rabbits to supplement a 25 cents a week allowance.

After Dartmouth College and his first marriage, Rockefeller clerked in the family's Chase National Bank, now the Chase Manhattan.

Rockefeller's familarity with South America, where the family had a financial empire, led Democratic President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940 to name him coordinator of inter-American affairs in the State Department.

After other government jobs, Rockefeller served in the first days of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the establishment of which he had recommended to Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In 1958, Rockefeller publicly decided that only through elective office could he "accomplish anything" and announced he would run for governor. He was 50 at the time.

Ford's Decision Well-Kept Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford made up his mind to nominate Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president the night before it was announced, White House officials said. But the choice was a well-kept secret in Washington, which usually doesn't keep secrets well.

Aides said Ford decided the best way to keep secret his major pronouncement was not to let anyone know for sure until the last moment.

He held members of the bipartisan leadership and the Cabinet at meetings in the White House on Tuesday morning until they joined him in the Oval Office for the televised announcement at about 9 a.m. CDT.

Selection of a vice president, a man he thought would make a good president, was Ford's first task "as soon as he got over the shock of being president," said counselor Robert Hartmann.

Because of the Cyprus crisis, it took Ford 11 days to pick his vice president. He consulted key leaders in Congress and Cabinet, soliciting three choices from Republicans throughout the government, getting advance FBI checks and a clearance from special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski for his half-dozen finalists.

Officials said Ford decided after a party Monday night to name Rockefeller. The former New York governor got word informally about two hours later from chief of staff Alexander M. Haig, who called Rockefeller to the White House Tuesday morning.

Rockefeller had gotten a giant clue that he was among the Ford finalists when the President telephoned him last Saturday to discuss the smear stories that had broken into print, later discredited at the White House, alleging Rockefeller money donations for dirty tricks at the 1972 Democratic convention.

Hartmann said Ford "asked numerous questions which might very well have aroused the governor's suspicion he was one of the finalists." But Ford hadn't made up his mind then and did not tell Rockefeller he had.

The official word was so long in coming that Mrs. Rockefeller wasn't present on the historic day.

State GOP Leaders Support Nomination

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's all-Republican Congressional delegation expressed complete confidence Tuesday after President Gerald Ford announced that he would nominate former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

"He's (Rockefeller) the one I recommended to the President," 3rd District Congressman Dave Martin said.

Martin added, "I went to college with him (Rockefeller) and I've known him for years. I was the class of '29, he was the class of '30."

Both men were graduated from Dartmouth College in New Hampshire.

Martin said he feels Rockefeller's experience will help Ford in the field of foreign relations, and that Rockefeller's experience as the governor of New York, one of the nation's most populous states, would be invaluable.

If the vote for the confirmation were to be held today, Martin said, "I would vote for him."

Sen. Carl Curtis was also favorably impressed by the President's decision.

"Governor Rockefeller is one of the most experienced administrators in the country. He was one of our best-known governors. "He is a man of ability. I have complete confidence that he will fully support the program determined by President Ford," Curtis said.

"I shall vote for his confirmation," Curtis added.

Rockefeller was also Sen. Roman Hruska's first choice.

"Governor Rockefeller is an outstanding American figure, recognized worldwide for his competence in many fields, both foreign and domestic. His political seasoning is unexcelled, with 15 creditable years as governor of New York, a position often described as the second most demanding job in American political life. Americans can look forward to this joint leadership of President Ford and Vice President Rockefeller with confidence and trust," Hruska said.

Hruska also said he feels Rockefeller's nomination will be "well received" in Nebraska.

First District Congressman John Y. McCollister said Republican National Chairman George Busch was his choice for the nomination, but that he is generally satisfied with Rockefeller

"The President is entitled to make the choice from his perspective. It's true that Governor Rockefeller is a good administrator, and has a lot of experience in foreign affairs," McCollister said.

During Rockefeller's most recent visit to the state last spring, many "pro-life" pickets walked outside Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln, protesting Rockefeller's signing of a liberalized abortion bill for the state of New York.

McCollister said Rockefeller's stand on abortion is "one that troubles me, and I'm sure there are going to be a lot of conservative Republicans who wished it might have been someone else."

McCollister added that he did not think the stand on abortion would hurt Rockefeller as the nominee for vice president.

Second District Congressman Charles Thone was not immediately available for comment. Meanwhile back in the state reaction from both sides of the aisle was favorable.

Glen Wilson, executive director of the Nebraska Republican party said Rockefeller's age, 66, means that "he shouldn't be any threat for them (Democrats) in 1980 He's going to be way too old, well, not way too old, but he will be old," Wilson said.

Gov. J. James Exon, a Democrat seeking reelection, said he hadn't given Rockefeller's age any thought, saying "I know Mr. Rockefeller, he is a very vigorous man, and I don't think his age has anything to do with it one way or another."

Exon and Wilson predicted Congress would confirm Rockefeller's nomination.

Wilson said he thought Rockefeller's age had to be considered "when they were talking about guys like Sen. Howard Baker and Sen. Robert Taft, who are real comers."

"I feel the President should have the right to have the man that he wants as his vice president," Exon said.

"Certainly Gov. Rockefeller will bring to the vice presidency and the Ford administration a long record of service as far as administration is concerned because of his 15 years as governor of New York.

"I would expect there would be no difficulty in his confirmation," Exon said.

Wilson said he felt Rockefeller would be more palatable to conservatives today "than he was a few years ago."

"I think he is a good concensus choice, and not just in terms of Nebraska but in terms of the entire country," Wilson said.

State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, GOP candidate for governor, was unavailable for comment.

State Sen. Richard Marvel, GOP candidate for governor, was quoted as saying "I have complete confidence in the selection made by Jerry Ford. I am grateful for the President's adoption of vigorous action and I'm sure he has done a good job of assessing the situation before making his selection."

Anne Batchelder, Marvel's GOP running mate, called Rockefeller "probably as capable an administrator as anybody in the United States."

"I would personally feel there is no reason not to confirm him," she said.

Congress Wants Financial Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson Rockefeller's nomination to be vice president was greeted on Capitol Hill as if he barely had an enemy in the political world but a lot of people eager to rummage through his bank accounts

The initial reaction pointed to an easy slide through the confirmation process, first in the House Judiciary and Senate Rules and Administration committees, then the full congressional bodies.

"This is an outstanding choice," said Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, one of four Republicans on the rules committee "I think that Ford and Rockefeller will be a formidable combination," said Sen James B. Allen of Alabama, one of the five Democrats

Allen said also· "I think he should start work immediately on his financial statement because I feel that the committee is going to want to know a full disclosure of all of his financial interests and assets ..."

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said his Senate committee will be just as thorough in its examination of Rockefeller as it was of Ford when it passed on his confirmation as vice president last year

He said he assumes the former New York governor — a member of one of America's wealthiest families — will supply his tax returns, just as Ford did.

Rep Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass , a House Judiciary Committee member who voted against Ford last year, called Rockefeller a good choice but said he wants to ask about his 1945 role in setting out the United Nations Latin American regional security covenant.

"There's a case of a powerful man, a powerful family, using position for a policy that has not promoted peace," Drinan said.

And Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., another Judiciary Committee member, said the choice of Rockefeller appeared to be excellent on the surface but "I anticipate an exhaustive and meticulous investigation of Mr. Rockefeller's background."

A Republican colleague on the committee, Rep. Robert P. McClory of Illinois said "Oh, great," when he heard the four-term governor was picked.

Rockefeller's liberal record was mentioned by some congressmen. But House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes said, "I can't believe conservative Republicans feel broadening the base of the party is a bad thing — unless they want to keep on losing and keep on being a minority."

Besides, Rhodes said, on financial matters Rockefeller is a conservative

That was echoed by Rep. Jerry L. Pettis, a California Republican and a participant in a campaign to have GOP national chairman George Bush get the post. "Rockefeller is not all that liberal," Pettis said "If he was all that liberal, New York would be in a financial mess right now, which it isn't "

Senate majority whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia, a member of the Rules and Administration Committee, called Rockefeller his top choice and "an excellent choice."

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, said after meeting with Byrd that he hopes the nomination can be approved within 35 to 40 days. Ford's nomination took 55.

"A man who has been governor of a state like New York has got to be Mr. Clean," Scott said.

A dissenter over the Rockefeller's choice was Rep. John M Ashbrook, R-Ohio.

"I am very disappointed in the selection," said Ashbrook, a conservative who opposed former President Richard M Nixon in several presidential primaries.

Ashbrook said Rockefeller can't identify with the problems of the average man, the elderly and housewives and "he has continually been rejected nationwide by the majority of the Republican party."

Ashbrook said a Rockefeller's nomination was inconsistent with Ford's statement that excessive government spending is a major problem because Rockefeller "throughout his career has used his influence to increase spending and debt."

From Rep Bella Abzug, D-N.Y , came this comment: "It is ironic that after Watergate, an oil billionaire should be appointed to the vice presidency by an appointed President. I think this shows we need a constitutional amendment to require new national elections whenever a president resigns or is impeached and convicted."

The Senate Rules and Administration Committee launched an immediate investigation into the nominee's background, with Chairman Cannon writing to Atty. Gen. William Saxbe requesting a full FBI investigation.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., called Rockefeller "one of the most experienced and capable men in the country," and called Ford's choice one that "very few will criticize."

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., of Massachusetts joked: "I suppose it will take some time to unwind his finances."

Oregon's Republican Mark O. Hatfield, a member of the Senate Rules and Administration Committee, said Rockefeller's background in state government "hopefully will lead to decentralization of federal power back to where the people will have greater control of both resources and decisions affecting their lives."

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the third-ranked Republican in the House, called the nomination an unmistakable signal that the Ford administration "intends to vigorously pursue innovative, effective solutions" to the nation's problems.

Sen Jesse Helms, R-N.C , who led an active campaign against the nomination, pledged his cooperation, commenting "needless to say Sen. (Barry) Goldwater is my choice for the vice presidency ."

W. Averell Harriman, the Democrat who lost his New York governorship to Rockefeller in 1958, hailed the nomination as a splendid appointment.

Nixon: 'Good Choice'

Washington (UPI) — President Ford and Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller called former President Richard Nixon just minutes before the official nomination was broadcast to the nation, a White House official said Tuesday.

While waiting to go on nationwide television to announce his vice presidential choice, Ford advised the ex-president at his San Clemente, Calif., home that Rockefeller would be named. Nixon replied that Ford made "a good choice," according to presidential press secretary Jerry terHorst.

"You picked a big man for a big job," Nixon added.

Rockefeller, listening on an extension phone, also spoke briefly with Nixon but his comments were not reported.

Ford then placed a second call to Republican Party Chairman George Bush, a leading candidate for the No. 2 spot in the administration.

That conversation could be seen as a courtesy call to the head of the Republican Party but it might also indicate that Bush was Ford's second choice and that the President was offering his condolences.

State GOP Leaders Support Nomination

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's all-Republican Congressional delegation expressed complete confidence Tuesday after President Gerald Ford announced that he would nominate former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

"He's (Rockefeller) the one I recommended to the President," 3rd District Congressman Dave Martin said.

Martin added, "I went to college with him (Rockefeller) and I've known him for years. I was the class of '29, he was the class of '30."

Both men were graduated from Dartmouth College in New Hampshire.

Martin said he feels Rockefeller's experience will help Ford in the field of foreign relations, and that Rockefeller's experience as the governor of New York, one of the nation's most populous states, would be invaluable.

If the vote for the confirmation were to be held today, Martin said, "I would vote for him."

Sen. Carl Curtis was also favorably impressed by the President's decision.

"Governor Rockefeller is one of the most experienced administrators in the country. He was one of our best-known governors. "He is a man of ability. I have complete confidence that he will fully support the program determined by President Ford," Curtis said.

"I shall vote for his confirmation," Curtis added.

Rockefeller was also Sen. Roman Hruska's first choice.

"Governor Rockefeller is an outstanding American figure, recognized worldwide for his competence in many fields, both foreign and domestic. His political seasoning is unexcelled, with 15 creditable years as governor of New York, a position often described as the second most demanding job in American political life. Americans can look forward to this joint leadership of President Ford and Vice President Rockefeller with confidence and trust," Hruska said.

Hruska also said he feels Rockefeller's nomination will be "well received" in Nebraska.

First District Congressman John Y. McCollister said Republican National Chairman George Busch was his choice for the nomination, but that he is generally satisfied with Rockefeller.

"The President is entitled to make the choice from his perspective. It's true that Governor Rockefeller is a good administrator, and has a lot of experience in foreign affairs," McCollister said.

During Rockefeller's most recent visit to the state last spring, many "pro-life" pickets walked outside Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln, protesting Rockefeller's signing of a liberalized abortion bill for the state of New York.

McCollister said Rockefeller's stand on abortion is "one that troubles me, and I'm sure there are going to be a lot of conservative Republicans who wished it might have been someone else."

McCollister added that he did not think the stand on abortion would hurt Rockefeller as the nominee for vice president.

Second District Congressman Charles Thone was not immediately available for comment. Meanwhile back in the state reaction from both sides of the aisle was favorable.

Glen Wilson, executive director of the Nebraska Republican party said Rockefeller's age, 66, means that "he shouldn't be any threat for them (Democrats) in 1980. He's going to be way too old, well, not way too old, but he will be old," Wilson said.

Gov. J. James Exon, a Democrat seeking reelection, said he hadn't given Rockefeller's age any thought, saying "I know Mr. Rockefeller, he is a very vigrous man, and I don't think his age has anything to do with it one way or another."

Exon and Wilson predicted Congress would confirm Rockefeller's nomination.

Wilson said he thought Rockefeller's age had to be considered "when they were talking about guys like Sen. Howard Baker and Sen. Robert Taft, who are real comers."

"I feel the President should have the right to have the man that he wants as his vice president," Exon said.

"Certainly Gov. Rockefeller will bring to the vice presidency and the Ford administration a long record of service as far as administration is concerned because of his 15 years as governor of New York.

"I would expect there would be no difficulty in his confirmation," Exon said.

Wilson said he felt Rockefeller would be more palatable to conservatives today "than he was a few years ago."

"I think he is a good concensus choice, and not just in terms of Nebraska but in terms of the entire country," Wilson said.

State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, GOP candidate for governor, was unavailable for comment.

State Sen. Richard Marvel, GOP candidate for governor, was quoted as saying "I have complete confidence in the selection made by Jerry Ford. I am grateful for the President's adoption of vigorous action and I'm sure he has done a good job of assessing the situation before making his selection."

Anne Batchelder, Marvel's GOP running mate, called Rockefeller "probably as capable an administrator as anybody in the United States."

"I would personally feel there is no reason not to confirm him," she said.

Congress Wants Financial Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson Rockefeller's nomination to be vice president was greeted on Capitol Hill as if he barely had an enemy in the political world but a lot of people eager to rummage through his bank accounts.

The initial reaction pointed to an easy slide through the confirmation process, first in the House Judiciary and Senate Rules and Administration committees, then the full congressional bodies.

"This is an outstanding choice," said Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, one of four Republicans on the rules committee. "I think that Ford and Rockefeller will be a formidable combination," said Sen. James B. Allen of Alabama, one of the five Democrats.

Allen said also: "I think he should start work immediately on his financial statement because I feel that the committee is going to want to know a full disclosure of all of his financial interests and assets...."

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said his Senate committee will be just as thorough in its examination of Rockefeller as it was of Ford when it passed on his confirmation as vice president last year.

He said he assumes the former New York governor — a member of one of America's wealthiest families — will supply his tax returns, just as Ford did.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., a House Judiciary Committee member who voted against Ford last year, called Rockefeller a good choice but said he wants to ask about his 1945 role in setting out the United Nations Latin American regional security covenant.

"There's a case of a powerful man, a powerful family, using position for a policy that has not promoted peace," Drinan said.

And Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., another Judiciary Committee member, said the choice of Rockefeller appeared to be excellent on the surface but "I anticipate an exhaustive and meticulous investigation of Mr. Rockefeller's background."

A Republican colleague on the committee, Rep. Robert P. McClory of Illinois said "Oh, great," when he heard the four-term governor was picked.

Rockefeller's liberal record was mentioned by some congressmen. But House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes said, "I can't believe conservative Republicans feel broadening the base of the party is a bad thing — unless they want to keep on losing and keep on being a minority."

Besides, Rhodes said, on financial matters Rockefeller is a conservative.

That was echoed by Rep. Jerry L. Pettis, a California Republican and a participant in a campaign to have GOP national chairman George Bush get the post. "Rockefeller is not all that liberal," Pettis said. "If he was all that liberal, New York would be in a financial mess right now, which it isn't."

Senate majority whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia, a member of the Rules and Administration Committee, called Rockefeller his top choice and "an excellent choice."

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, said after meeting with Byrd that he hopes the nomination can be approved within 35 to 40 days. Ford's nomination took 55.

"A man who has been governor of a state like New York has got to be Mr. Clean," Scott said.

A dissenter over the Rockefeller's choice was Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio.

"I am very disappointed in the selection," said Ashbrook, a conservative who opposed former President Richard M. Nixon in several presidential primaries.

Ashbrook said Rockefeller can't identify with the problems of the average man, the elderly and housewives and "he has continually been rejected nationwide by the majority of the Republican party."

Ashbrook said a Rockefeller's nomination was inconsistent with Ford's statement that excessive government spending is a major problem because Rockefeller "throughout his career has used his influence to increase spending and debt."

From Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., came this comment: "It is ironic that after Watergate, an oil billionaire should be appointed to the vice presidency by an appointed President. I think this shows we need a constitutional amendment to require new national elections whenever a president resigns or is impeached and convicted."

The Senate Rules and Administration Committee launched an immediate investigation into the nominee's background, with Chairman Cannon writing to Atty. Gen. William Saxbe requesting a full FBI investigation.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., called Rockefeller "one of the most experienced and capable men in the country," and called Ford's choice one that "very few will criticize."

County Receives Bids On Insurance

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Only one bid for Lancaster County's liability coverage package was received Tuesday, but a second bid was received for the workmen's compensation portion only of the package.

Lancaster County commissioners referred the bids to their consultants for study before taking any action.

The only bid on the package was received from Alexander and Alexander, which has handled the greatest portion of the county's coverage.

Consultants Recommended

The consultants last May recommended the commissioners solicit bids from national and international brokers for the county's insurance.

They said they were not being critical of Alexander and Alexander but felt that the county would get the "best deal" by soliciting bids from a broad area.

Liberty Mutual submitted a bid on the workemn's compensation portion of the insurance.

One of the consultants, Leonard Berekson, told The Star that the bids were "reasonably favorable."

However, he said, because of the many details involved it was impossible to release Tuesday night the actual total bid figures.

In other business, the board dropped from the agenda the proposed lease of the facility at 27th and O for county office space.

They indicated that they were now looking most favorably at the former House of Bauer building on the northwest corner of 25th and O.

The board members said the architect reported that the 25th and O location rental would be about $3.75 per square foot which would include the cost of remodeling the building as well as blacktopping the parking area.

The architects reported that the 10th and High location which had been looked at by the board would cost $3.75 per square foot plus remodeling.

Space Sought

The commissioners have been seeking space outside the overcrowded County-City Building for the offices of County Superintendent of Schools, Veterans' Service Officer and the motor vehicle operator's licensing station.

Steve Kellison of the University of Nebraska, who was retained by the county board to study the county's retirement plan, recommended that the board consider adopting a long-range goal of a more balanced portfolio between equity and fixed-income securities.

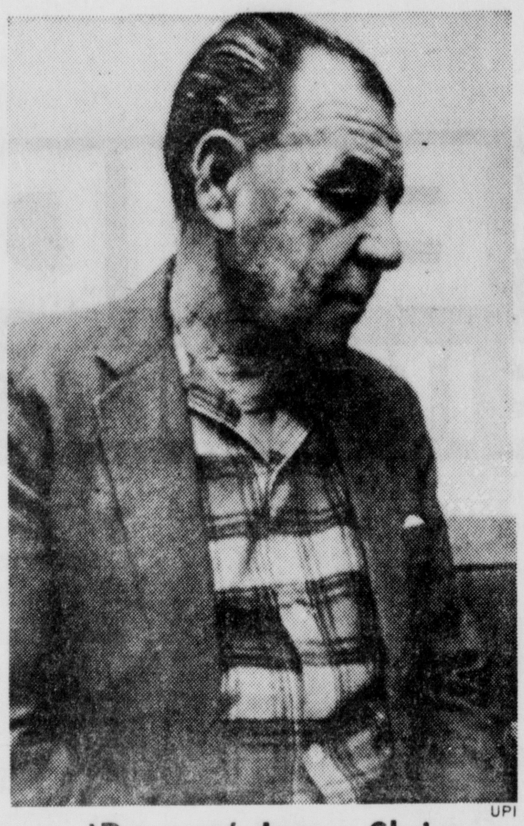

The commissioners had asked Kellison to study the plan after receiving complaints from county employes of considerable losses sustained on the investment in the plan.

Kellison said the county's share of the contribution had been invested in equity securities which have been affected by the stock market declines while fixed income securities might result in a more stable income.

AIM Meeting Is Rescheduled

The American Indian Movement emergency meeting Tuesday night was cancelled and rescheduled for 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the Lincoln Air Park barracks.

An election of officers is planned for the next meeting and a roster of AIM members and supporters will be compiled, Lincoln AIM coordinator Frank Black Elk said.

UPI

'Deacon' Jones Slain

William Daniel "Deacon" Jones, 58, once a driver for the Bonnie Parker-Clyde Barrow gang, was shot to death Tuesday as he sat outside a home in northeast Houston. Police said the shooting happened during a quarrel over a woman. Jones once served a six-year sentence for taking part in the murder in 1934 of a Fort Worth deputy sheriff.

House Slices Mass Transit Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a six-year mass transit bill Tuesday after giving President Ford his first major legislative victory by cutting the money authorized by nearly half.

Ford had said he supported GOP efforts to trim the bill from $20 billion to $11 billion, to help fight inflation by curtailing federal spending.

When Democrats tried to hold the line at $15.8 billion, the House voted 257 to 155 to reduce it to the $11 billion Ford requested.

The House later passed the bill by a 324-92 vote and sent it to the Senate.

Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, warned the House that Ford would veto the bill if it contained more than the $11 billion.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said there is no proof that budget-cutting will solve inflation. She also said the needs of the country for mass transit funding total about $23 billion, according to studies by the Public Works Committee.

The House also deleted, by a 259-159 vote, a section of the bill which would have permitted heavier and longer trucks on interstate highways.

Harsha had said the 20,000-pound increase which states could permit for trucks — bringing the total to 90,000 pounds — was needed in part because trucks were penalized by the federal limits on speed at 55 miles per hour.

"Have you been on an interstate highway lately?" asked Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio. "Not a truck on the highway is doing 55 — they'll blow you off the road."

The mass transit bill would provide the first federal operating subsidies to hard-pinched cities with deficit transit systems.

It also would extend mass transit funds for the first time to rural areas.

Nearly half the funds under the original bill would have gone to cities with existing subway or fixed-rail systems or with systems under construction now.

Nine cities now are eligible for the money: Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Atlanta, Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

A system was set up for other cities to become eligible for this largest share of the money, as Los Angeles might if voters approved a local bond issue to underwrite part of the mass transit there in November.

Offer Fails To End Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise offer by backers of legislation creating a federal consumer protection agency failed Tuesday to end a month-long filibuster against the bill.

Proponents fell four votes short of the two-thirds majority necessary to impose cloture on the filibuster being led by Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., and other conservatives.

It was the third such failure to bring the measure to a final vote since the Senate began debating the legislation July 16.

The Senate normally would remove a bill from its calendar after three unsuccessful votes to shut off a filibuster. But Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., scheduled a fourth and final vote on the consumer measure for Sept. 18.

Backers of the legislation have been gaining ground in their attempt to break the filibuster.

They lost the first vote by 10 and the second by seven.

The cloture vote came after almost six hours of debate. As the Senate went into session, Sens. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., announced that they were willing to compromise to save the bill.

They proposed a substitute measure similar to one passed by the House earlier this year. The bill would create an Agency for Consumer Advocacy, whose administrator would plead the interests of consumers before federal regulatory agencies.

Curtis, Hruska Oppose Cloture

Washington (AP) — Nebraska's two Republican senators, Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska, voted Tuesday against invoking cloture on the consumer protection bill. The vote was 59 to 35, four votes shy of the two-thirds majority required.

County Receives Bids On Insurance

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Only one bid for Lancaster County's liability coverage package was received Tuesday, but a second bid was received for the workmen's compensation portion only of the package.

Lancaster County commissioners referred the bids to their consultants for study before taking any action.

The only bid on the package was received from Alexander and Alexander, which has handled the greatest portion of the county's coverage.

Consultants Recommended

The consultants last May recommended the commissioners solicit bids from national and international brokers for the county's insurance.

They said they were not being critical of Alexander and Alexander but felt that the county would get the "best deal" by soliciting bids from a broad area.

Liberty Mutual submitted a bid on the workemn's compensation portion of the insurance.

One of the consultants, Leonard Berekson, told The Star that the bids were "reasonably favorable."

However, he said, because of the many details involved it was impossible to release Tuesday night the actual total bid figures.

In other business, the board dropped from the agenda the proposed lease of the facility at 27th and O for county office space.

They indicated that they were now looking most favorably at the former House of Bauer building on the northwest corner of 25th and O.

The board members said the architect reported that the 25th and O location rental would be about $3.75 per square foot which would include the cost of remodeling the building as well as blacktopping the parking area.

The architects reported that the 10th and High location which had been looked at by the board would cost $3.75 per square foot plus remodeling.

Space Sought

The commissioners have been seeking space outside the overcrowded County-City Building for the offices of County Superintendent of Schools, Veterans' Service Officer and the motor vehicle operator's licensing station.

Steve Kellison of the University of Nebraska, who was retained by the county board to study the county's retirement plan, recommended that the board consider adopting a long-range goal of a more balanced portfolio between equity and fixed-income securities.

The commissioners had asked Kellison to study the plan after receiving complaints from county employes of considerable losses sustained on the investment in the plan.

Kellison said the county's share of the contribution had been invested in equity securities which have been affected by the stock market declines while fixed income securities might result in a more stable income.

AIM Meeting Is Rescheduled

The American Indian Movement emergency meeting Tuesday night was cancelled and rescheduled for 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the Lincoln Air Park barracks.

An election of officers is planned for the next meeting and a roster of AIM members and supporters will be compiled, Lincoln AIM coordinator Frank Black Elk said.

UPI

'Deacon' Jones Slain

William Daniel "Deacon" Jones, 58, once a driver for the Bonnie Parker-Clyde Barrow gang, was shot to death Tuesday as he sat outside a home in northeast Houston. Police said the shooting happened during a quarrel over a woman. Jones once served a six-year sentence for taking part in the murder in 1934 of a Fort Worth deputy sheriff.

House Slices Mass Transit Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a six-year mass transit bill Tuesday after giving President Ford his first major legislative victory by cutting the money authorized by nearly half.

Ford had said he supported GOP efforts to trim the bill from $20 billion to $11 billion, to help fight inflation by curtailing federal spending.

When Democrats tried to hold the line at $15.8 billion, the House voted 257 to 155 to reduce it to the $11 billion Ford requested.

The House later passed the bill by a 324-92 vote and sent it to the Senate.

Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, warned the House that Ford would veto the bill if it contained more than the $11 billion.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said there is no proof that budget-cutting will solve inflation. She also said the needs of the country for mass transit funding total about $23 billion, according to studies by the Public Works Committee.

The House also deleted, by a 259-159 vote, a section of the bill which would have permitted heavier and longer trucks on interstate highways.

Harsha had said the 20,000-pound increase which states could permit for trucks — bringing the total to 90,000 pounds — was needed in part because trucks were penalized by the federal limits on speed at 55 miles per hour.

"Have you been on an interstate highway lately?" asked Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio. "Not a truck on the highway is doing 55 — they'll blow you off the road."

The mass transit bill would provide the first federal operating subsidies to hard-pinched cities with deficit transit systems.

It also would extend mass transit funds for the first time to rural areas.

Nearly half the funds under the original bill would have gone to cities with existing subway or fixed-rail systems or with systems under construction now.

Nine cities now are eligible for the money: Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Atlanta, Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

A system was set up for other cities to become eligible for this largest share of the money, as Los Angeles might if voters approved a local bond issue to underwrite part of the mass transit there in November.

Design Caused Jamming

(c) Chicago Daily News

Chicago — The design of the M16 rifle was responsible for the weapon's jamming in Vietnam combat, a civilian advisory committee has concluded.

At the time, Army and Marine officials had said the rifle's jamming was caused by soldiers not cleaning it properly.

The rifle was ordered into mass production and supplied to combat troops, although unnamed Vietnam-era Pentagon officials were aware of its deficiencies, according to the committee.

The rifle's failure in combat was first disclosed in 1967 by a Chicago Daily News reporter.

Officials then said the rifle, a fast-firing, small-caliber weapon, was basically sound.

SeTech Plans To Lease Whittier, Bryan

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

With the future of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech) to be shaped by its decision, the area board Tuesday agreed to negotiate a lease-purchase agreement for Lincoln Public Schools buildings.

SeTech now rents space from the schools.

The Lincoln Board of Education has directed Supt. John Prasch and business officials to form an offer to sell Whittier School or Bryan School or both to SeTech.

One-Year Options

The board decided the agreement should include two renewable, one-year options, with the first at $3.30 per square foot as Prasch has offered. If SeTech eventually decides to buy any of the buildings, the agreement would be retroactive to include payments from July 1, 1974.

In a facilities committee report to the board, member Don Ferguson of Lincoln said SeTech long-range possibilities could include:

—Buying Whittier Junior High, 2240 Vine, and continuing to use the Watson Center, 1309 N. 17th.

—Buying land near Whittier from the University of Nebraska.

—Moving the Lincoln campus to a centralized facility in Lincoln Air Park, with private investors paying for the buildings with a lease-purchase option for SeTech to buy them back.

—Buying Bryan School, 1701 S. 40th, for health-related training programs and moving all other Lincoln campus operations to the Air Park.

—Identifying city-owned land for purchase.

—Closing Bryan, now rented exclusively by SeTech, and centralizing the entire campus in Whittier.

A lease-purchase agreement for four buildings in the Air Park could be made for $90,000, Ferguson said, but three of them need "extensive renovation." Besides, he added, no land sales can be made there now.

NU Would Sell

NU officials have told SeTech they are willing to sell university-owned land across the street from Whittier, where SeTech could expand if it bought the junior high.

Ferguson emphasized that any decision should result in the "best use of tax monies to get needed services," yet "provide a sufficient amount of space to meet program needs as they are today" and allow for future expansion.

Other concerns, he said, include public transportation available to a campus, the concentration of night programs using less public school space, and "the psychology of the location."

Whittier, Ferguson said, might be a "negative drawing card" and its location a deterrent to enrollment. The Air Park, he said, is "too far out" to serve the city well.

Board members agreed they must choose a short-range or long-term plan and proceed from there. Buying a school building would mean centralization of the campus, now spread all over Lincoln.

"I think it's a mistake to put everything in one location," said board member Edward Copple, supporting renting space at a reasonable price from the public schools.

Area President Robert S. Eicher said, "Sometimes we're a little inefficient in pulling everything together" in the decentralized operation.

Mixing Undesirable

Board member G. Alan Dunlap of Milford said the present arrangement in Whittier, mixing junior high and SeTech students, is undesirable for both groups.

Chairman Merle Ebers of Milford said, "I'm not going to vote to go to Whittier until I know what it's going to cost."

The board agreed with Eicher that extensive renovation would be required at Whittier to accommodate such programs as auto mechancis. Estimates range from $500,000 to $1.5 million.

The board authorized Eicher to buy architectural consulting services to determine remodeling costs.

Surplus Land

Meanwhile, the board directed its facilities committee to continue studying the feasibility of buying at other locations in Lincoln. For example, the public schools own land originally bought for potential school sites and now identified as system surplus.

The board informally agreed the committee should also explore a cooperative agreement with NU for SeTech students' room and board in university dormitories. Another possibility would be to share instructors in basic academic areas, instead of each college duplicating the other's instruction.

In other business, the board:

—Directed that any Manpower Training Skill Center faculty and staff displaced by a change in federal funding should be considered for vacancies in other Lincoln campus positions on an equal basis with applicants outside the SeTech system.

—Approved a proposal that SeTech should join an athletic conference composed of the six community college areas, if it is approved by the state board.

—Agreed to hire ARA Services, a Philadelphia management team, to take over food service operations on the Fairbury campus. Cost will be $400 weekly, $200 to hire a manager and $200 to the firm.

Building Bids Opened On NU Barkley Center

Bids for construction of the Barkley Center on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus were opened Tuesday afternoon.

It is hoped that the center, which will house teaching, research and clinical facilities for instructing the acoustically handicapped and those with speech defects, will be completed by January, 1976.

A gift from the estate of the late William E. Barkley of Lincoln is financing the construction. The facility will house certain operations of the university's speech pathology and audiology division, special education and the educational psychological clinic and the Midwest Regional Media Center for the Deaf. The latter is a federally funded center for developing materials for teaching the deaf.

The Board of Regents will review the bids which totaled $1,222,977.

Low bidders: General construction, Dwight Nelson Construction Co. of Lincoln, $814,960; mechanical, Newberg & Bookstrom of Lincoln, $244,923; electrical, Brite-Way Electric of Lincoln, $128,317; elevator, O'Keefe Elevator of Lincoln, $34,777.

County Attorney's Office Says Betting's The Issue

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Regardless of the skill involved, Nebraska law is being violated if bets are being made in games such as bridge and poker.

This was the contention Tuesday of the Lancaster County Attorney's Office in the action brought against it by owners and operators of the Golden Cue Family Recreation Center at 1907 O.

In closing arguments, Deputy County Attorney Patrick O'Brien said the issue is not whether skill or chance is the dominant factor in the games but if the games are played; and if so, if there is betting.

"Wagering on the outcome of a game is gambling," O'Brien argued.

Long Testifies

John Long, owner of the Golden Cue, testified Tuesday that during the time the Checkmate Club was in operation he allowed checkers, chess, bridge and poker to be played for his gain and the possible gain of the players.

The "Checkmate Club," located within the Golden Cue Center, was in operation for four months in 1973.

Long said he closed it because he was told that if he didn't he would be prosecuted for a felony crime. He subsequently filed the court action.

Long's attorneys argued Monday that the issue is whether the dominant factor of the games is luck or skill.

Skill Dominant Factor

Bridge and poker expert Oswald Jacoby testified that the dominant factor of these games is skill; and if this is so, the games are a legitimate enterprise and do not constitute gambling.

Attorney Herbert Friedman said the county attorney's office had not brought in a single witness to rebut Jacoby's testimony.

He said his client merely wants to be treated equally with other clubs in the community such as the country clubs, Elks Club, and University Club.

Clubs Protected

People should be allowed to play these games even if they can't afford to belong to one of these "socially-elite" clubs which "somehow are protected from prosecution," Friedman and Steve Barry argued.

Lancaster District Judge Dale Fahrnbruch gave the parties 10 days in which to file briefs and an additional seven days for an answer brief at which time the case would be considered submitted.

Course requirements include those in business, chemistry, biology microbiology and physiology. An independent study in medical machine transcription also is included.

Ralston School Opening Delayed

Ralston (AP) — The Ralston School Board has announced that the Middle School will open Sept. 3 rather than Aug. 26. The change is due to construction delays. A spokesman said the elementary schools will open Aug. 26 and the high school Sept. 3 on a short-day schedule.

South St. Closed For Rail Work

The city Traffic Engineer's office announced Tuesday that South St. between Winthrop Rd. and 33rd will be closed to traffic Wednesday and Thursday.

The road will be blocked off to allow Rock Island Railroad officials to work on the railroad tracks which cross South.

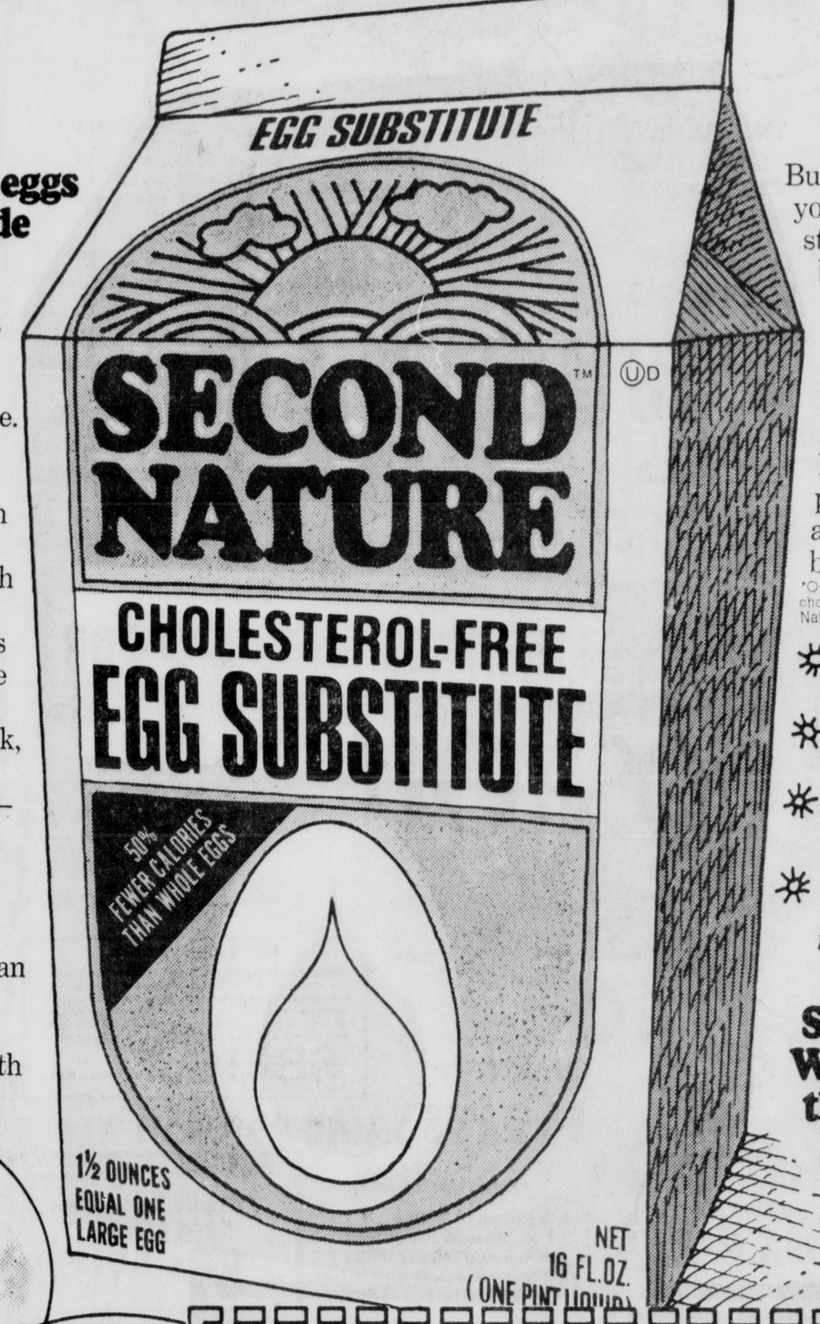

The arterial should be reopened to traffic around 5 p.m. Thursday.

In the interim, the traffic engineer's office is urging motorists to use Capitol Parkway instead of South.

Funds Delayed

Ames, Iowa (UPI) — Officials said it may be this fall before the Iowa Highway Commission and other Iowa agencies know if they are going to receive the nearly $37 million in highway construction money being held back by the federal government.

SeTech Plans To Lease Whittier, Bryan

With the future of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech) to be shaped by its decision, the area board Tuesday agreed to negotiate a lease-purchase agreement for Lincoln Public Schools buildings.

SeTech now rents space from the schools.

The Lincoln Board of Education has directed Supt. John Prasch and business officials to form an offer to sell Whittier School or Bryan School or both to SeTech.

Entries Ready For Judges At Lancaster County Fair

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Lancaster County Fair promises to be bigger and better than ever according to superintendents of the various divisions of the fair.

Long lines of adults and youngsters bearing entries for both the 4-H and open class shows began forming Tuesday afternoon as entry day began. All entries were to be in Tuesday except livestock.

Judging of the 4-H dog show is to begin at 8:00 a.m. Wednesday morning. Judging of most other entries will also begin Wednesday morning.

More Vegetables, Fruit

All entries had to be in the open class officials' hands last week. Totals seem to be much higher, with vegetable and fruit exhibits expected to be twice as numerous as last year.

Bicycle safety demonstrations and tree and weed identification will take place during the day Wednesday, and 4-H demonstrations begin at 7 p.m.

Judge Paul Rohrer of Council Bluffs has offered to meet with anyone interested in showing poultry at 5 p.m. Wednesday afternoon to explain the finer points of showing all types of poultry.

Poultry Exhibit Large

Some 261 birds including chickens, ducks and pigeons are expected to be in the show. It will be one of the largest poultry exhibits at the county fair in many years, according to Howard Wiegers, superintendent of the poultry department.

State Sen. Jerry Warner was assembling poultry cages at an experienced pace to get ready for the poultry late Tuesday.

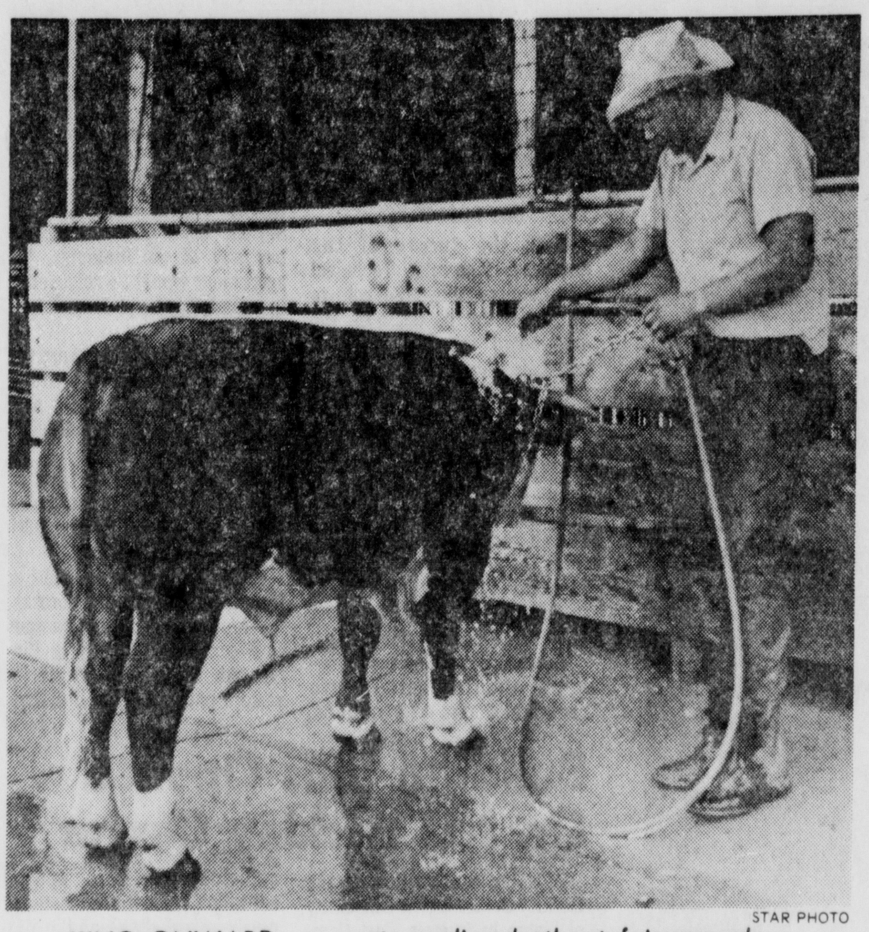

"I didn't know there were this many birds around," he said.

Year Of Hard Work

The fair climaxes a year of hard work in preparing animals, dresses, photo albums, paintings, mechanical projects and hundreds of items by people of all walks of life throughout Lancaster County.

The fair ends Friday evening with a parade of 4-H purple ribbon winners and the official closing ceremonies.

Relatives Identify Montana Crash Victims

Miles City, Mont. (AP) — The Montana Highway Patrol Tuesday identified three Midwestern couples as the dead and injured in a bizarre wreck Monday that killed four persons and critically injured two others.

Officials said relatives arrived by a chartered airplane to sort out the names of the dead and near-dead from the smashup that saw a camper unit hit a lumber truck south of this eastern Montana cowtown.

The patrol said the dead in the smashup included Robert Cox, 54, and his wife, Vera, 52, of Haddam, Kan. Also killed were Dorthy Kettelhut, 53, Fairbury, Neb., and George Kettelhut, 68, Byron, Neb.

The collision left a surviving spouse of each of the Kettelhut victims in critical condition at a Miles City hospital.

The patrol identified the injured as Anna Kettelhut, 64, Byron, and Walter Kettelhut, 69, Fairbury.

The patrol said initial investigation pointed to a supplementary gasoline can carried on the towing unit as the reason for the deadly fire that erupted when the vehicles brushed the side of a Townsend Lumber Co. truck.

The truck involved in the holocaust was driven by Jack Gross of Laurel, Mont. Neither Gross nor his wife, a passenger in the truck, was injured.

Transcon Man Dies In Freak Accident

Omaha (AP) — Richard Rushton, Bennington, was killed here Tuesday in a freak truck accident.

Authorities said Rushton, 50, and another mechanic were working on the brakes of a double-bottom tractor trailer at the Transcon Trucking Co. yard.

Rushton was between the two trailers, and the other mechanic was on the rear trailer.

Another Transcon employe, identified as John Rasmussen, saw the truck and heard its engine running.

Thinking the truck was ready to go, Rasmussen jumped in an drove away.

The worker on the rear trailer jumped to safety, but the worker between the trailers held on.

A few moments later, he either apparently fell or tried to jump, and was run over by the rear trailer.

Officials said Rasmussen became extremely frightened by the series of events, and fled the scene on foot.

Several hours later, he turned himself into police.

Although the incident is currently being considered an accident, investigators said discussions with the Douglas County Attorney's office will be held Wednesday to determine whether charges should be filed against Rasmussen.

The identity of the victim and the other worker were not immediately available.

Omaha Girl Hospitalized With 3rd-Degree Burns

Omaha (AP) — Police said a five-year-old Omaha girl was hospitalized Tuesday with third-degree burns over much of her lower body after she allegedly was placed in scalding bathtub water.

She was Margaret Baker, daughter of Mrs. Doris Baker.

Police said the burns were suffered while Mrs. Baker was at work and a 13-year-old babysitter was with the child.

Policewoman Faith Hampton said the incident was reported as a severe case of sunburn, but the girl said the baby sitter had placed her in the water.

The case was being referred to the Douglas County attorney's office.

Family Denied Damage Claim

The state Claims Board Tuesday denied a $146 claim filed by a farm family held hostage by a prison escapee last February.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rutz of Dawson, asked for $131.06 in property damage and $15.25 for personal injury suffered when prison escapee Robert Earl Fritz held them hostage in their farm home.

A spokesman for the Claims Board said the property damage claim was for material taken as evidence by the state patrol. The spokesman said the patrol returned the property after the claim was filed.

The $15.25 personal injury claim was also denied. The couple claimed the state was responsible for actions of the prison escapee.

Action In Siege Saved Lives, State Penal Director Believes

HOUSTON (AP) — The director of the Nebraska prison system says action by the Texas Department of Corrections during a recent prison siege insured the lives of correction officers across the country.

"TDC set a new type of precedent that they would not consider negotiating release of prisoners in exchange for hostaves," said Joe Vitek.

Vitek commented Monday at the opening sessions of the 104th annual congress of the American Corrections Association.

Hal Husbands, Huntsville prison warden who dealt with the hostage situation in the longest prison hostage siege in United States history, appeared on a panel at the convention.

TDC officials refused to negotiate hostages during the 11-day siege in which convict ringleader Fred Carrasco and two other convicts held TDC employes in the prison library. Carrasco and another convict and two hostages died Aug. 3 when the convicts attempted to escape.

The association endorsed the employment of former offenders in public and private agencies working in the rehabilitation of criminals.

The group said in a position statement that it encourages the concept and practice of such employment in business and industry as well, "based upon the abilities of the individual," not the history of the individual."

Disaster Aid Wanted

Des Moines (UPI) — Gov. Robert D. Ray requested a federal disaster declaration fro Delaware County where a tornado struck the town of Ryan earlier this week, injuring eight persons and inflicting heavy property loss.

NU Seeks Approval Of New Medical Dean

The Board of Regents will be asked to approve the appointment of Dr. Perry G. Rigby as dean of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

Dr. Rigby, 42, has served as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs since 1972. If approved by the regents at their Sept. 7 meeting in Scottsbluff, he would succeed Dr. Robert B. Kugel, who left to become Vice President for Health Affairs at the University of New Mexico in July.

Since the fall of 1973, Dr. Rigby has also served as Interim Associate Dean of the School of Allied Health Professions.

A Nebraska faculty member since 1964, Dr. Rigby has been director of the Division of Hematology since 1968. A Market Scholar in Academic Medicine, he graduated summa cum laude from Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio. He is a graduate of Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine in Cleveland.

Youth Trained For Community Service Work

Thirty-seven junior and senior high school-age Nebraskans received community-work training at a Red Cross Youth Conference at Lincoln's Nebraska Center. The conference ends noon Wednesday.

Conference coordinator Pat Nefzger said the young people from Lincoln, Columbus and West Point were shown common needs in Nebraska communities, and encouraged to work in problem areas.

Representatives from the Lincoln Freeway Station for runaways, Humane Society, Police Youth Camp, Tabitha, nursing home, and juvenile probation program told the delegates how their services could be enhanced by volunteers.

The entire Nebraska Congressional delegation is expected to attend, along with other notable Nebraska Republican party members.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

George Foreman tells me that astrology has played an important role in his life. He has become familiar with the zodiacal signs of past champions. He was most surprised, he says, to learn that Floyd Patterson was a Capricorn, too. Foreman, of course, is a Capricorn and so is Muhammad Ali and more heavyweight champions were born under that sign. "I read you daily," says the champ. "I read you the day I won the title from Joe Frazier." That is music to my ears and, in the near future, we will delve deeper into heavyweight championships and the zodiac.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Settlement is in progress. Know it, be aware and plan accordingly. Gesture of reconciliation is in offing. Be gracious. But also get money's worth. You have right to a thorough accounting. Get it. Build for security.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): See what is, not what should be. Pisces, Virgo persons are involved. Accent is on service, accomplishment, assignment. You get nothing for nothing. That is simple but not always easy to comprehend. Keep health resolutions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Shake-up due to money affairs. You take on added responsibility. You also stand to gain greater rewards. More recognition also is due. You are able to successfully deal with older, conservative individual. You win plaudits for flexibility.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): People seem now to lean upon you with their problems. You can help and make good contacts. Future can be bright if you perceive potential. Aries, Libra individuals figure prominently. Finish what you start!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Messages may go astray. Be sure quatations are correct. Check calls from close neighbors, relatives. You may have to visit hospital for brief treatment or checkup. Another Leo and an Aquarian play important roles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Count change. Be aware of costs, credits and deficits. Take inventory. Aquarius, Leo persons may be involved. Accent is on gaining co-operation of one who can make job easier, more productive. Throw aside false pride. Get to heart of matters by asking for what you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Forces tend to be scattered but you have fun. There also is a tendency to eat too much at one sitting. Accent is on personal appearance, personality, exciting new contacts. Sagittarius, Gemini persons are in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): What was subdued could be "drenched" in publicity, attention. Obviously, this is not a good time for secrets. One who makes long-range promises would like to back down. That's fine if you get something more solid than another story, another whisper, another empty promise. You will understand!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friendship could become meaningful. Romance is likely to be in picture. Change, travel, variety are featured. Gemini, Virgo persons could play significant roles. Be analytical. Take nothing for granted where agreements, partnerships are concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make adjustment which accommodates one who means much to you. Strive for greater harmony on home front. Legal matters are apt to be troublesome. Expenses, budgets are spotlighted. Taurus, Libra persons are in picture.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Unusual communications are received. Unorthodox proposals are featured. Pisces, Virgo individuals could figure prominently. See through surface indications — get true picture, not warmed-over story. Message will become increasingly clear.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Someone is withholding information concerning costs, product. Look behind the scenes. Let others know that you are not without allies. Show that you can accept facts. Discard rumors, suppositions. Mature approach is more of a necessity than usual.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have a weight problem, a sense of humor, the ability to make people feel good and December will be your most important month of 1974. Sagittarius, Gemini persons play significant roles in your life. You have made great changes and you are in love. Be grateful. You soon will be changing residence or lifestyle.

(Learn "The Truth About Astrology." Send birthdate (for our survey) and 75 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Lincoln Star, Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053. You'll open door to fascinating study and self-revelation!)

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Guadalajara — After two years in "the best damn climate at the best damn prices in the world," Clem Watson is going home to the states.

We were sitting in the shady outdoor dining room overlooking a $50,000 swimming pool and an 18-hole golf course laid out by Larry Hughes at heaven knows what cost.

Clem wears a monogramed teeshirt, handmade saddle shoes, a Bing Crosby style golf hat, creamy slacks flown down from New York. He is 60. Been married 38 years. An unmarried daughter lives with them.

He said: "When we first came down here we built a house — that's the guest house now. Then we built the big house. The two together ought to be worth $195,000.

"What does it cost to live? Well, we don't do any cut-rate shopping. We buy the Maxi Supermarket — the most expensive in Guadalajara. Then we've got four servants to pay and we feed them too.

"Oh, I guess living costs run us a thousand dollars a month. Try to do it in New York with that setup. And you'll never find weather like this anywhere else. It's always spring."

But Clem Watson is going home to the states. Tomorrow.

There are so many retired Americans here — (more than 50,000 the last I asked) — that the U.S. keeps a Consulate General in Guadalajara. Even with Mexico's inflation living is a fourth less here than in Mexico city.

You can rent a house on the edge of Lake Chapala for $175. A maid three hours a day costs you $6 a week. A couple at the lake makes it for $70 weekly for everything but housing. They own that. Paid $20,000 for it.

"I don't know what it is I miss," said Clem Watson.

His wife said: "I miss the change in the weather. There's no fall or winter. I'd like to see the leaves change again in the autumn."

Clem said: "You mean when we go back to New York? Never. We might try San Diego for awhile. Or something."

☆ ☆ ☆

This part of Mexico has a broad range of retired incomes: Simple Social Security people living in boardingroom houses up to the Watsons who can put $195,000 into a country club home.

There are retired admirals, captains, colonels. School teachers on pensions. Wanderers with not enough to live well in the U.S. but who do fine on Mexican economy and plenty of invitations to dinner.

The air is clear. No smog. The only smoke comes from the charcoal cooking fires in the Indian villages.

A magazine survey says Guadalajara is the healthiest climate anywhere. And because of prevailing winds, it's the last place in the world to get fallout from atomic blasts.

☆ ☆ ☆

Clem Watson's daughter said: "I took a crash course in Spanish for six months. But there really isn't much to do here."

His wife said: "There's a lot of little things —. I don't know. It's just little things."

Little things I expect are the movies — familiar faces — speaking Spanish.

Little things are the maids who leave the front door open to flies. No matter how often you remind them.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Maybe when I get back I'll miss it, Clem. We won't sell the houses here yet. You should come over and see them. They are really nice. You get furniture made here for almost nothing."

He said: "Come over and have a drink with us. But make it tonight. We're leaving tomorrow."

Ex-Actress Offered Post As Diplomat

Washington (UPI) — President Ford nominated ex-actress Shirley Temple Black to be U.S. ambassador to Ghana.

Mrs. Black, of Woodside, Calif., has represented the United States at the United Nations and in other short-term diplomatic assignments in recent years. She also lost a Republican primary election to Rep. Paul McCloskey of California.

During her acting career, Mrs. Black played leading roles in more than 40 motion pictures and 50 one hour television shows. She is best remembered for her performance as a child in such movies as "The Good Ship Lollipop."

Power Company Cuts Building

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — Duke Power Co., the nation's sixth largest utility, is cutting back its construction program by almost $1.5 billion during the next five years.

The reduction was authorized at a special meeting of the utility's board of directors.

Duke President Carl Horn Jr. said that much of the company's construction program has been rescheduled primarily because of critical conditions existing in financial markets.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Scientists have discovered that it is almost impossible to hear any difference between the speech of children newly classified as stutterers and the speech of other children.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that a study of two, three and four-year-old children reveals they repeat their words about 50 times in every thousand words of normal speech, some as much as a hundred words in a thousand. Repetition is part of learning to talk.

Stuttering as a serious problem, develops after someone judges the child a "stutterer." The judgment is made by the listener, most often a mother.

Once the label is attached to the child's speech, the listener begins to hear all repetitions and hesitations as stuttering and reacts with disapproval. The child reacts with uneasiness in speaking and the serious problem of stuttering arises.

The Nebraska Medical Association suggests that you should first check with your family doctor about good physical health, if you feel a speech problem is developing. Then, ask some of the simple procedures that you, as a listener, can do to help your child relax as a speaker.

Works Receives Research Fellowship

Dr. Robert G. Works of Lincoln, has been named a 1974 Loman Research Fellow according to an announcement by Lorin K. Schophoerster, CPCU, CLU, chairman of the board of trustees of the Harry J. Loman Foundation.

The fellowship carries with it a $1,000 grant to analyze the various methods of structuring residual market mechanisms. Dr. Works has titled his research, "Keeping Residual Markets Residual."

A graduate of Kansas State University, Dr. Works holds a J.D. degree from St. Louis University. He is associate professor in the College of Law at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The Harry J. Loman Foundation was established in 1961 by the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters for the purpose of supporting insurance education and research.

5 Reappointed To Health Board

Gov. J. J. Exon announced Tuesday the reappointment of five members to the State Board of Health for three-year terms.

Reappointed were Mrs. Maxine Morrison and D. M. Krogh, both of Omaha; Ken Witt and Richard C. Hanna, both of Lincoln, and Dr. Clarence David Jr., Osceola.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

George Foreman tells me that astrology has played an important role in his life. He has become familiar with the zodiacal signs of past champions. He was most surprised, he says, to learn that Floyd Patterson was a Capricorn, too. Foreman, of course, is a Capricorn and so is Muhammad Ali and more heavyweight champions were born under that sign. "I read you daily," says the champ. "I read you the day I won the title from Joe Frazier." That is music to my ears and, in the near future, we will delve deeper into heavyweight championships and the zodiac.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Settlement is in progress. Know it, be aware and plan accordingly. Gesture of reconciliation is in offing. Be gracious. But also get money's worth. You have right to a thorough accounting. Get it. Build for security.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) See what is not what should be. Pisces, Virgo persons are involved. Accent is on service, accomplishment, assignment. You get nothing for nothing. That is simple but not always easy to comprehend. Keep health resolutions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Shake up due to money affairs. You take on added responsibility. You also stand to gain greater rewards. More recognition also is due. You are able to successfully deal with older, conservative individual. You win plaudits for flexibility.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) People seem now to lean upon you with their problems. You can help and make good contacts. Future can be bright if you perceive potential. Aries, Libra individuals figure prominently. Finish what you start!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Messages may go astray. Be sure quatations are correct. Check calls from close neighbors, relatives. You may have to visit hospital for brief treatment or checkup. Another Leo and an Aquarian play important roles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Count change. Be aware of costs, credits and deficits. Take inventory. Aquarius, Leo persons may be involved. Accent is on gaining co-operation of one who can make job easier, more productive. Throw aside false pride. Get to heart of matters by asking for what you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Forces tend to be scattered but you have fun. There also is a tendency to eat too much at one sitting. Accent is on personal appearance, personality, exciting new contacts. Sagittarius, Gemini persons are in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) What was subdued could be "drenched" in publicity, attention. Obviously, this is not a good time for secrets. One who makes long-range promises would like to back down. That's fine if you get something more solid than another story, another whisper, another empty promise. You will understand!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Friendship could become meaningful. Romance is likely to be in picture. Change, travel, variety are featured. Gemini, Virgo persons could play significant roles. Be analytical. Take nothing for granted where agreements, partnerships are concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Make adjustment which accommodates one who means much to you. Strive for greater harmony on home front. Legal matters are apt to be troublesome. Expenses, budgets are spotlighted. Taurus, Libra persons are in picture.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Unusual communications are received. Unorthodox proposals are featured. Pisces, Virgo individuals could figure prominently. See through surface indications — get true picture, not warmed over story. Message will become increasingly clear.

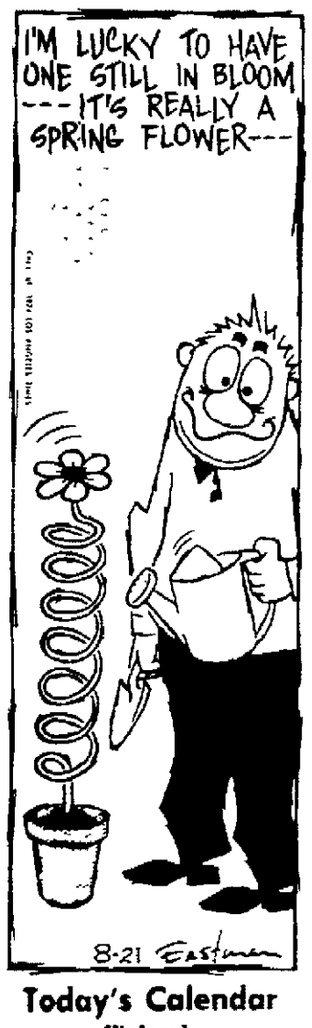

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Someone is withholding information concerning cost's product. Look behind the scenes. Let others know that you are not without allies. Show that you can accept facts. Discard rumors, suppositions. Mature approach is more of a necessity than usual.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have a weight problem, a sense of humor, the ability to make people feel good and December will be your most important month of 1974. Sagittarius, Gemini persons play significant roles in your life. You have made great changes and you are in love. Be grateful. You soon will be changing residence or lifestyle.

'Blood Land' Probes White-Indian Strife

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

Jan Van Sickle was playing one of the Three Musketeers at a $100-a-seat Detroit theater the night Richard Nixon was inaugurated President.

He decided that night Three Musketeers have nothing to do with Richard Nixon, and plays, as they were being played, have very little to do with people.

"Blood Land Inheritance," the first play by the Free Theater of Lincoln, is Van Sickle's first attempt to bring performing arts out of what he considers elitist circles.

At a special Tuesday night preview, it did the job very well.

About Real Indian

The play is about a real Indian, Pah Gee, who really signed an 1868 treaty giving Sioux Indians most of the Black Hills, including Wounded Knee.

Pah Gee, "grass" in the Lakota language of the Sioux, returns for the 1973 American Indian Movement protests on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

His counterpart is Ed Ergebig, "prosperous" in German.

The two personify the conflict's polarity.

Pah Gee is reincarnation of a treaty which Indians say has been transgressed.

Guaranteed Beliefs

The treaty guaranteed Indian religious beliefs that nature cannot be possessed. It made Pine Ridge a Sioux sanctuary.

Ergebig is a South Dakota farmer with a Ben Cartwright strict respect for the American law and every man's Ponderosa.

"If you maintain your ground, you own it," he says. "Conquest. And ownership by conquest, that's what's at issue."

He quotes Exodus in which God tells His children to take the land of the Canannites and Hittites, heeding never to make a covenant with them because treaties just prove troublesome later.

No Stand Intended

Van Sickle, in an earlier interview, said he wrote the play intending it would take no stand.

He gave both sides valid arguments. But it seems one side is more valid.

The protesting Indians are right, the play seems to say. The white residents are just more powerful.

But for those of us who happen to believe that's true, it seems no dramatic treatment of the issue could leave any other impression.

"Blood Land Inheritance" was written by Van Sickle. It was produced and is acted by fewer than 15 people, all but four of whom are volunteers.

The play is financed by a National Endowment for the Arts grant.

Not Amateur

But by no means is it an amateur production. It probes, thoroughly and sensitively, the apparently impossible frictions between alien cultures forced to coexist.

Its understanding of Indian "bewilderment" in the face of ancestral custom vs state law is complete.

Don and Betty Diez play Ergebig and his wife, Eileen. Van Sickle is Pah Gee. Fritz Sperberg plays a policeman, vigilante, calvary general and tribal chairman Dickie Wilson/trickie Dick combination.

All major characters are fluent and professional in their deliveries.

Donna Hare plays another South Dakota farmwife and Doug Hord, a vigilante.

Hope To Spread Arts

Van Sickle and the others organized the Free Theater to bring performing arts to more than the 4.5% now viewing them, he said.

The theater's plays deal in real, social issues, he said, partially because he thinks art should be useful as well as enjoyable.

But it's also a step toward honesty in theatrics, he said. Every art influences audiences to certain attitudes and activities, he said. Regrettably, it has always bostered upper class beliefs.

Another Perspective

Free Theater plays tell the story from another perspective, he said, then leave the audience as free as possible to draw conclusions.

"Theater's value is as an activity in its audience," Van Sickle said.

Van Sickle has a bachelors degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and masters from Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich., both in Theater.

The play will be on Wednesday and Friday at the Community Playhouse, then Sunday through next Thursday at the Free Theater, 917 O St.

Services Set Friday For Rev. Sandall

Funeral services will be 1 p.m. Friday at St. Paul United Methodist Church for the Rev. Dr. Harold Sandall, 72, longtime Nebraska Methodist minister, who died Tuesday.

The Rev. Dr. Sandall was the Lincoln United Methodist inner city pastor, working with congregations from Newman, Grace, Epworth, Faith and Warren United Methodist Churches. In addition, he was a volunteer for several agencies, including the Lincoln Action Program, the Indian Center and the Emergency Food Pantry.

He was the founder and executive director of the Lincoln On Utility Payments (LOUP) agency, an organization designed to help families in financial straits meet their utilities payments.

The Rev. Dr. Sandall, a native of Bassett, also was the hospital chaplain for out-of-town Methodists in Lincoln's hospitals.

Rev. Harold Sandall

He had served pastorates in Wallace, Goehner, Wisner-Beemer and Gering and was district superintendent of the Lincoln and northwest Nebraska regions. In Lincoln, he was the pastor of Grace and St. Paul United Methodist Churches.

The Rev. Dr. Sandall got his start in the ministry in the 1920s, when he rode a horse more than 40 miles each Sunday around a five-point circuit in northern Nebraska. He was the last surviving such circuit rider.

A graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, the Rev. Dr. Sandall also was a trustee of that Methodist institution. He also had been the president of the university's alumni association.

He also received degrees from Garrett Seminary and Northwestern University, both in Evanston, Ill. Nebraska Wesleyan awarded him an honorary doctor of divinity degree.

The Rev. Dr. Sandall was an honorary member of the board of directors at Bryan Memorial Hospital in Lincoln, and was a member of the board of the Wesley Foundations at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and Chadron State College. He was the past master of the Masonic Lodge at Wallace and was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 210 in Lincoln, the Scottish Rite and the Theta Chi fraternity alumni association.

The Rev. Dr. Sandall is survived by his wife, Evelyn; son, H. Lawrence, Arlington, Va.; daughter, Mrs. Bruce (Ingrid) Hutchings, Champaign, Ill.; brothers, Archie, Lloyd, both of Bassett; and four grandchildren.

Elderly Madam Caught Again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A grey-haired 74-year-old woman has been fined $1,000 and placed on three years probation for soliciting an undercover sheriff's reserve deputy to work as a prostitute.

Elizabeth Winters, of National City, who was convicted of a similar charge in 1961, pleaded guilty Monday before Superior Court Judge Ross G. Tharp.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Guadalajara — After two years in "the best damn climate at the best damn prices in the world," Clem Watson is going home to the states.

We were sitting in the shady outdoor dining room overlooking a $50,000 swimming pool and an 18-hole golf course laid out by Larry Hughes at heaven knows what cost.

Clem wears a monogramed teeshirt, handmade saddle shoes, a Bing Crosby style golf hat, creamy slacks flown down from New York. He is 60. Been married 38 years. An unmarried daughter lives with them.

He said: "When we first came down here we built a house — that's the guest house now. Then we built the big house. The two together ought to be worth $195,000.

"What does it cost to live? Well, we don't do any cut-rate shopping. We buy the Maxi Supermarket — the most expensive in Guadalajara. Then we've got four servants to pay and we feed them too.

"Oh, I guess living costs run us a thousand dollars a month. Try to do it in New York with that setup. And you'll never find weather like this anywhere else. It's always spring."

But Clem Watson is going home to the states. Tomorrow.

There are so many retired Americans here — (more than 50,000 the last I asked) — that the U.S. keeps a Consulate General in Guadalajara. Even with Mexico's inflation living is a fourth less here than in Mexico city

You can rent a house on the edge of Lake Chapala for $175. A maid three hours a day costs you $6 a week. A couple at the lake makes it for $70 weekly for everything but housing. They own that. Paid $20,000 for it.

"I don't know what it is I miss," said Clem Watson.

His wife said: "I miss the change in the weather. There's no fall or winter. I'd like to see the leaves change again in the autumn."

Clem said: "You mean when we go back to New York? Never. We might try San Diego for awhile. Or something."

☆ ☆ ☆

This part of Mexico has a broad range of retired incomes: Simple Social Security people living in boardingroom houses up to the Watsons who can put $195,000 into a country club home

There are retired admirals, captains, colonels. School teachers on pensions. Wanderers with not enough to live well in the U.S. but who do fine on Mexican economy and plenty of invitations to dinner.

The air is clear. No smog. The only smoke comes from the charcoal cooking fires in the Indian villages.

A magazine survey says Guadalajara is the healthiest climate anywhere. And because of prevailing winds, it's the last place in the world to get fallout from atomic blasts.

☆ ☆ ☆

Clem Watson's daughter said: "I took a crash course in Spanish for six months. But there really isn't much to do here."

His wife said: "There's a lot of little things —. I don't know. It's just little things."

Little things I expect are the movies — familiar faces — speaking Spanish.

Little things are the maids who leave the front door open to flies. No matter how often you remind them.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Maybe when I get back I'll miss it, Clem. We won't sell the houses here yet. You should come over and see them. They are really nice. You get furniture made here for almost nothing."

He said: "Come over and have a drink with us. But make it tonight. We're leaving tomorrow."

Ex-Actress Offered Post As Diplomat

Washington (UPI) — President Ford nominated ex-actress Shirley Temple Black to be U.S. ambassador to Ghana.

Mrs. Black, of Woodside, Calif., has represented the United States at the United Nations and in other short-term diplomatic assignments in recent years. She also lost a Republican primary election to Rep. Paul McCloskey of California.

During her acting career, Mrs. Black played leading roles in more than 40 motion pictures and 50 one hour television shows. She is best remembered for her performance as a child in such movies as "The Good Ship Lollipop."

Power Company Cuts Building

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — Duke Power Co., the nation's sixth largest utility, is cutting back its construction program by almost $1.5 billion during the next five years.

The reduction was authorized at a special meeting of the utility's board of directors.

Duke President Carl Horn Jr. said that much of the company's construction program has been rescheduled primarily because of critical conditions existing in financial markets

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Scientists have discovered that it is almost impossible to hear any difference between the speech of children newly classified as stutterers and the speech of other children.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that a study of two, three and four-year-old children reveals they repeat their words about 50 times in every thousand words of normal speech, some as much as a hundred words in a thousand. Repetition is part of learning to talk.

Stuttering as a serious problem, develops after someone judges the child a "stutterer." The judgment is made by the listener, most often a mother.

Once the label is attached to the child's speech, the listener begins to hear all repetitions and hesitations as stuttering and reacts with disapproval. The child reacts with uneasiness in speaking and the serious problem of stuttering arises.

The Nebraska Medical Association suggests that you should first check with your family doctor about good physical health, if you feel a speech problem is developing. Then, ask some of the simple procedures that you, as a listener, can do to help your child relax as a speaker.

'Blood Land' Probes White-Indian Strife

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

Jan Van Sickle was playing one of the Three Musketeers at a $100-a-seat Detroit theater the night Richard Nixon was inaugurated President.

He decided that night Three Musketeers have nothing to do with Richard Nixon, and plays, as they were being played, have very little to do with people.

"Blood Land Inheritance," the first play by the Free Theater of Lincoln, is Van Sickle's first attempt to bring performing arts out of what he considers elitist circles.

At a special Tuesday night preview, it did the job very well.

About Real Indian

The play is about a real Indian, Pah Gee, who really signed an 1868 treaty giving Sioux Indians most of the Black Hills, including Wounded Knee.

Pah Gee, "grass" in the Lakota language of the Sioux, returns for the 1973 American Indian Movement protests on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

His counterpart is Ed Ergebig, "prosperous" in German.

The two personify the conflict's polarity.

Pah Gee is reincarnation of a treaty which Indians say has been transgressed.

Guaranteed Beliefs

The treaty guaranteed Indian religious beliefs that nature cannot be possessed. It made Pine Ridge a Sioux sanctuary.

Ergebig is a South Dakota farmer with a Ben Cartwright strict respect for the American law and every man's Ponderosa.

"If you maintain your ground, you own it," he says. "Conquest. And ownership by conquest, that's what's at issue."

He quotes Exodus in which God tells His children to take the land of the Canannites and Hittites, heeding never to make a covenant with them because treaties just prove troublesome later.

No Stand Intended

Van Sickle, in an earlier interview, said he wrote the play intending it would take no stand.

He gave both sides valid arguments. But it seems one side is more valid.

The protesting Indians are right, the play seems to say. The white residents are just more powerful.

But for those of us who happen to believe that's true, it seems no dramatic treatment of the issue could leave any other impression.

"Blood Land Inheritance" was written by Van Sickle. It was produced and is acted by fewer than 15 people, all but four of whom are volunteers.

The play is financed by a National Endowment for the Arts grant.

Not Amateur

But by no means is it an amateur production. It probes, thoroughly and sensitively, the apparently impossible frictions between alien cultures forced to coexist.

Its understanding of Indian "bewilderment" in the face of ancestral custom vs state law is complete.

Don and Betty Diez play Ergebig and his wife, Eileen. Van Sickle is Pah Gee. Fritz Sperberg plays a policeman, vigilante, calvary general and tribal chairman Dickie Wilson/trickie Dick combination.

All major characters are fluent and professional in their deliveries.

Donna Hare plays another South Dakota farmwife and Doug Hord, a vigilante.

Hope To Spread Arts

Van Sickle and the others organized the Free Theater to bring performing arts to more than the 4.5% now viewing them, he said.

The theater's plays deal in real, social issues, he said, partially because he thinks art should be useful as well as enjoyable.

But it's also a step toward honesty in theatrics, he said. Every art influences audiences to certain attitudes and activities, he said. Regrettably, it has always bostered upper class beliefs.

Another Perspective

Free Theater plays tell the story from another perspective, he said, then leave the audience as free as possible to draw conclusions.

"Theater's value is as an activity in its audience," Van Sickle said.

Van Sickle has a bachelors degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and masters from Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich., both in Theater.

The play will be on Wednesday and Friday at the Community Playhouse, then Sunday through next Thursday at the Free Theater, 917 O St.

Elderly Madam Caught Again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A grey-haired 74-year-old woman has been fined $1,000 and placed on three years probation for soliciting an undercover sheriff's reserve deputy to work as a prostitute.

Elizabeth Winters, of National City, who was convicted of a similar charge in 1961, pleaded guilty Monday before Superior Court Judge Ross G. Tharp.

I've popped the zipper in my Air Force parka made by Reed Products Inc. Please help me find a replacement.

ACTION LINE: Broadway Cleaners, 125 West Broadway, Council Bluffs, Iowa, which does a lot of repair work for Offut Air Force Base, Omaha, can supply you with the correct sized zipper for about $2.50.

However, John Vlahoulis, general manager, said the Air Force green colored zipper is not available but he can sell you a zipper "that's close."

When you write, be sure to specify if the zipper is an N3B or N2B.

Last December we bought a female blond cocker spaniel pup from Mrs. Kenneth Kremer in Aurora. The pup was advertised as an American Kennel Club purebred, but we still don't have the papers. What's the hold-up?

—Kim Schweers, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Mrs. Kremer blames her inexperience as a dog dealer for the delay. She said she'd never filled out the American Kennel Club papers before and kept making mistakes, which slowed the process.

She said, however, that she finally did the paperwork correctly and the registration papers should be coming through the mail sometime this week.

Recently I read an article that said the green in potatoes was poisonous. I pulled up my white onions and the same thing has happened to them. About the first, second and third layers are green. Are they safe to eat?

—R. Sander, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Wayne Whitney, extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said the green doesn't mean the onions have been damaged and there's no harm in eating them.

But, he said, you're right about the potatoes. The green should always be cut off because it's poisonous.

Why isn't there a sign indicating Hwy. 2 where 27th St. intersects with it from the north? There is only a regular little street sign reading "Nebraska Highway." To an out-of-towner, that is meaningless. He would probably keep driving south looking for the highway.

ACTION LINE: "Nebraska Highway" is the official name given the street by the Lincoln City Council just like U.S. 34 is O St. and U.S. 6 and U.S. 77 is Cornhusker Hwy.

The State Roads Dept. is responsible for putting up highway markers. Eldon Orth, state traffic engineer, said the highway markers are put up in the city when there is a junction of two highways.

"Otherwise, we'd have a market at every intersection and the more signs, the more vision is blocked at road crossings," he said.

Orth said the sign system is designed for the average person not acquainted with town who is coming in from one end or another and wants to stay on Hwy. 2. Most locals coming down 27th St. are aware that the Nebraska Highway is Hwy. 2.

Is the Ozark National Life Insurance Co., 906 Grand Ave., Kansas City, Mo., a reliable company?

—A reader, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The State Insurance Dept. lists the company as reliable. It is a stock company which was incorporated in Kansas City in 1964 and licensed to sell insurance in Nebraska in 1972.

The local Better Business Bureau did not have a report on the company, which means the company is not registered with them and there have been no complaints filed against it.

Why is the price of sugar so outragious this summer?

—Mrs. Roger Harris, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Blame the United States entering the world sugar market for the high prices. Elmer Harder, public relations director of the Omaha division, Safeway Stores, Inc., said that when our nation entered the world market, it inherited the higher level prices.

Persons of foreign nations are discovering that sugar is both a sweetening and a source of energy, Harder said, which has increased a world demand that suppliers can't meet.

Allan Noddle, vice president of sales and merchandising for area Hinky Dinky stores, claims home canning puts a slight pressure on the market, but the biggest push comes from increased demands from industries making sweet things like jams, jellies, cookies, soft drinks.

How can I get ahold of some old copies of Beatles Monthly?

—Mary Lempfer, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Sorry, Mary, but you may have to stick to just listening to Beatles records. The reference librarian at the Bennet Martin City Library said the magazine you're looking for was published monthly in 1963 in London by Sean Mahoney.

It was called Beatles Book and was just a temporary craze in Great Britain. Consequently, she said, there are not many copies in the United States.

A check of the Union List of Serials, which gives the holdings of libraries across the nation, showed that no other libraries had copies of the magazine either

Gambling Scandal Hits NFL's Giants

NEW YORK (UPI) — A stunning gambling scandal, involving the former team physician of the New York Giants, rocked the National Football League Tuesday with the indictment of two known gamblers in a $1 million professional football betting ring.

A 40-count indictment against Thomas Musto, 65, of New York and Michael Astarita, 47, of Hillsdale, N.J., was returned in Manhattan Supreme Court. Both men were taken into custody under the indictment, which contained a total of 40 counts on gambling and criminal conspiracy. The court papers also mentioned the involvement of Dr. Anthony Pisani, who for 10 years was chief orthopedic surgeon for the Giants before resigning last month.

Dr. Pisani was not charged, however, because according to sources close to the two-year investigation, he cooperated fully in the investigation. Pisani tendered his resignation after NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle and Giants president Wellington Mara both were informed he was involved in an investigation.

According to the indictment, Musto and Astarita consulted with Dr. Pisani on the physical condition of various Giants players.

Musto was a "soldier" in the Vito Genovese crime family, while Astarita was associated with the late Thomas "Tommy Ryan" Eboli, who was once the manager of boxer Rocky Castellani.

Manhattan District Attorney Richard Kuh declined comment on why no action was taken against Pisani, saying only that "it is not the practice of this office to go beyond the scope of the indictment.

While Kuh would only offer a "no comment" when asked it Pisani had cooperated in the investigation, Greg Perrin, Pisani's lawyer, said his client had become "unfortunately involved through his acquaintance with Musto and Astarita, who were his patients for a period of years. The doctor is not involved in any way with any wrong doing."

According to the conspiracy count in the indictment, Musto and Astarita were involved in some of these "overt acts."

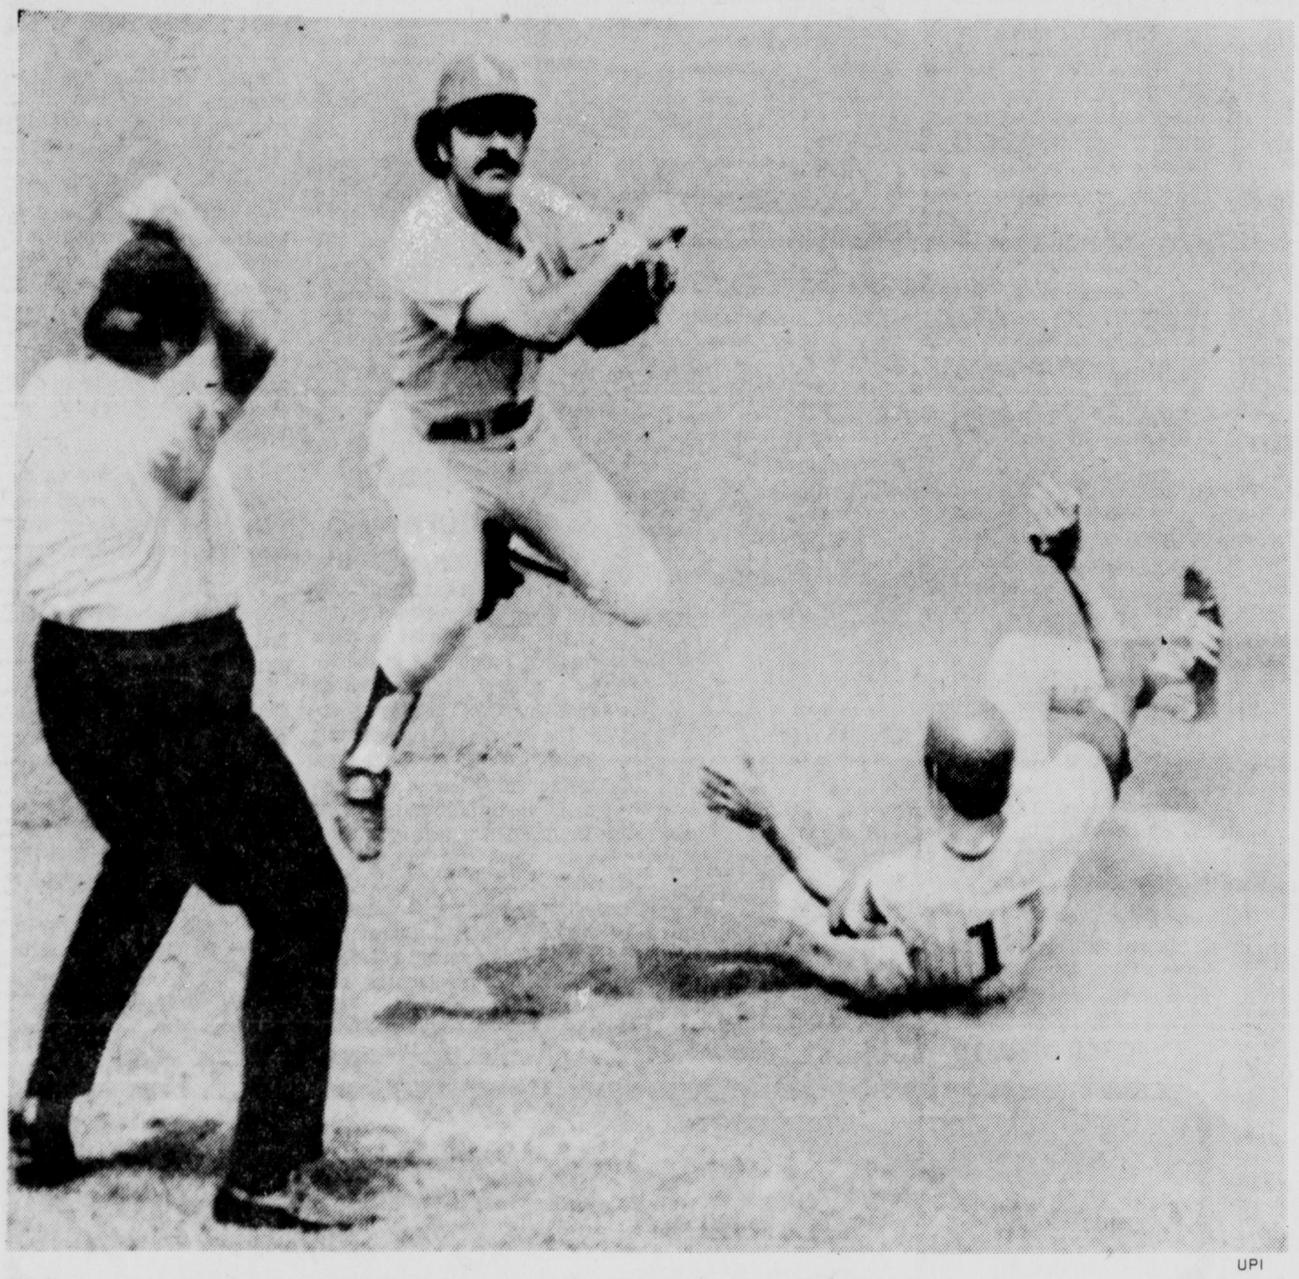

"1. On or about Oct. 4, 1973, Thomas Musto and Michael Astarita conferred with Dr. Anthony Pisani about the physical condition of Ron Johnson (Giant fullback).

"2. On or about Oct. 6., 1973, Michael Astarita called the office of Dr. Anthony Pisani.

"3. On or about Oct. 12, 1973, Thomas Musto refused to discuss the football line with a certain individual stating 'I want to speak to the doctor first to find out what he knows about injuries.' "

Kuh said the indictment covered a period from September, 1973, to December, 1973, although the actual investigation had been going on for more than a year.

At NFL headquarters here, a spokesman issued a terse statement which said that the league office had been aware of the New York City police deparatment investigation for some time, but had been unable to come up with any information to help the probe.

UPI

Umpire John McSherry calls out the Chicago Cubs' Don Kissinger (11) as the Los Angeles Dodgers' second baseman Dave Lopes relays the throw to first base, which went into the Dodgers' dugout and allowed Jose Cardenal to advance to second.

Dodgers Maul Chicago,18-8 Powered By Lopes Hitting

By United Press International

Dave Lopes, hitting safely his first five times at bat, hit three home runs Tuesday to spark a 24-hit attack which carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 18-8 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers, who collected six homers, mounted the biggest hit and home run total in their 16-year-old Los Angeles history. Their 24-hit attack eclipsed a previous club record of 20 and their homer output bettered the previous high of five.

Jim Wynn, Willie Crawford and Steve Garvey also homered for the Dodgers with Crawford and Ron Cey each collecting four hits.

Carmen Fanzone had a grand slam homer and Rick Stelmaszek had a two-run homer for the Cubs.

Don Sutton, winless against the Cubs at Wrigley Field in five years, coasted to his 11th win of the year. He was replaced after seven innings because of the 95 degree heat.

Lopes had a double and a run-scoring single in addition to his three homers.

In other games, Cincinnati crushed Philadelphia 7-1, Atlanta topped St. Louis 8-6, Houston downed New York 6-2, San Diego blanked Montreal 3-0 and San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 8-7 in 10 innings.

Johnny Bench belted a three-run homer and Joe Morgan clouted a solo shot to power Cincinnati over the Phillies and keep the Reds 2½ games behind the Dodgers in the National League West.

Clay Kirby went the distance for the Reds, allowing only five hits, to gain his eighth win in 15 decisions.

Darrell Evans hit a two-run homer and a triple and Hank Aaron and Marty Perez had three hits each to lead the Braves to victory over the Cardinals.

Lou Brock stole his 85th base for St. Louis, putting him well ahead of Maury Wills' pace in 1962 when he stole a record 104 bases. Joe Torre homered for the Cardinals.

Lee May slammed his 19th homer to spark a 12-hit attack and young righthander James Rodney Richard, with relief help from Mike Cosgrove, recorded his first victory of the season as the Astros defeated the Mets.

Richard, the 6-foot-8 fastball pitcher in his third year with the Astros, gave up only two hits through 6 1-3 innings but suffered from wildness.

Willie McCovey smacked a three-run homer and rookie Dave Freisleben tossed a three-hitter to lead the Padres to victory over the Expos.

McCovey's 19th homer came in the fourth inning after Dave Hilton led off with a single and Johnny Grubb walked. McCovey's blast was his seventh homer in his last 12 games. Freisleben walked seven and struck out three while boosting his record to 9-7.

Juan Pizarro, purchased from the Mexican League only Monday, walked Bruce Miller in the 10th inning with the bases loaded, forcing in the winning run to give the Giants a victory over the Pirates.

Tito Fuentes and Bobby Bonds opened the inning with walks off reliever John Morlan before Pizarro came in to get Gary Matthews on a flyout. The runners were sacrificed ahead, and Chris Speier was walked intentionally, loading the bases before Pizarro walked Miller on a 3-2 pitch to force in the winning run.

Fuentes collected five hits for the Giants while Rennie Stennett hit his fifth homer and a two-run single for the Pirates.

Tony Solaita and Fran Healy belted fifth inning home runs off Gaylord Perry and Lindy McDaniel turned in four innings of two-hit relief Tuesday night to spark the Kansas City Royals to a 2-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Solaita drilled his fifth homer of the season over the centerfield fence leading off the fifth and Healy smacked a 3-2 pitch over the leftfield barrier two outs later.

McDaniel took over for starter Al Fitzmorris who was forced to leave the game with an injury at the start of the sixth and blanked the Indians the rest of the way to pick up his first save of the year.

Perry, who has now lost seven of eight decisions after winning 15 in a row, was tagged for eight hits in losing his eighth game against 16 victories.

In other games Baltimore edged Texas 2-1, Boston beat Chicago 8-3, and New York edged Minnesota 2-1.

Mike Cuellar tossed a five-hitter for his 15th win and Brooks Robinson and Mrk Belanger drove in second inning runs to lead the Orioles over Texas.

Baltimore scored twice in the second inning off loser Jackie Brown. Don Baylor singled, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on Robinson's double. After Ellie Hendricks singled Robinson to third, Belanger's sacrifice fly chased Robinson home.

Dick Drago's first complete game since July 8 and a 13-hit attack led the Red Sox over Chicago.

King, Little Sac Team In Columbus Feature

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Columbus — Warren Albert is once again one of the happier men in the state of Nebraska as racing is underway at Agricultural Park.

With a refurbished and redesigned grandstand and clubhouse Albert expects this year to be the best in the Park's history.

"We have a new full service pari-mutual windows in the new section on the ground floor of the grandstand," said Albert. "We also have additional seating for 300 people surrounding the new windows."

"Private and remote control color TV is available in the clubhouse that now has room for twice as many people as last year," he continues, "With more and better seating for the fans we feel we have quite a bit of comfort to offer the racing fan."

"We also have more and better horses than ever before. We seem to be attracting more quality horses than in the past also," he concludes.

The jockeys also seem to be happy with the Columbus facility. Jockey Wayne Anderson commented, "This is pretty much the same track as Lincoln but without that tight first turn. I guess that you'd have to say it is a safer track. The track is dry on top and slick on the bottom," he added, "but and that should make for slower times than usual but I would guess that if the weather improves so will the track condition."

"I'm looking forward to a good season here but Ecoffey (Fred) and King (Dave) should be the ones to beat," concluded Anderson.

In the day's feature race Dave King took Little Sac to the outside the swept past the pack to win the race for three-year-olds and upward by one length over Renegotiate and the crowd favorite Apart.

Little Sac the fourth favorite in the seven horse field returned $14.80, $6.20 and $2.80, while Renegotiate, with Kevin Lintner riding, paid $5.60 and $2.80. The 8-5 favorite in the race Apart returned $2.20.

Little Sac, a Clark Budson owned and trained gelding, hadn't won a race since late April at Fonner Park.

"He was just starting to get lit, and so we went around the pack to avoid any possible trouble," said jockey Dave King. "Sometimes you just can't get him back and then you can't get him to move, but today he worked just fine."

In this, the 34th running on the five furlong oval the mutual handle increased over $10,000 running one less race than last year for the opening day. "I think that this is the best indicator we have of a good season coming this year. We will be having some pretty good stakes races, such as the Van Berg Stakes and two Nebraska Bred feature with purses around $3,500-added," said General Manager Albert.

There are 24 days of racing left with eight races on the weekdays and nine on Saturdays and Labor Day. Post times for the weekday events begin at 4 and 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Track Meet Sites Same

The Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) has voted to award the state high school track meet cites to Omaha and North Platte again for 1975.

In its monthly meeting in Lincoln, the NSAA Board of Control set the girls state meet for May 17 at North Platte and the boys for May 23-24 at Omaha Burke.

According to NSAA executive secretary Les Chamberlin, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce made no pitch to attract either meet.

Chamberlin indicated the Board of Control has authorized the addition of an assistant executive secretary to specialize in football and wrestling at an annual starting salary between $14,000 and $18,000 annually. The NSAA office is accepting applications until Dec. 1.

Chamberlin reported that the 48-member committee appointed to study all NSAA activities also met in Lincoln.

It discussed possible NSAA — sanctioned summer competition for baseball, golf and tennis, limitations for all activities, feasibility of coed competition in tennis and golf and NSAA control of off-season sports practices with regards to various summer camps.

The committee also surveyed the possibility of conducting the same boys and girls sports during identical seasons.

Currently, boys and girls track and basketball are conducted during the same times of year. Tennis, golf, gymnastics and swimming for boys and girls are conducted during different seasonal periods.

The study committee next meets Nov. 12 at Kearney.

Bailey Triumphs

Vandalia, Ohio (AP) — Bueford Bailey of Big Springs, Neb. won the men's Champion of Champions title here Tuesday in the 75th Annual Grand American Trapshooting Tournament with 100 straight then defeated six others by firing another 150 straight from the 16-yard line in a shootoff for the title.

Oregon QB Breaks Wrist

Herb Singleton, a 6-3, 225-pounder who emerged from spring practice as Oregon's No. 1 quarterback and mastermind of the Duck's new Veer-T offense, suffered a broken wrist in a summer accident and won't be on hand when Coach Don Read brings his team to Lincoln Sept. 14 to face Nebraska.

While that naturally is a disappointment to Read, things could be a whole lot worse since the man Singleton beat out "by a slight margin" will take over the assignment.

That man is Norval Turner, a 6-1½, 193 pound two-year letterman senior, who was Oregon's starting quarterback for the first four games last fall. He completed 35 of 79 passes for 406 yards and three touchdowns and is a good option quarterback. He throws the ball well on the run and his talents, Oregon scouts say, figure to be much more apparent in the veer than they were in last year's I-formation attack.

Singleton, however, would have made the Ducks a much more potent team. It's possible his wrist will mend in time for action later in the season.

Last year, Singleton replaced Turner after four games and passed for 1,333 yards and ten touchdowns while completing 109 of 234 attempts, fourth best single season effort by an Oregon quarterback.

Until Singleton can return to action, Read will have sophomores Kenny Spencer (6-2, 206) and Bob Peterson (6-1½, 190) for Turner's backup men. Spencer can run but his passing isn't sharp while Peterson, injury plagued through all of last season, can run and pass but has no experience with the option attack.

Sooners Could Run Single Wing

"How would you like to have Joe Washington as a single wing tailback?"

That question was posed by Kansas State coach Vince Gibson at the Big Eight meeting recently in Kansas City while he was discussing how good Oklahoma's overall talent will be this season.

Kansas' Don Fambrough, talking about the Wishbone offense the Sooners run, said, "That Oklahoma outfit would have the same record whether they're running single wing, deep punt or whatever it is because the last few years they have had as fine an offensive line, especially last year, as I've seen in a long time."

Later on, when Sooner coach Barry Switzer talked to writers, he went one step farther than Fambrough when he said, "I think this year's offensive line is probably better than the one in 1971" when the Sooners rushed and passed for over 6,000 yards to set an NCAA record in rushing and total offense.

He said that won't happen this year because opposing coaches and players know a lot more about how to stop or slow down the Wishbone attack now because they face it more often than they did in 1971.

"Coaches didn't have as good an understanding about the offense and we were able to have a lot of track meets that year," Switzer said. "Coaches now are more versed in play recognition against the offense. It's easier to play well against something you see every week."

Switzer said this year's offensive line doesn't have a weak position like it had in 1971. "We had a 217 pound guard then, we were average at one tackle. Now we're 250 at both guards, 240 at center, 284 at one tackle and 250 or 271 at the other, depending on who starts."

Referring to the famous battle of the century with Nebraska in 1971, Switzer said "we thought if we did score 30 points on Nebraska we ought to win the football game, but we didn't win. We scored 31 but it wasn't enough."

Osborne Takes Look At Third-Unit Players

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Coach Tom Osborne took an extra long look at players on the third units of the Nebraska football team Tuesday on the second day of pre-season practice without pads.

It is likely most of them will become members of the "scout team" whose duty it is to help prepare the varsity for games, but Osborne said there are maybe three or four of them who could move up to the first two units.

Actually, the first two units right now total 62 players because there are 18 spots where two players are contending for first or second team ranking.

Eventually, Osborne will be faced with the task of selecting 55 players for the travel squad to the four road games. That's an increase of five over last year's limit.

A minor finger injury to quarterback Earl Everett could produce a new wingback for the Huskers although Osborne emphasized the fact that he ran there Tuesday "isn't a position change."

The finger was bothering him when he took the center snap, so he worked at wingback just to give him the conditioning work.

Osborne admitted the switch is "always a possibility," but added "right now we don't know who is the No. 2 quarterback."

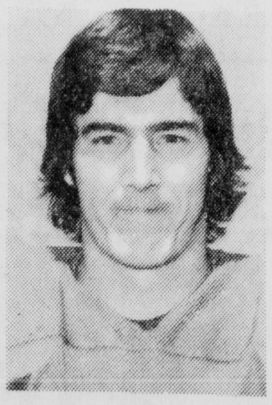

Everett and Terry Luck are listed as sharing the No. 2 signal calling position. If Luck should declared himself by his performance, a move of Everett might be dictated.

"He runs like a wingback," Osborne said. With the trial of Don Westbrook at I-Back, a lot of "ifs" still are to be decided before the season opener against Oregon.

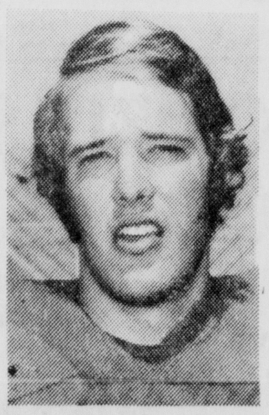

The Huskers have one more day of no-contact practices before putting on the pads Thursday.

They'll have their first major scrimmage Saturday and two others on succeeding Saturdays. The opener is on Sept. 14.

Meet The Huskers

DAVE SHAMBLIN, age 20, 6-3, 192, Junior, LaVerne, Calif., No. 85, backup to Frosty Anderson as a sophomore, outstanding speed, good hands, a top receiver prospect. Physical education major in Teachers College.

TOM PAGE, age 22, 6-3, 221, Senior, Omaha, No. 68, strong alternate and starter at right end last year, backup man to Willie Harper in 1972, now plays left end. Business Administration major.

ACTION LINE: Mrs. Kremer blames her inexperience as a dog dealer for the delay. She said she'd never filled out the American Kennel Club papers before and kept making mistakes, which slowed the process.

She said, however, that she finally did the paperwork correctly and the registration papers should be coming through the mail sometime this week.

Recently I read an article that said the green in potatoes was poisonous. I pulled up my white onions and the same thing has happened to them. About the first, second and third layers are green. Are they safe to eat?

—R. Sander, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Wayne Whitney, extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said the green doesn't mean the onions have been damaged and there's no harm in eating them.

But, he said, you're right about the potatoes. The green should always be cut off because it's poisonous.

Why isn't there a sign indicating Hwy. 2 where 27th St. intersects with it from the north? There is only a regular little street sign reading "Nebraska Highway." To an out-of-towner, that is meaningless. He would probably keep driving south looking for the highway.

ACTION LINE: "Nebraska Highway" is the official name given the street by the Lincoln City Council just like U.S. 34 is O St. and U.S. 6 and U.S. 77 is Cornhusker Hwy.

The State Roads Dept. is responsible for putting up highway markers. Eldon Orth, state traffic engineer, said the highway markers are put up in the city when there is a junction of two highways.

"Otherwise, we'd have a market at every intersection and the more signs, the more vision is blocked at road crossings," he said.

Orth said the sign system is designed for the average person not acquainted with town who is coming in from one end or another and wants to stay on Hwy. 2. Most locals coming down 27th St. are aware that the Nebraska Highway is Hwy. 2.

Is the Ozark National Life Insurance Co., 906 Grand Ave., Kansas City, Mo., a reliable company?

—A reader, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The State Insurance Dept. lists the company as reliable. It is a stock company which was incorporated in Kansas City in 1964 and licensed to sell insurance in Nebraska in 1972.

The local Better Business Bureau did not have a report on the company, which means the company is not registered with them and there have been no complaints filed against it.

Why is the price of sugar so outragious this summer?

—Mrs. Roger Harris, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Blame the United States entering the world sugar market for the high prices. Elmer Harder, public relations director of the Omaha division, Safeway Stores, Inc., said that when our nation entered the world market, it inherited the higher level prices.

Persons of foreign nations are discovering that sugar is both a sweetening and a source of energy, Harder said, which has increased a world demand that suppliers can't meet.

Allan Noddle, vice president of sales and merchandising for area Hinky Dinky stores, claims home canning puts a slight pressure on the market, but the biggest push comes from increased demands from industries making sweet things like jams, jellies, cookies, soft drinks.

How can I get ahold of some old copies of Beatles Monthly?

—Mary Lempfer, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Sorry, Mary, but you may have to stick to just listening to Beatles records. The reference librarian at the Bennet Martin City Library said the magazine you're looking for was published monthly in 1963 in London by Sean Mahoney.

It was called Beatles Book and was just a temporary craze in Great Britain. Consequently, she said, there are not many copies in the United States.

A check of the Union List of Serials, which gives the holdings of libraries across the nation, showed that no other libraries had copies of the magazine either

Veteran safety Kermit Alexander has been given permission to negotiate with another team, according to the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL.

Rodney Wallace, who had been expected to take over Ralph Neely's left defensive tackle job, will undergo back surgery and will probably be lost for the season.

Iowa State free agent-rookie linebacker Les Webster and Colorado placekicker Fred Lima were cut by the San Francisco 49ers of the NFL.

Top-seeded Chris Evert led the way into the third round of the $30,000 Women's Grass Court Tennis Championships.

The NCAA announced that it may invite more than one team from the same conference to its expanded 32-team basketball tournament.

Holmes Ups Match Lead

The second of five matches between teams of junior boys representing Lincoln's five golf courses was played at the Knolls Tuesday.

Knox Jones of Holmes and Chris Swett of the Lincoln Country Club turned in the best scores when they tied with 61s in the 14-15 age division.

One boy in each of four age groups is representing each course in the round robin series.

The team from Holmes extended its lead with a two day total of 20½-30—50½. Other scores are Hillcrest: 15-24—39; Pioneer: 18-18½—36½; Lincoln CC: 18½-23½—42. The Knolls did not field a team for the first match but scored 24 points Tuesday.

The next match will be held Friday at Holmes.

Tuesday age group leaders:

10-11: Chip Romjue, Knolls, 34-34—68; 12-13: Scott Howerter, LCC, 34-33—67; 14-15: (tie) Knox Jones, Holmes, 31-30—61, and Chris Swett, LCC, 33-28—61; 16-17: Kim Brown, Hillcrest, 32-31—63.

Walton, Pillen Win Shrine's Russell Trophy

Darrell Walton of Omaha South and Jim Pillen from Columbus Lakeview were announced Tuesday as the 1974 recepients of the Robert C. Russell Memorial trophies.

The awards were given in conjunction with the Shrine Bowl all-star football game. Russell was a prime organizer of the annual summer classic.

The awards, voted by the team members, are given to the player on each team "who makes the most outstanding contribution during the camp period and in the game."

Walton, a Class A all-stater, played wingback for the South, while Pillen, who earned Class B all-state honors last fall, ran 16 yards from his fullback position for the North's only touchdown in a 7-6 losing effort.

This was the second year for the Russell trophies. Jerry Jaksich of Omaha Gross was the initial honoree for the South, while Omaha North's Tom Davis was the North team winner last summer.

The tourney, co-sponsored by the Lincoln Tennis Association and the City Parks and Recreation Department, will be divided into four categories — men's singles and doubles and women's singles and doubles — with no age breakdowns.

Entries will be accepted at Woods Park through Thursday noon. Pairings will be posted Friday with play beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Casper Leads Golf Tourney

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (UPI) — American Ryder Cup star Billy Casper carded a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to share the first round lead in the 36-hole, $24,000 Double Diamond Individual Golf Championship.

The 43-year-old gum-chewing Texan, who will captain the rest of the world side in the international team event starting Thursday, missed two short putts which cost him the outright lead.

Doug Sanders of Houston, playing his first tournament since undergoing a tendon transplant six months ago, scored a 74.

Abundance Of Backs At NWU

After two days of practice, Nebraska Wesleyan coach Harold Chafee has more flankers, offensive and defensive backs than ever before in his six years at the helm of the Plainsmen.

Of the 74 prospects to report to camp Monday, a good percentage of them indicated preference to either the offensive or defensive backfield.

"Some of them might find themselves a 150-pound tackle," joked Chaffee. "We seem to be a little short of lineman right now, and we lack size."

Some of the linemen Chaffee is not short of are, all-stater Charlie Chevalier at middle guard, tackles Mike Sautter and Sam Martin on defense, offensive ends Dan Elsner and Gene Lessman, tackles Mike Flynn and Gene Harris, guard Ed McMeen and center Bob Creighton.

All total, Chaffee greeted 28 lettermen of which eight were offensive starters and six were first-team defenders.

The total of 74 hopefuls is expected to rise with the addition of two players scheduled to arrive late Tuesday or Wednesday.

"We still have a few on the road," Chaffee said. "And after school begins, we always have two or three who decide to come out."

The Plainsmen worked the first two days of practice on conditioning and organization. "We're trying to get people divided into offensive and defensive positions," Chaffee noted.

"But I haven't had a chance to look over the offense yet to decide what we're

Gambling Scandal Hits NFL's Giants

NEW YORK (UPI) — A stunning gambling scandal, involving the former team physician of the New York Giants, rocked the National Football League Tuesday with the indictment of two known gamblers in a $1 million professional football betting ring.

A 40-count indictment against Thomas Musto, 65, of New York and Michael Astarita, 47, of Hillsdale, N.J., was returned in Manhattan Supreme Court. Both men were taken into custody under the indictment, which contained a total of 40 counts on gambling and criminal conspiracy. The court papers also mentioned the involvement of Dr. Anthony Pisani, who for 10 years was chief orthopedic surgeon for the Giants before resigning last month.

Dr. Pisani was not charged, however, because according to sources close to the two-year investigation, he cooperated fully in the investigation. Pisani tendered his resignation after NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle and Giants president Wellington Mara both were informed he was involved in an investigation.

According to the indictment, Musto and Astarita consulted with Dr. Pisani on the physical condition of various Giants players.

Musto was a "soldier" in the Vito Genovese crime family, while Astarita was associated with the late Thomas "Tommy Ryan" Eboli, who was once the manager of boxer Rocky Castellani.

Manhattan District Attorney Richard Kuh declined comment on why no action was taken against Pisani, saying only that "it is not the practice of this office to go beyond the scope of the indictment.

While Kuh would only offer a "no comment" when asked it Pisani had cooperated in the investigation, Greg Perrin, Pisani's lawyer, said his client had become "unfortunately involved through his acquaintance with Musto and Astarita, who were his patients for a period of years. The doctor is not involved in any way with any wrong doing."

According to the conspiracy count in the indictment, Musto and Astarita were involved in some of these "overt acts."

"1. On or about Oct. 4, 1973, Thomas Musto and Michael Astarita conferred with Dr. Anthony Pisani about the physical condition of Ron Johnson (Giant fullback).

"2. On or about Oct. 6., 1973, Michael Astarita called the office of Dr. Anthony Pisani.

"3. On or about Oct. 12, 1973, Thomas Musto refused to discuss the football line with a certain individual stating 'I want to speak to the doctor first to find out what he knows about injuries.' "

Kuh said the indictment covered a period from September, 1973, to December, 1973, although the actual investigation had been going on for more than a year.

At NFL headquarters here, a spokesman issued a terse statement which said that the league office had been aware of the New York City police deparatment investigation for some time, but had been unable to come up with any information to help the probe.

Umpire John McSherry calls out the Chicago Cubs' Don Kissinger (11) as the Los Angeles Dodgers' second baseman Dave Lopes relays the throw to first base, which went into the Dodgers' dugout and allowed Jose Cardenal to advance to second.

Dodgers Maul Chicago, 18-8 Powered By Lopes Hitting

By United Press International

Dave Lopes, hitting safely his first five times at bat, hit three home runs Tuesday to spark a 24-hit attack which carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 18-8 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers, who collected six homers, mounted the biggest hit and home run total in their 16-year-old Los Angeles history. Their 24-hit attack eclipsed a previous club record of 20 and their homer output bettered the previous high of five.

Jim Wynn, Willie Crawford and Steve Garvey also homered for the Dodgers with Crawford and Ron Cey each collecting four hits.

Carmen Fanzone had a grand slam homer and Rick Stelmaszek had a two-run homer for the Cubs.

Don Sutton, winless against the Cubs at Wrigley Field in five years, coasted to his 11th win of the year. He was replaced after seven innings because of the 95 degree heat.

Lopes had a double and a run-scoring single in addition to his three homers.

In other games, Cincinnati crushed Philadelphia 7-1, Atlanta topped St. Louis 8-6, Houston downed New York 6-2, San Diego blanked Montreal 3-0 and San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 8-7 in 10 innings.

Johnny Bench belted a three-run homer and Joe Morgan clouted a solo shot to power Cincinnati over the Phillies and keep the Reds 2½ games behind the Dodgers in the National League West.

Clay Kirby went the distance for the Reds, allowing only five hits, to gain his eighth win in 15 decisions.

Darrell Evans hit a two-run homer and a triple and Hank Aaron and Marty Perez had three hits each to lead the Braves to victory over the Cardinals.

Lou Brock stole his 85th base for St. Louis, putting him well ahead of Maury Wills' pace in 1962 when he stole a record 104 bases. Joe Torre homered for the Cardinals.

Lee May slammed his 19th homer to spark a 12-hit attack and young righthander James Rodney Richard, with relief help from Mike Cosgrove, recorded his first victory of the season as the Astros defeated the Mets.

Richard, the 6-foot-8 fastball pitcher in his third year with the Astros, gave up only two hits through 6 1-3 innings but suffered from wildness.

Willie McCovey smacked a three-run homer and rookie Dave Freisleben tossed a three-hitter to lead the Padres to victory over the Expos.

McCovey's 19th homer came in the fourth inning after Dave Hilton led off with a single and Johnny Grubb walked. McCovey's blast was his seventh homer in his last 12 games. Freisleben walked seven and struck out three while boosting his record to 9-7.

Juan Pizarro, purchased from the Mexican League only Monday, walked Bruce Miller in the 10th inning with the bases loaded, forcing in the winning run to give the Giants a victory over the Pirates.

Tito Fuentes and Bobby Bonds opened the inning with walks off reliever John Morlan before Pizarro came in to get Gary Matthews on a flyout. The runners were sacrificed ahead, and Chris Speier was walked intentionally, loading the bases before Pizarro walked Miller on a 3-2 pitch to force in the winning run.

Fuentes collected five hits for the Giants while Rennie Stennett hit his fifth homer and a two-run single for the Pirates.

Tony Solaita and Fran Healy belted fifth inning home runs off Gaylord Perry and Lindy McDaniel turned in four innings of two-hit relief Tuesday night to spark the Kansas City Royals to a 2-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Solaita drilled his fifth homer of the season over the centerfield fence leading off the fifth and Healy smacked a 3-2 pitch over the leftfield barrier two outs later.

McDaniel took over for starter Al Fitzmorris who was forced to leave the game with an injury at the start of the sixth and blanked the Indians the rest of the way to pick up his first save of the year.

Perry, who has now lost seven of eight decisions after winning 15 in a row, was tagged for eight hits in losing his eighth game against 16 victories.

In other games Baltimore edged Texas 2-1, Boston beat Chicago 8-3, and New York edged Minnesota 2-1.

Mike Cuellar tossed a five-hitter for his 15th win and Brooks Robinson and Mrk Belanger drove in second inning runs to lead the Orioles over Texas.

Baltimore scored twice in the second inning off loser Jackie Brown. Don Baylor singled, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on Robinson's double. After Ellie Hendricks singled Robinson to third, Belanger's sacrifice fly chased Robinson home.

Dick Drago's first complete game since July 8 and a 13-hit attack led the Red Sox over Chicago.

King, Little Sac Team In Columbus Feature

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Columbus — Warren Albert is once again one of the happier men in the state of Nebraska as racing is underway at Agricultural Park.

With a refurbished and redesigned grandstand and clubhouse Albert expects this year to be the best in the Park's history.

"We have a new full service pari-mutual windows in the new section on the ground floor of the grandstand," said Albert. "We also have additional seating for 300 people surrounding the new windows."

"Private and remote control color TV is available in the clubhouse that now has room for twice as many people as last year," he continues, "With more and better seating for the fans we feel we have quite a bit of comfort to offer the racing fan."

"We also have more and better horses than ever before. We seem to be attracting more quality horses than in the past also," he concludes.

The jockeys also seem to be happy with the Columbus facility. Jockey Wayne Anderson commented, "This is pretty much the same track as Lincoln but without that tight first turn. I guess that you'd have to say it is a safer track. The track is dry on top and slick on the bottom," he added, "but and that should make for slower times than usual but I would guess that if the weather improves so will the track condition."

"I'm looking forward to a good season here but Ecoffey (Fred) and King (Dave) should be the ones to beat," concluded Anderson.

In the day's feature race Dave King took Little Sac to the outside the swept past the pack to win the race for three-year-olds and upward by one length over Renegotiate and the crowd favorite Apart.

Little Sac the fourth favorite in the seven horse field returned $14.80, $6.20 and $2.80, while Renegotiate, with Kevin Lintner riding, paid $5.60 and $2.80. The 8-5 favorite in the race Apart returned $2.20.

Little Sac, a Clark Budson owned and trained gelding, hadn't won a race since late April at Fonner Park.

"He was just starting to get lit, and so we went around the pack to avoid any possible trouble," said jockey Dave King. "Sometimes you just can't get him back and then you can't get him to move, but today he worked just fine."

In this, the 34th running on the five furlong oval the mutual handle increased over $10.-000 running one less race than last year for the opening day. "I think that this is the best indicator we have of a good season coming this year. We will be having some pretty good stakes races, such as the Van Berg Stakes and two Nebraska Bred feature with purses around $3,500-added," said General Manager Albert.

There are 24 days of racing left with eight races on the weekdays and nine on Saturdays and Labor Day. Post times for the weekday events begin at 4 and 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Track Meet Sites Same

The Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) has voted to award the state high school track meet cites to Omaha and North Platte again for 1975.

In its monthly meeting in Lincoln, the NSAA Board of Control set the girls state meet for May 17 at North Platte and the boys for May 23-24 at Omaha Burke.

According to NSAA executive secretary Les Chamberlin, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce made no pitch to attract either meet.

Chamberlin indicated the Board of Control has authorized the addition of an assistant executive secretary to specialize in football and wrestling at an annual starting salary between $14,000 and $18,000 annually. The NSAA office is accepting applications until Dec. 1.

Chamberlin reported that the 48-member committee appointed to study all NSAA activities also met in Lincoln.

It discussed possible NSAA — sanctioned summer competition for baseball, golf and tennis, limitations for all activities, feasibility of coed competition in tennis and golf and NSAA control of off-season sports practices with regards to various summer camps.

The committee also surveyed the possibility of conducting the same boys and girls sports during identical seasons.

Currently, boys and girls track and basketball are conducted during the same times of year. Tennis, golf, gymnastics and swimming for boys and girls are conducted during different seasonal periods.

The study committee next meets Nov. 12 at Kearney.

Bailey Triumphs

Vandalia, Ohio (AP) — Bueford Bailey of Big Springs, Neb. won the men's Champion of Champions title here Tuesday in the 75th Annual Grand American Trapshooting Tournament with 100 straight then defeated six others by firing another 150 straight from the 16-yard line in a shootoff for the title.

Oregon QB Breaks Wrist

Herb Singleton, a 6-3, 225-pounder who emerged from spring practice as Oregon's No. 1 quarterback and mastermind of the Duck's new Veer-T offense, suffered a broken wrist in a summer accident and won't be on hand when Coach Don Read brings his team to Lincoln Sept. 14 to face Nebraska.

While that naturally is a disappointment to Read, things could be a whole lot worse since the man Singleton beat out "by a slight margin" will take over the assignment.

That man is Norval Turner, a 6-1½, 193 pound two-year letterman senior, who was Oregon's starting quarterback for the first four games last fall. He completed 35 of 79 passes for 406 yards and three touchdowns and is a good option quarterback. He throws the ball well on the run and his talents, Oregon scouts say, figure to be much more apparent in the veer than they were in last year's I-formation attack.

Singleton, however, would have made the Ducks a much more potent team. It's possible his wrist will mend in time for action later in the season.

Last year, Singleton replaced Turner after four games and passed for 1,333 yards and ten touchdowns while completing 109 of 234 attempts, fourth best single season effort by an Oregon quarterback.

Until Singleton can return to action, Read will have sophomores Kenny Spencer (6-2, 206) and Bob Peterson (6-1½, 190) for Turner's backup men. Spencer can run but his passing isn't sharp while Peterson, injury plagued through all of last season, can run and pass but has no experience with the option attack.

Sooners Could Run Single Wing

"How would you like to have Joe Washington as a single wing tailback?"

That question was posed by Kansas State coach Vince Gibson at the Big Eight meeting recently in Kansas City while he was discussing how good Oklahoma's overall talent will be this season.

Kansas' Don Fambrough, talking about the Wishbone offense the Sooners run, said, "That Oklahoma outfit would have the same record whether they're running single wing, deep punt or whatever it is because the last few years they have had as fine an offensive line, especially last year, as I've seen in a long time."

Later on, when Sooner coach Barry Switzer talked to writers, he went one step farther than Fambrough when he said, "I think this year's offensive line is probably better than the one in 1971" when the Sooners rushed and passed for over 6,000 yards to set an NCAA record in rushing and total offense.

He said that won't happen this year because opposing coaches and players know a lot more about how to stop or slow down the Wishbone attack now because they face it more often than they did in 1971.

"Coaches didn't have as good an understanding about the offense and we were able to have a lot of track meets that year," Switzer said. "Coaches now are more versed in play recognition against the offense. It's easier to play well against something you see every week."

Switzer said this year's offensive line doesn't have a weak position like it had in 1971. "We had a 217 pound guard then, we were average at one tackle. Now we're 250 at both guards, 240 at center, 304 at one tackle and 250 or 271 at the other, depending on who starts."

Referring to the famous battle of the century with Nebraska in 1971, Switzer said "we thought if we did score 30 points on Nebraska we ought to win the football game, but we didn't win. We scored 31 but it wasn't enough."

Osborne Takes Look At Third-Unit Players

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Coach Tom Osborne took an extra long look at players on the third units of the Nebraska football team Tuesday on the second day of pre-season practice without pads.

It is likely most of them will become members of the "scout team" whose duty it is to help prepare the varsity for games, but Osborne said there are maybe three or four of them who could move up to the first two units.

Actually, the first two units right now total 62 players because there are 18 spots where two players are contending for first or second team ranking.

Eventually, Osborne will be faced with the task of selecting 55 players for the travel squad to the four road games. That's an increase of five over last year's limit.

A minor finger injury to quarterback Earl Everett could produce a new wingback for the Huskers although Osborne emphasized the fact that he ran there Tuesday "isn't a position change."

The finger was bothering him when he took the center snap, so he worked at wingback just to give him the conditioning work.

Osborne admitted the switch is "always a possibility," but added "right now we don't know who is the No. 2 quarterback."

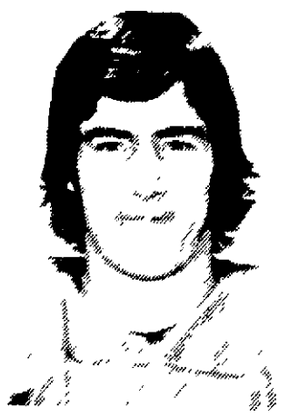

Everett and Terry Luck are listed as sharing the No. 2 signal calling position. If Luck should declared himself by his performance, a move of Everett might be dictated.

"He runs like a wingback," Osborne said. With the trial of Don Westbrook at I-Back, a lot of "ifs" still are to be decided before the season opener against Oregon.

The Huskers have one more day of no-contact practices before putting on the pads Thursday.

They'll have their first major scrimmage Saturday and two others on succeeding Saturdays. The opener is on Sept. 14.

Meet The Huskers

DAVE SHAMBLIN, age 20, 6-3, 192, Junior, LaVerne, Calif., No. 85, backup to Frosty Anderson as a sophomore, outstanding speed, good hands, a top receiver prospect. Physical education major in Teachers College.

TOM PAGE, age 22, 6-3, 221, Senior, Omaha, No. 68, strong alternate and starter at right end last year, backup man to Willie Harper in 1972, now plays left end. Business Administration major.

Players Threaten Walkout

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The executive committee of the National Football League Player's Association, outraged by Philadelphia's ouster of Kermit Alexander when he reported to camp, Tuesday threatened to pull striking veterans out of training facilities when the 14-day cooling off period ends next Wednesday.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said he believed the association has enough backingh to survive even if some players refuse to leave camp. "We've got enough strength to go back in and come on back out—the players know the life of their union is at stake," Garvey said.

Minnesota Vikings player representative Alan Page went further.

"We have the ability to destroy the National Football League," said Page, one of the few veterans who hasn't reported to camp.

"Whatever happens, this association is not going to fold up and go away. We're going to have to be dealt with."

Garvey, a Minneapolis attorney, told a news conference he believed the NFL owners were trying to "bust this union."

Accusing the owners of failing to take a serious part in the negotiation process, Garvey said, "The time has come for the owners to do something. They've done nothing since March 16 except cut off the veterans' group health insurance and try to induce players back into camp.

"If their answer to our cooling off period is to get Kermit Alexander out of the league and attack our leadership, this is going to be a long strike."

Garvey issued what he said was the players' "bottom line" offer.

The package mainly insists that players be given a say about where they are traded and whether they want to cancel their contracts if put on waivers.

The financial portion asks that the cost of living increase since 1970 as computed by the Consumer Price Index of the U.S. Department of Labor be added in the contract.

Stadium Tilting Denied By ISU

Ames, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa State athletic director Lou McCullough has dispelled rumors that the west side of the school's new $7 million football stadium is beginning to tilt.

Part of the east side stands were torn down earlier this summer when the structure began to slip, but McCullough said Monday night the west side is "100 per cent ready."

"There is no slippage of any kind," he told the crowd at the annual Cyclone stag. "We're real happy to report that you people on the west side have seats."

Despite the reconstruction on the east side, McCullough was optimistic that the 40,000-seat stadium will be ready for one or two games this fall.

Big Eight Report

Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Conditioning and offensive orientation were the bywords Tuesday as the Kansas footballers ground through a rugged second day of padless workouts.

Coach Don Fambrough said the Jayhawks "had a good day" in both the morning and afternoon workouts.

"Of course, you can only do so much without pads," Fambrough added. "Conditioning has to be our number one priority and we're also working hard on teaching the offense and defense as much as possible."

Kurt Knoff, the Jays' All-Big Eight Conference defensive back, is expected to join the squad Wednesday. The junior strong safety was delayed in reporting by the death of his father last week.

Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Coach Vince Gibson was beaming again Tuesday after the Kansas State football team completed the second day of its fall workouts.

"I feel good about things," Gibson said. "The kids are really getting confidence in the 'veer' and are rally executing well."

Gibson said good competition is developing for spots in the offensive backfield and for the punting assignment.

"The thing that pleases me is the quality ofour running backs," he said. "Never before have we had eight backs with as much quality as we have now."

Locked in the duel for the punting job are David Spare, a senior who averaged 34.6 yards last year, and David Cheves, who averaged 45 yards before he came to Kansas State from Northeast Oklahoma as a junior college transfer.

Oklahoma State

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Coach Jim Stanley was pleased with the status of the Cowboys' passing and kicking games at the end of the second day of padless, pre-season workouts Tuesday.

"I'm real happy with our quarterbacks and receivers," said Stanley. "The passing attack continues to improve as does our kicking game. Our punters (Cliff Parsley and Mike Terry) are kicking well for heighth and distance. Our placement men are doing good on extra points, but need more consistencys on their field goals."

Stanley added, "We're still at the stage where it's difficult to pick out individuals. The players are beginning to understand the total concept of what we are trying to do. Individuals are important, but we are trying to view the whole scheme."

The Pokes work out Wednesday in shorts before going into full pads on Thursday. Stanley said few personnel changes would be made until then.

Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners sweated through three workouts Tuesday as they opened their bid for another Big Eight title and a shot at the national championship.

"I was pleased with our conditioning," said coach Barry Switzer. "Everybody seemed to be at the weight he was supposed to be.

"We were able to accomplish more than last year at this time because we have so many more people out here."

Switzer said the Sooners will continue three-a-day workouts through Thursday. On Friday, they will practice twice and work with pads for the first time. They also will work twice on Saturday.

"We've got a good attitude—it's the same one we had last year, but we'll see in the next three or four days how it's going to be," Switzer said.

Grid Players Found Innocent

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Two Miami, Ohio, University football players were found innocent Tuesday of charges of possessing marijuana.

Butler County Area 1 Court Judge Clem Imfeld Jr. found defensive back Carmen Rome, 20, Oxford, and flanker Calvin Knox, 23, Inkster, Mich., innocent of the charges.

The two had been charged after a packet of marijuana was found in a car driven by Rome July 12 and owned by his father. Testimony in court showed the car had been loaned to other people

Testifying in behalf of the two were Miami head football Coach Dick Crum and two Marine Corps officers. Crum told the court that the two students were "excellent in character."

He testified that their performance during training was "not compatible with drug abuse . . . both are of professional football caliber."

Nebraska rookies Randy Borg and Bob Thornton were among the players cut from the Washington Redskins' roster.

Former Midland standout and Nebraska state college all-stater Bill Porter was cut from the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL.

Georgia Tech refused a request that it permit its football stadium, Grant Field, to become the home of the Orlando Blazers of the WFL.

The decision apparently killed any immediate move to Atlanta by the Florida team because Grant Field was the only suitable stadium available.

Oklahoma second-year running back Greg Pruitt will start for the Cleveland Browns in their exhibition game against the Washington Redskins.

Pruitt was mainly used last year on speciality teams, but coach Nick Skorich indicated that he hopes to have Pruitt taking a more active role this season.

The WFL has disallowed a protest filed by the Portland Storm in the team's Aug. 7 tie with the Houston Texans.

Veteran safety Kermit Alexander has been given permission to negotiate with another team, according to the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL.

Rodney Wallace, who had been expected to take over Ralph Neely's left defensive tackle job, will undergo back surgery and will probably be lost for the season.

Miscellaneous

Intrepid sailed to a second victory over Valiant in the New York Yacht Club final trial races for an American's Cup defender and Couragious outsailed Mariner in another race.

Illinois announced it will accept without appeal the punishment imposed by the NCAA for alledged recruiting violations.

Andras Hargitay of Hungary broke the world record for the 400-meter individual medley for men with a 4:28.89 in the European Swimming Championships.

Iowa State free agent-rookie linebacker Les Webster and Colorado placekicker Fred Lima were cut by the San Francisco 49ers of the NFL.

Top-seeded Chris Evert led the way into the third round of the $30,000 Women's Grass Court Tennis Championships.

The NCAA announced that it may invite more than one team from the same conference to its expanded 32-team basketball tournament.

Doane free agent-rookie receiver John Green left the training camp of the Green Bay Packers of the NFL.

Holmes Ups Match Lead

The second of five matches between teams of junior boys representing Lincoln's five golf courses was played at the Knolls Tuesday.

Knox Jones of Holmes and Chris Swett of the Lincoln Country Club turned in the best scores when they tied with 61s in the 14-15 age division.

One boy in each of four age groups is representing each course in the round robin series.

The team from Holmes extended its lead with a two day total of 20½-30—50½. Other scores are Hillcrest: 15-24—39; Pioneer: 18-18½—36½; Lincoln CC: 18½-23½—42. The Knolls did not field a team for the first match but scored 24 points Tuesday.

The next match will be held Friday at Holmes.

Tuesday age group leaders:

10-11: Chip Romjue, Knolls, 34-34—68; 12-13: Scott Howerter, LCC, 34-33—67; 14-15: (tie) Knox Jones, Holmes, 31-30—61, and Chris Swett, LCC, 33-28—61; 16-17: Kim Brown, Hillcrest, 32-31—63.

Walton, Pillen Win Shrine's Russell Trophy

Darrell Walton of Omaha South and Jim Pillen from Columbus Lakeview were announced Tuesday as the 1974 recepients of the Robert C. Russell Memorial trophies.

The awards were given in conjunction with the Shrine Bowl all-star football game. Russell was a prime organizer of the annual summer classic.

The awards, voted by the team members, are given to the player on each team "who makes the most outstanding contribution during the camp period and in the game."

Walton, a Class A all-stater, played wingback for the South, while Pillen, who earned Class B all-state honors last fall, ran 16 yards from his fullback position for the North's only touchdown in a 7-6 losing effort.

This was the second year for the Russell trophies. Jerry Jaksich of Omaha Gross was the initial honoree for the South, while Omaha North's Tom Davis was the North team winner last summer.

Casper Leads Golf Tourney

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (UPI) — American Ryder Cup star Billy Casper carded a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to share the first round lead in the 36-hole, $24,000 Double Diamond Individual Golf Championship.

The 43-year-old gum-chewing Texan, who will captain the rest of the world side in the international team event starting Thursday, missed two short putts which cost him the outright lead.

Doug Sanders of Houston, playing his first tournament since undergoing a tendon transplant six months ago, scored a 74.

Social Events Spark NU Student Orientation

New students will arrive on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus this week for the University's New Student Orientation program.

Although residence halls officially opened to new students Tuesday, most are expected to move in Thursday.

The first event in the general orientation program will be the Chancellor's Ice Cream Social at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sculpture Gardens of the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery. Fraternities and sororities will begin "Rush" activities Thursday also, and the NU Department of Minority Affairs will begin its own Special Service Orientation Program Thursday morning. The Special Service Orientation will provide workshops and discussions of various aspects of NU activities and services of special interest to members of minority groups.

A major change in this year's Student Orientation Program moves the Academic College Meetings, in which students meet in group sessions with advisors, from the first week of classes (which begin Monday, Aug. 26), to Friday of Orientation week.

This year's Orientation Program will also include a "Festival of Activities" information service provided by student hosts who took part in this year's Summer Orientation Program, which brought more than 3,000 students and their parents to campus for one-day visits during a three week period which ended July 3. "Festival of Activities" booths will be open Thursday through Saturday on the plaza outside the Nebraska Union.

Other Orientation Program activities include dances, games, movies, and other recreational activities sponsored by various residence halls.

A "watermelon feed" will be held by the Farm House Fraternity on the East Campus.

More than 400 NU upperclassmen will be assisting in this year's Orientation Program. In addition to the student hosts involved in the "Festival of Activities," there will be floor assistants to assist students in the residence halls, and FINKS (Freshman Indoctrination of Nebraska Kids) counselors assisting in the overall Orientation program.

Ken Swerdlow, assistant director of housing, said this year's incoming students will have some new options available to them.

One innovation will be college-oriented residence halls. Core groups of engineering, architecture, and business administration students, for instance, have been assigned to the Abel-Sandoz-Pound residence complex, while a core group of arts and sciences students will be located in the Harper-Schramm-Smith complex. Similarly, Teachers College students and undecided majors will utilize the Cather-Pound-Neihardt complex, which also is used by students enrolled in Centennial College and International House students. Graduate students, nursing students and Law College students will use the Selleck Quadrangle and the Burr-Fedde residence hall complex on the East Campus will be for students in agriculture and home economics.

Also new on campus this fall, according to Swerdlow, will be a broad range of residence hall visitation hours in place of the former "six-hour across-the-board vistation policy."

Starting this fall, undergraduate students will be able to choose visitation hours ranging from none (on one floor of the Abel-Sandoz-Pound complex) to a 10 a.m.-1 a.m. visitation policy in other residence halls. Graduate students will have 24-hour visitation privileges.

The NU Board of Regents approved the new plan for visitation hours at its April meeting. All students under the legal age of 19 as of the first day of classes are required to have their parents sign their preference card for residence hall accomodations.

City OKs Bus Union Wage Hike

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Tuesday that the city has reached an agreement with the Amalgamated Transit Union on a wage contract which sets a 63-cent an hour salary increase.

The contract calls for a 13-cent an hour pay raise effective Sept. 1 and another 50-cent an hour increase on May 1.

Additionally, the agreement calls for a four-hour reduction in bus drivers' work week from 48 to 44.

The union represents about 90% of the Lincoln Transportation System's (LTS) bus operators and mechanics. LTS employes 65 drivers and 14 mechanics.

The salary increase will boost hourly wages to $3.85 for novice bus drivers. The maximum hourly wage will be $4.05.

Personnel Director Walt Mitchell said the contract also provides for increased insurance coverage for the LTS workers.

Employe Vote To Determine Use Of Union

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday approved the agreement with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes for a Sept. 26 election on whether the union will be the bargaining agent for the county employes.

The American Arbitration Association will conduct the election with the cost to be shared equally by the county and the union.

According to Dave Newell, international representative for the union, employes eligible to vote will be primarily non-supervisory personnel of the courthouse, Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR), and Lancaster Manor.

He said that confidential employes, secretaries to department heads and all persons in the personnel department as well as supervisory people will be excluded from the election.

Nebraska Steer Wins Top Prize In Iowa Show

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—A Chiania-Angus crossbred steer from Cody, Neb., won the grand championship Tuesday at the Iowa State Fair World Steer Show.

It was the first time an animal of this breeding has topped the open steeer show where a prize of $1,000 goes to the grand champion exhibitor.

The prize went to Jerry Adamson, long-time registered Angus breeder and Nebraska rancher. Adamson's winner was shown by keith Dusenberry of Cody, a herdsman at the Adamson ranch.

The reserve grand champion, a Limousin-Angus, was entered by Greg Hilbert, 13, Algona. He received a $250 prize.

Four classes of open steers were entered in the event where 74 steers were shown.

Dutch Take Control

New York (AP) — Thyssen-Bornemisza Group N.V., a Dutch holding company, has acquired 92% of the common stock of Indian Head, Inc., a New York-based producer of glass containers, automotive parts, textiles, and other products, it was announced.

Players Threaten Walkout

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The executive committee of the National Football League Player's Association, outraged by Philadelphia's ouster of Kermit Alexander when he reported to camp, Tuesday threatened to pull striking veterans out of training facilities when the 14-day cooling off period ends next Wednesday.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said he believed the association has enough backingh to survive even if some players refuse to leave camp. "We've got enough strength to go back in and come on back out—the players know the life of their union is at stake," Garvey said.

Minnesota Vikings player representative Alan Page went further.

"We have the ability to destroy the National Football League," said Page, one of the few veterans who hasn't reported to camp.

"Whatever happens, this association is not going to fold up and go away. We're going to have to be dealt with."

Garvey, a Minneapolis attorney, told a news conference he believed the NFL owners were trying to "bust this union."

Accusing the owners of failing to take a serious part in the negotiation process, Garvey said, "The time has come for the owners to do something. They've done nothing since March 16 except cut off the veterans' group health insurance and try to induce players back into camp.

"If their answer to our cooling off period is to get Kermit Alexander out of the league and attack our leadership, this is going to be a long strike."

Garvey issued what he said was the players' "bottom line" offer.

The package mainly insists that players be given a say about where they are traded and whether they want to cancel their contracts if put on waivers.

The financial portion asks that the cost of living increase since 1970 as computed by the Consumer Price Index of the U.S. Department of Labor be added in the contract.

Stadium Tilting Denied By ISU

Ames, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa State athletic director Lou McCullough has dispelled rumors that the west side of the school's new $7 million football stadium is beginning to tilt.

Part of the east side stands were torn down earlier this summer when the structure began to slip, but McCullough said Monday night the west side is "100 per cent ready."

"There is no slippage of any kind," he told the crowd at the annual Cyclone stag. "We're real happy to report that you people on the west side have seats."

Despite the reconstruction on the east side, McCullough was optimistic that the 40,000-seat stadium will be ready for one or two games this fall.

Big Eight Report

Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Conditioning and offensive orientation were the bywords Tuesday as the Kansas footballers ground through a rugged second day of padless workouts.

Coach Don Fambrough said the Jayhawks "had a good day" in both the morning and afternoon workouts.

"Of course, you can only do so much without pads," Fambrough added. "Conditioning has to be our number one priority and we're also working hard on teaching the offense and defense as much as possible."

Kurt Knoff, the Jays' All-Big Eight Conference defensive back, is expected to join the squad Wednesday. The junior strong safety was delayed in reporting by the death of his father last week.

Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Coach Vince Gibson was beaming again Tuesday after the Kansas State football team completed the second day of its fall workouts.

"I feel good about things," Gibson said. "The kids are really getting confidence in the 'veer' and are rally executing well."

Gibson said good competition is developing for spots in the offensive backfield and for the punting assignment.

"The thing that pleases me is the quality ofour running backs," he said. "Never before have we had eight backs with as much quality as we have now."

Locked in the duel for the punting job are David Spare, a senior who averaged 34.6 yards last year, and David Cheves, who averaged 45 yards before he came to Kansas State from Northeast Oklahoma as a junior college transfer.

Oklahoma State

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Coach Jim Stanley was pleased with the status of the Cowboys' passing and kicking games at the end of the second day of padless, pre-season workouts Tuesday.

"I'm real happy with our quarterbacks and receivers," said Stanley. "The passing attack continues to improve as does our kicking game. Our punters (Cliff Parsley and Mike Terry) are kicking well for heighth and distance. Our placement men are doing good on extra points, but need more consistencys on their field goals."

Stanley added, "We're still at the stage where it's difficult to pick out individuals. The players are beginning to understand the total concept of what we are trying to do. Individuals are important, but we are trying to view the whole scheme."

The Pokes work out Wednesday in shorts before going into full pads on Thursday. Stanley said few personnel changes would be made until then.

Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners sweated through three workouts Tuesday as they opened their bid for another Big Eight title and a shot at the national championship.

"I was pleased with our conditioning," said coach Barry Switzer. "Everybody seemed to be at the weight he was supposed to be.

"We were able to accomplish more than last year at this time because we have so many more people out here."

Switzer said the Sooners will continue three-a-day workouts through Thursday. On Friday, they will practice twice and work with pads for the first time. They also will work twice on Saturday.

"We've got a good attitude—it's the same one we had last year, but we'll see in the next three or four days how it's going to be," Switzer said.

Grid Players Found Innocent

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Two Miami, Ohio, University football players were found innocent Tuesday of charges of possessing marijuana.

Butler County Area 1 Court Judge Clem Imfeld Jr. found defensive back Carmen Rome, 20, Oxford, and flanker Calvin Knox, 23, Inkster, Mich., innocent of the charges.

The two had been charged after a packet of marijuana was found in a car driven by Rome July 12 and owned by his father. Testimony in court showed the car had been loaned to other people

Testifying in behalf of the two were Miami head football Coach Dick Crum and two Marine Corps officers. Crum told the court that the two students were "excellent in character."

He testified that their performance during training was "not compatible with drug abuse . . . both are of professional football caliber."

Social Events Spark NU Student Orientation

New students will arrive on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus this week for the University's New Student Orientation program.

Although residence halls officially opened to new students Tuesday, most are expected to move in Thursday.

The first event in the general orientation program will be the Chancellor's Ice Cream Social at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sculpture Gardens of the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery. Fraternities and sororities will begin "Rush" activities Thursday also, and the NU Department of Minority Affairs will begin its own Special Service Orientation Program Thursday morning. The Special Service Orientation will provide workshops and discussions of various aspects of NU activities and services of special interest to members of minority groups.

A major change in this year's Student Orientation Program moves the Academic College Meetings, in which students meet in group sessions with advisors, from the first week of classes (which begin Monday, Aug. 26), to Friday of Orientation week.

This year's Orientation Program will also include a "Festival of Activities" information service provided by student hosts who took part in this year's Summer Orientation Program, which brought more than 3,000 students and their parents to campus for one-day visits during a three week period which ended July 3. "Festival of Activities" booths will be open Thursday through Saturday on the plaza outside the Nebraska Union.

Other Orientation Program activities include dances, games, movies, and other recreational activities sponsored by various residence halls.

A "watermelon feed" will be held by the Farm House Fraternity on the East Campus.

More than 400 NU upperclassmen will be assisting in this year's Orientation Program. In addition to the student hosts involved in the "Festival of Activities," there will be floor assistants to assist students in the residence halls, and FINKS (Freshman Indoctrination of Nebraska Kids) counselors assisting in the overall Orientation program.

Ken Swerdlow, assistant director of housing, said this year's incoming students will have some new options available to them.

One innovation will be college-oriented residence halls. Core groups of engineering, architecture, and business administration students, for instance, have been assigned to the Abel-Sandoz-Pound residence complex, while a core group of arts and sciences students will be located in the Harper-Schramm-Smith complex. Similarly, Teachers College students and undecided majors will utilize the Cather-Pound-Neihardt complex, which also is used by students enrolled in Centennial College and International House students. Graduate students, nursing students and Law College students will use the Selleck Quadrangle and the Burr-Fedde residence hall complex on the East Campus will be for students in agriculture and home economics.

Also new on campus this fall, according to Swerdlow, will be a broad range of residence hall visitation hours in place of the former "six-hour across-the-board vistation policy."

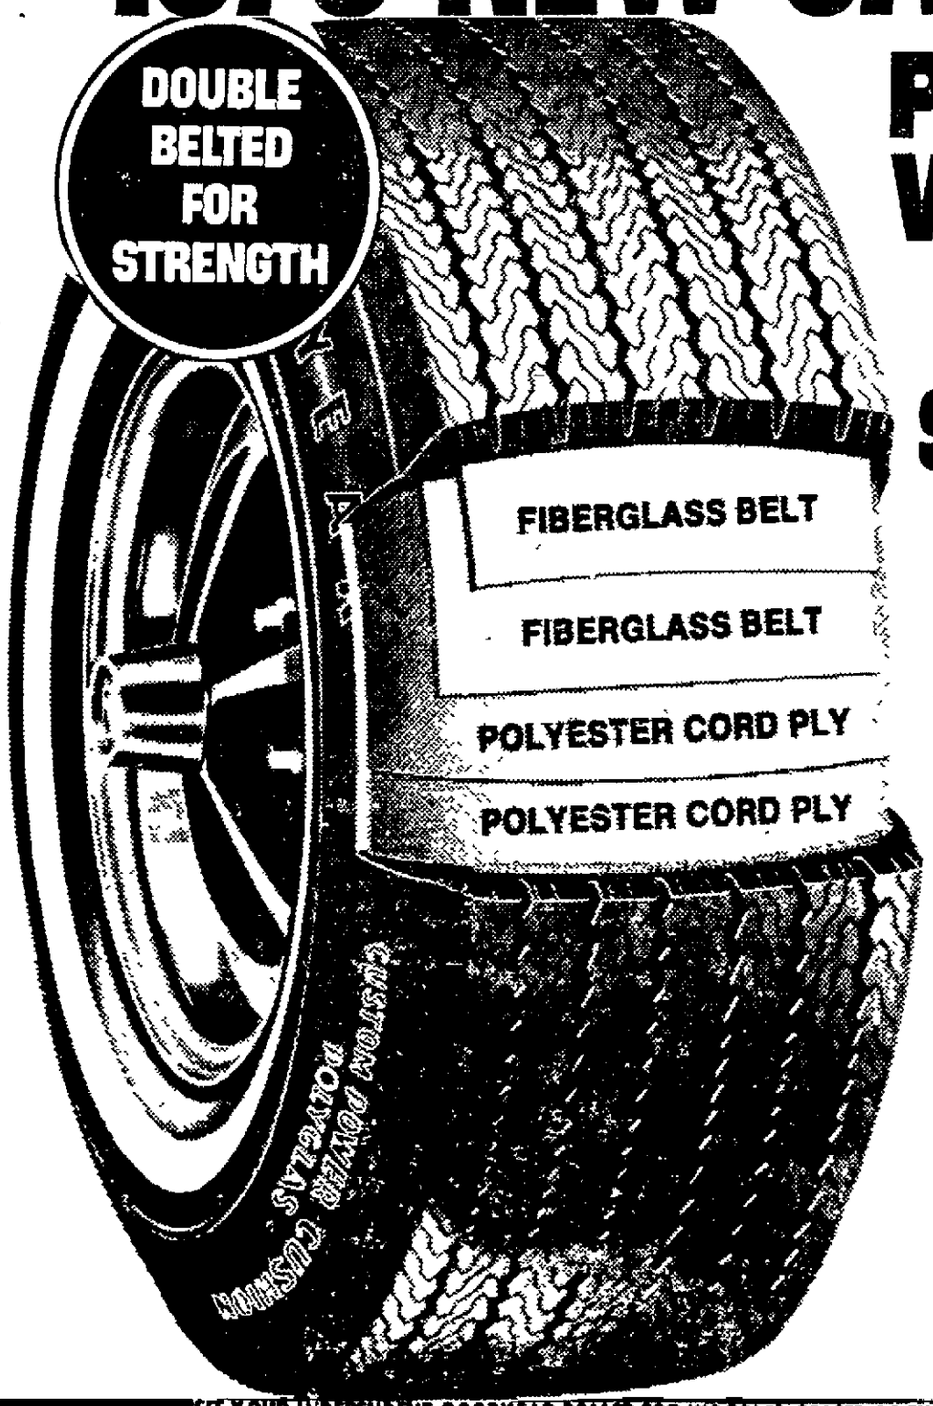

Starting this fall, undergraduate students will be able to choose visitation hours ranging from none (on one floor of the Abel-Sandoz-Pound complex) to a 10 a.m.-1 a.m. visitation policy in other residence halls. Graduate students will have 24-hour visitation privileges.

The NU Board of Regents approved the new plan for visitation hours at its April meeting. All students under the legal age of 19 as of the first day of classes are required to have their parents sign their preference card for residence hall accomodations.

City OKs Bus Union Wage Hike

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Tuesday that the city has reached an agreement with the Amalgamated Transit Union on a wage contract which sets a 63-cent an hour salary increase.

The contract calls for a 13-cent an hour pay raise effective Sept. 1 and another 50-cent an hour increase on May 1.

Additionally, the agreement calls for a four-hour reduction in bus drivers' work week from 48 to 44.

The union represents about 90% of the Lincoln Transportation System's (LTS) bus operators and mechanics. LTS employes 65 drivers and 14 mechanics.

The salary increase will boost hourly wages to $3.85 for novice bus drivers. The maximum hourly wage will be $4.05.

Personnel Director Walt Mitchell said the contract also provides for increased insurance coverage for the LTS workers.

Employe Vote To Determine Use Of Union

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday approved the agreement with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes for a Sept. 26 election on whether the union will be the bargaining agent for the county employes.

The American Arbitration Association will conduct the election with the cost to be shared equally by the county and the union.

According to Dave Newell, international representative for the union, employes eligible to vote will be primarily non-supervisory personnel of the courthouse, Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR), and Lancaster Manor.

He said that confidential employes, secretaries to department heads and all persons in the personnel department as well as supervisory people will be excluded from the election.

Nebraska Steer Wins Top Prize In Iowa Show

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—A Chianina-Angus crossbred steer from Cody, Neb., won the grand championship Tuesday at the Iowa State Fair World Steer Show.

It was the first time an animal of this breeding has topped the open steeer show where a prize of $1,000 goes to the grand champion exhibitor.

The prize went to Jerry Adamson, long-time registered Angus breeder and Nebraska rancher. Adamson's winner was shown by keith Dusenberry of Cody, a herdsman at the Adamson ranch.

The reserve grand champion, a Limousin-Angus, was entered by Greg Hilbert, 13, Algona. He received a $250 prize.

Four classes of open steers were entered in the event where 74 steers were shown.

Capsule Now Rejuvenated

Apollo 009 has just received a face lift.

The 3-man ship that made a test journey into space and now is on display north of the University of Nebraska State Museum is being freshened up for another year, according to Dr. Allan D. Griesemer.

A white finish of polyester resin has been applied to protect the exterior and return the capsule to its pre-launch appearance. A few areas scorched during its 1966 flight have been left exposed to provide realism, Griesemer noted.

A fiber glass nose cone has been built for the capsule by Titan Industries of Emerald.

Plexiglass panels have been weatherstripped in place to cover open hatches at various places around the base providing visibility inside. New steel steps have been installed so visitors can look into the cabin through the main hatch.

A lighted display in the cabin and of the exterior will soon be completed, making the 009 a 24-hour landmark on the campus.

The Apollo capsule at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln is one of less than a dozen on display throughout the United States.

U.S. FLAG . . . is attached to Apollo capsule by NU Museum designer Nathan Mohler, as Griesemer looks on.

Withdrawn Candidate Loses Filing Refund, Judge Decides

Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum ruled Tuesday that Charles A. Bates, who withdrew as a county commissioner candidate last spring, should have filed a written claim for refund of the filing fee.

Bates had brought an action in Small Claims Court for refund of his $105 filing fee after being informed by Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas that there is no statuatory provision for the county to refund a filing fee.

Douglas rendered this opinion when Bates appeared before the county board last spring seeking a refund of his filing fee. However, no written claim was filed at that time.

Bates, who filed for commissioner from the third district on the Republican ticket on March 13, withdrew on March 14 and stopped payment of his filing fee check.

However, he later made the check good with another check and filed the small claims action.

Judge Slocum held that the evidence showed that no claim was ever filed by Bates with the commissioners for the refund as provided by law.

The court cited a law in existence since 1899 which states that the county board has the power to examine and settle all accounts against the county.

A check with the clerk's office revealed that Bates has now filed a claim which will be presented at the county board next week.

CHILDREN WHO NEED HEARING AIDS

"Children who need hearing aids should be discovered and fitted at as early an age as possible. The time to begin working with a hard of hearing or deaf child is the moment the problem is discovered, regardless of age. A hearing aid can be fitted to very young children, even infants. It is also of utmost importance that the parents be counseled and guided and helped to understand how vital a role they must play at home in helping the child to learn speech and language, especially during the pre-school years." . . . The above was written by A. J. Brizzolara, M.D., and R.R. Hawkins, M.A., and appeared in the MAICO Audiological Library Series. Write or call me for a folder by MAICO on various types of hearing aids. Office at 415 Sharp Bldg., Lincoln. Phone 432-8597.

$20 Pajamas Can't Be Worn

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Authorities took a dim view of a suburban pajama factory's new prints for the spring line. The prosecutor told a city court the plant had manufactured $12 million worth of counterfeit American $20 bills.

Prosecutor J. Maloney said Kuriakos Papadimitropoulos, the pajama factory owner, and three other persons were charged with conspiring to make and distribute the notes.

Where Do The States Stand?

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

The score board reads 33-0.

To date, 33 of the required 38 states have ratified the so-called "Equal Rights Amendment" (ERA), the proposed 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

But that's just three more than last year. Added to the list of ratified states in 1974 were Ohio, Montana and Maine.

In the wake of Watergate and forthcoming state and congressional elections, the movement to rapidly make the ERA national law seems to have lost momentum. And that despite the AFL-CIO's endorsement of the ERA in October, seen at the time as an indicator that the ERA would finally gain full amendment status by the end of calendar year 1974.

Both pro- and anti-ERA forces seem to have become more sophisticated and organized in the 2½ years since Congress sent the amendment to the states for ratification.

That was in late March, 1972. Twenty-one states pushed to ratify by the end of that year and nine more jumped on the ratification bandwagon by the end of 1973.

Although progress now seems frustratingly slow for ERA proponents and opposition forces alike, both sides predict their efforts will succeed.

"It's dead as a doornail," said a Georgia newspaper editor contacted last year about the status of the ERA in his state. His sentiments are echoed by the well-organized opposition forces.

Meanwhile, the pro-ERA people say, "Just five more." But some of the more conservative privately admit "the ERA is in trouble."

If and when those five remaining states do sign their approval to the amendment by the 1979 deadline, a court battle undoubtedly will be waged.

That fight will determine the legality of not only Nebraska's rescission of prior ratification, but also a similar action in Tennessee, which withdrew its nearly two-year-old ratification in March.

Rescission attempts have been made in other states currently counted on the plus side. Among those are West Virginia (the motion to withdraw was rejected), California and Montana, which finally ratified in January after 13 tries to break a tie vote.

No state, however, has yet sent down to defeat the amendment that states "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex."

But amendment has become a virtual political football in some states.

In perhaps no other state has the ERA been tossed around to such a degree as in Illinois.

In May, the Illinois Senate voted to by-pass its executive committee, considered hostile to the amendment, and brought the issue to the full floor. A subsequent vote was four short of the state's required three-fifths ratification.

And that's not all. Although the Illinois House failed to take action on the amendment this year, its 1973 vote is the subject of a lawsuit.

A court case filed in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois by the amendment's sponsors currently is under advisement by a three-judge panel looking into whether the state's three-fifths vote requirement is applicable to U.S. Constitution amendments, the legality of the three-fifths requirement and thus whether the 95-72 approval of the amendment is binding.

The Louisiana Senate approved the amendment in June, 1972, but it was reverted back to committee for the 1974 session because the 1972 House failed to come up with the required votes for ratification. This year, the Louisiana Senate judiciary committee decided to defer a vote while the House's committee again rejected the proposed amendment.

A Story Of Frustration

The Case Of The Missing Chest

New York — This is the diary of a woman who cheerfully wandered into a Fifth Avenue store one day and set up such a chain of frustration that now she is wondering if she can charge her psychiatrist's bills to major medical. Her handwriting gets increasingly illegible and all expletives are of course deleted. No, she is not you.

Tuesday, July 16

Dear Diary, you know that chest with the small drawers I've been wanting for so long? Well, I found it today at—. Nice saleswoman, Miss S., patted it lovingly, showed me fine points. I said, yes, charge it. But doesn't it have a scratch on one leg?

Miss S. calls warehouse, assures me brand new piece being reserved for me. Now about delivery. Another call reveals furniture deliveries made only on Wednesday and Saturday. Must be Saturday, I work and am not home during week. Don't I have a doorman? Admit I am probably onlv customer without doorman, superintendent or butler. Must be Saturday. Hate to spend all day waiting at home in vain. Is Miss S. sure? Barring tidal waves or atomic explosions, I will be mistress of my $258.12 (with tax) furniture on Saturday some time.

Thursday, July 18

Call R's and sav can't come to country for weekend, must be home Saturday. Next week? Get nervous. Phone Miss S. In voice that implies she has hand on stack of bibles, she soothes me. I give her both home and office telephone numbers, just in case.

Saturday, July 20

Beautiful sunshiney day. Move bedroom furniture to make room for newcomer. Need groceries, but dare not leave house. By 8 p.m., decide delivery not coming. Have dinner out of cans.

Monday, July 22

Telephone Miss S. at 11:15. She is not in department, perhaps at lunch. Leave office number, please have her call back. Telephone again at 2. Miss S. not there, perhaps on break. Reach Miss S. at 4. In pained voice, she says my home telephone does not answer. Reply, of course not, am at office. Explain waited all day Saturday, no delivery, Why? She explains that saleschecks were back on her desk on Monday morning. Why? Doesn't know. Will call warehouse and report. She does not.

Tuesday, July 23

Call Miss S. at 10:30—Too early for lunch. Not there, nobody knows where she is. Call furniture adjustment office. They say I must take matter up with Miss S. Three calls later, reach Miss S. Reason warehouse did not deliver is that they had no stock. Will send floor model. What about the scratch? Don't worry, it will be fixed. Next Saturday, then. Will call her on Friday, to be sure no slip-up. Yes, dear, do that, Cancel country weekend.

Friday, July 26

Call Miss S. in morning. Friday is her day off. Call furniture office. Explain situation, tell them Miss S. not there. Can they check on delivery? No, Miss S. must do it. Voice getting shrill, I repeat Miss S. not in store, probably lolling on beach. Insist they check. Reluctantly, ladylike telephone voice agrees to have adjustor check, will call me back. Do not go to lunch, in case I miss call. Lunchless, furious, call Miss ladylike at 1:20. No report, yet, will call me back. How soon? Don't know, may take two hours. Say I'm on way to speak to store president, and hang up, hard.

Take taxi to store, find executive office. Nice office, nice secretary, president out, but will locate assistant. Watching me warily in case I smash things, she makes several calls, flushes out a Mr. O.

Mr. O. arrives. Nice man with handsome suntan (He probably got it while I was waiting at home). Explain problem. We go to furniture office, he tactfully suggests I wait outside. Loud female voices through door. Mr. O. emerges, apologizes, assures me operation chest is all signals go. Delivery will be made tomorrow. Gives me special telephone number to call Saturday morning. If any trouble, feel free to call him on Monday.

Saturday, July 27

Again, nice day. Call special number at 10 a.m. Soothing voice tells me I am among the chosen. Rearrange furniture again and wait. At 4:30, call soothing voice. They haven't come. Be patient, dear, they sometimes are late. Can't go marketing, but cans holding up. Sun sets, no delivery.

Monday, July 29

Call Mr. O. He has the day off. (No wonder such nice tan.) Call furniture office, insist on speaking to adjustor. She is Miss M. Amazed no delivery. Will call right back.

She does, full of apologies. Explanation is that delivery man, noticing scratch not taken care of, decided I wouldn't want the chest and returned it to store. Miss M. and I now desperate. She asks if it's possible to deliver Wednesday to neighbor? Maybe, but accommodating neighbors on vacation, due back tonight. Give her their name and apartment number, will call her in morning to confirm.

Tuesday, July 30

Bill for chest in mail, with usual admonition about prompt payment. Call Miss M. to say o.k. for delivery to neighbors. Her day off. (I'll bet she has a super tan.) Can someone else take information? Sorry, papers are locked in Miss M.'s desk. Nothing to do but keep fingers crossed.

Wednesday, July 31

D day. Neighbors poised for delivery. Phone store in morning. Sorry, store doing inventory, everybody incommunicado until after 12. Call back at 1 for Miss M. She is not there, came in at noon, now at lunch. Neighbors report no action yet. They phone triumphantly at 4. Chest has arrived along with a lamp shade bought from another store only on previous afternoon.

Wednesday evening

I am now the possessor of chest of drawers. Am afraid to scrutinize carefully. Please, God, suppose the drawers stick?

That New Car Will Cost Plenty

Are you sure you need a new car or a second car? You'll spend about 15.89¢ a mile to drive and maintain a 1974 standard size car for 10 years. This adds up to about $15,892.36 for the estimated life of the car. These figures are published by the National Consumer Finance Association.

Costs will be less if you have a 1974 compact. You'll spend about 12.88¢ a mile or $12,879.53 for using the car 10 years. To drive a subcompact you can count on spending 11.15¢ per mile or $11,153.10 over a 10 year life span of the car.

The purchase price is the first cost in the long line of costs that must be paid in operating your car during its approximate 100,000 mile, 10 year trip from the assembly line to the junkyard.

The National Consumer Finance Association lists depreciation of about $4201 as the greatest single cost. Other major costs for a 10-year period are: (1) $4032 for some 7,700 gallons of gas; (2) $2940 for maintenance, parts, repairs and tires; (3) $1618 for insurance and (4) $1960 for garage, parking and tolls.

Cost averages given here will vary according to location, how the car is used, and fluctuating costs for fuel, repairs, etc.

More detailed information may be found in the pamphlet, "Cost of Operating An Automobile". A copy may be obtained by writing to the Federal Highway Administration, Transportation Dept., Washington, D.C. 20590.

Lincoln Homemakers Worth $7,037 A Year

How much is the housekeeping time of the housewife in Lincoln, Nebraska worth? This question was answered by Dr. Florence Walker, associate professor of Education and Family Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Jobs listed for the housewife included nursemaid, dietitian, food buyer, cook, dishwasher, housekeeper, laundress, seamstress, practical nurse, maintenance person, gardener and chauffeur.

The housewife with an average size family spends 99.6 hours each week carrying out these duties. Most of the time is spent as a nursemaid — 44.5 hours. Housekeeping takes up 17.5 hours per week, and cooking consumes 13.1 hours of the housewife's week.

The rate assigned to each task varied from one dollar an hour for a nursemaid to $2.25 per hour, for a dietitian.

The total value of the homemaker's housekeeping time was determined to be $135.34 per week, or $7,037.68 per year. These figures were based on wage rates in Fall, 1973.

Dr. Walker said it is evident from the studies that it is the child who is bearing the burden when the wife starts working.

"The husband may contribute to certain tasks, such as marketing or yardwork, but it is the children who are doing the everyday chores."

Capsule Now Rejuvenated

Apollo 009 has just received a face lift.

The 3-man ship that made a test journey into space and now is on display north of the University of Nebraska State Museum is being freshened up for another year, according to Dr. Allan D. Griesemer.

A white finish of polyester resin has been applied to protect the exterior and return the capsule to its pre-launch appearance. A few areas scorched during its 1966 flight have been left exposed to provide realism, Griesemer noted.

A fiber glass nose cone has been built for the capsule by Titan Industries of Emerald.

Plexiglass panels have been weatherstripped in place to cover open hatches at various places around the base providing visibility inside. New steel steps have been installed so visitors can look into the cabin through the main hatch.

A lighted display in the cabin and of the exterior will soon be completed, making the 009 a 24-hour landmark on the campus.

The Apollo capsule at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln is one of less than a dozen on display throughout the United States.

U.S. FLAG . . . is attached to Apollo capsule by NU Museum designer Nathan Mohler, as Griesemer looks on.

Withdrawn Candidate Loses Filing Refund, Judge Decides

Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum ruled Tuesday that Charles A. Bates, who withdrew as a county commissioner candidate last spring, should have filed a written claim for refund of the filing fee.

Bates had brought an action in Small Claims Court for refund of his $105 filing fee after being informed by Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas that there is no statuatory provision for the county to refund a filing fee.

Douglas rendered this opinion when Bates appeared before the county board last spring seeking a refund of his filing fee. However, no written claim was filed at that time.

Bates, who filed for commissioner from the third district on the Republican ticket on March 13, withdrew on March 14 and stopped payment of his filing fee check.

However, he later made the check good with another check and filed the small claims action.

Judge Slocum held that the evidence showed that no claim was ever filed by Bates with the commissioners for the refund as provided by law.

The court cited a law in existence since 1899 which states that the county board has the power to examine and settle all accounts against the county.

A check with the clerk's office revealed that Bates has now filed a claim which will be presented at the county board next week.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Authorities took a dim view of a suburban pajama factory's new prints for the spring line. The prosecutor told a city court the plant had manufactured $12 million worth of counterfeit American $20 bills.

Prosecutor J. Maloney said Kuriakos Papadimitropoulos, the pajama factory owner, and three other persons were charged with conspiring to make and distribute the notes.

CHILDREN WHO NEED HEARING AIDS

"Children who need hearing aids should be discovered and fitted at as early an age as possible. The time to begin working with a hard of hearing or deaf child is the moment the problem is discovered, regardless of age. A hearing aid can be fitted to very young children, even infants. It is also of utmost importance that the parents be counseled and guided and helped to understand how vital a role they must play at home in helping the child to learn speech and language, especially during the pre-school years." . . . From letter transpositions — Ryma for Mary — to borrowing ethnic names — Aki, Japanese for girl born in Autumn — new parents are letting their imaginations help in name selection.

Choose A Special Name For Your Child

By COLLEEN DISHON

Call me Karolina (kah-roh-lee). That sounds more like me. My byline doesn't settle so well since my introduction to Sue Browder. Karolina, she points out, is the Russian and Hungarian development of the French for "petite" or "feminine."

Or, since I'm part Indian, of several generations ago, how about Heta (HEH-tah)? Ms. Browder explains that Heta is a Hopi Indian nickname which is a corruption of Yeta, the name for the traditional race to the village after the rabbit hunt. Well, who's been to a rabbit hunt recently? More like a rat race. That's easy: Since I care to win, just call me Aleta (ah-LEH tah), the Spanish name meaning "little winged one."

My mother might drop a few tears over Aleta, but Ms. Browder would applaud. When it comes to selecting names, she feels that Americans have been entirely too careless and most certainly lacking in imagination — up until now.

Happily, she says, today's young people are beginning to see things differently, and are choosing names that say from the outset that their child's life be a very special and individual one.

But you thought you would name your first son John Jr., after his Daddy? Don't, advises Ms. Browder. Not only is it a dull thought, she insists, but researchers find that boys hate being called junior. So, "if the father's name were Daniel . . . compromise between Daniel and a totally different name by calling the baby Dani, the modern Israeli form of Daniel, used for both boys and girls."

This brings up another point. Ms. Browder, writing her well-researched book, "The New Age Baby Name Book" (Workman Publishing), observes that less emphasis is being put on stereotyped masculine and feminine names. For instance, Harper, Lindsey and Darcy are used for either sex.

The methods available for creating names are endless, and parents who lack a commitment to Zero Population can experiment, for example, with anagrams, taking a word which has special meaning and switching the letters until they have a pleasant sound such as earth to Retha; combining parents' names, Joseph and Ellen into Joselle for a girl; aphereis, dropping the unaccented syllables, for Tilda from Matilda, and inversions, with Mary becoming Ryma.

However, once parents become more sophisticated, Ms. Browder sees them moving with ease into ethnic names, perhaps from heritages close to their own or even widely different from their own.

American Indians set good examples, she suggests. Their names imply more than their literal meanings indicate, which could, of course, give a modern child something to hang onto. For example, "Sweaty Blanket" probably would be going too far. Though the moniker has more to do with being a tireless rider than B.O., it might be hard to live down in the first grade.

On the other hand, if the child is born during a rain storm, while a couple is living in a modest first home, a whimsical Lokni would be appropriate. Ms. Browder translates Lokni as "rain coming through a small hole in the roof."

The idea of stamping a child unique by giving him or her a totally unique name has been traditional in many cultures, according to Ms. Browder. For example, she notes that the "Chinese have few 'common' first names because each child is believed too special to be given a name many others have used before him. The same is true of some American Indians who believe a person's name is his soul and so must be totally personal."

"In fact," she adds, "it is said of many an Indian paradise that you have only to tell the gods your name to be admitted. Among these Indians, then, if two people accidentally end up with the same name, one of them will choose a new one.

"The Purim Kukis, a tiny Tibeto-Burmese tribe in Manipu State in China, actually have clan monopolies on names, and if anyone takes a name from another clan, he is fined a pig and a pot of rice brew, but allowed to keep the name."

This is intimidating, but for novices, perhaps it's still better to crib a little, and if you stick with foreign intrigue, the relatives and neighbors will hardly be the wiser.

Try Aba (ah-BAH), the Ghanaian name for a girl born on Thursday; Aki (ah-KEE), Japanese for a girl born in autumn; Bibi (bee-bee), Swahili term of politeness derived from the arabic for lady; Danior (DAH-nee-ohr), the English Gypsy name for a child born with teeth; Holt, the ecological name meaning "son of the unspoiled forests." Or, Choomia (CHOO:mee-uh), the English Gypsy word for "a kiss."

And, if the newborn cries a lot, Mojag (MOH-yahg), the North American Indian name for one who is "never quiet" is suitable. If you have second thoughts, switch to Pedzi, a Southern Rhodesian name. Pedzi literally means finisher and is bestowed on the last child a mother plans to have. So says Sue Browder, author from Connecticut and mother of Dustin (German for brave, strong fighter) and Erin (Irish for peace).

An Innovative Slicing Method

To slice a pound cake or layer cake very thin for a torte use a piece of nylon thread or thin wire. To make even layers, place toothpicks at measured intervals on opposite sides of the cake. Using the toothpicks as a guide, gently cut through the cake. Remove cut layers with large spatula or pancake turner. It is easier if the cake is cold. Reassemble layers using quick and easy canned fillings or frostings.

Eye Damage from Microwaves Unlikely

Evidence does not support eye damage from microwave ovens or any other machines that produce those tiny wavelengths from 1 mm to 2 meters long that bombard us in today's environment.

That's the word from Col. Budd Appleton of the Marine Corps, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

There have been contentions and court cases that microwaves cause eye lens damage and lead to cataracts.

Col. Appleton said workers using diathermy machines in the Physical Medicine Service at Walter Reed Army Medical Center were examined for eye damage, along with another group of workers from elsewhere in the hospital and that no difference was found. The diathermy, like microwave ovens, produce microwaves.

He added that a survey of workers on an unnamed military base who were exposed to microwaves as part of their work was conducted by a team that included two opthalmologists.

dear abby — Should She 'Forget' The Pill?

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for 14 months. He had a 3-year-old son by a previous marriage. We had no trouble getting custody of the boy because his mother didn't want him. (She hasn't come to see him once.)

I am 29 and John is 35, and I want to have a child of our own. John's son, whom I honestly couldn't love more if I had given birth to him, would dearly love a little brother or sister, and I desperately want one, but John says no. His excuses are lame. ("The world is in such a sorry state, we shouldn't increase the population now. We have one healthy, normal child now, why press our luck?")

I am on the pill, and could conveniently "forget" to take it a few mornings, but I hate to be dishonest. If I were to get pregnant, he couldn't force me to have an abortion, and I'm sure that after the child was born he would grow to love it like he loves his son.

Please help me sort out my feelings, Abby.

TORN IN CHICAGO

DEAR TORN: About your scheme to "conveniently forget" the pill: Forget it. (The scheme, not the pill.) Ideally, you and John should get some counseling together. Most clergymen are well equipped; also Chicago has many expert marriage counselors. If John refuses to go, you can't force him, but do go alone. You need some sound, objective counseling to help you resolve this knotty problem.

DEAR ABBY: A writer was unhappy about her flat chest and asked you whether breast implants were considered deceitful and therefore sinful in the eyes of the Lord.

You suggested that she ask her clergyman for a ruling.

I disagree. Every clergyman cannot keep abreast of new developments in plastic surgery; some clergymen are big busts as advisers on these points.

The writer should look behind her breast — where her heart is — for the answer. Whom is she trying to deceive or please?

"Capping" one's teeth for cosmetic reasons has been an accepted practice for years. Are teeth more important to beauty than breasts?

BEVERLY HILLS M.D.

DEAR M.D.: Only to those who have trouble keeping their mouths shut.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SHIRLEY: I agree. Something is wrong. Maybe he gave at the office.

Problems: You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Where Do The States Stand?

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

The score board reads 33-0.

To date, 33 of the required 38 states have ratified the so-called "Equal Rights Amendment" (ERA), the proposed 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

But that's just three more than last year. Added to the list of ratified states in 1974 were Ohio, Montana and Maine.

In the wake of Watergate and forthcoming state and congressional elections, the movement to rapidly make the ERA national law seems to have lost momentum. And that despite the AFL-CIO's endorsement of the ERA in October, seen at the time as an indicator that the ERA would finally gain full amendment status by the end of calendar year 1974.

Both pro- and anti-ERA forces seem to have become more sophisticated and organized in the 2½ years since Congress sent the amendment to the states for ratification.

That was in late March, 1972. Twenty-one states pushed to ratify by the end of that year and nine more jumped on the ratification bandwagon by the end of 1973.

Although progress now seems frustratingly slow for ERA proponents and opposition forces alike, both sides predict their efforts will succeed.

"It's dead as a doornail," said a Georgia newspaper editor contacted last year about the status of the ERA in his state. His sentiments are echoed by the well-organized opposition forces.

Meanwhile, the pro-ERA people say, "Just five more." But some of the more conservative privately admit "the ERA is in trouble."

If and when those five remaining states do sign their approval to the amendment by the 1979 deadline, a court battle undoubtedly will be waged.

That fight will determine the legality of not only Nebraska's rescission of prior ratification, but also a similar action in Tennessee, which withdrew its nearly two-year-old ratification in March.

Rescission attempts have been made in other states currently counted on the plus side. Among those are West Virginia (the motion to withdraw was rejected), California and Montana, which finally ratified in January after 13 tries to break a tie vote.

No state, however, has yet sent down to defeat the amendment that states "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex."

But amendment has become a virtual political football in some states.

In perhaps no other state has the ERA been tossed around to such a degree as in Illinois.

In May, the Illinois Senate voted to by-pass its executive committee, considered hostile to the amendment, and brought the issue to the full floor. A subsequent vote was four short of the state's required three-fifths ratification.

And that's not all. Although the Illinois House failed to take action on the amendment this year, its 1973 vote is the subject of a lawsuit.

A court case filed in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois by the amendment's sponsors currently is under advisement by a three-judge panel looking into whether the state's three-fifths vote requirement is applicable to U.S. Constitution amendments, the legality of the three-fifths requirement and thus whether the 95-72 approval of the amendment is binding.

The Louisiana Senate approved the amendment in June, 1972, but it was reverted back to committee for the 1974 session because the 1972 House failed to come up with the required votes for ratification. This year, the Louisiana Senate judiciary committee decided to defer a vote while the House's committee again rejected the proposed amendment.

A Story Of Frustration

The Case Of The Missing Chest

New York — This is the diary of a woman who cheerfully wandered into a Fifth Avenue store one day and set up such a chain of frustration that now she is wondering if she can charge her psychiatrist's bills to major medical. Her handwriting gets increasingly illegible and all expletives are of course deleted. No, she is not you.

Tuesday, July 16

Dear Diary, you know that chest with the small drawers I've been wanting for so long? Well, I found it today at—. Nice saleswoman, Miss S., patted it lovingly, showed me fine points. I said, yes, charge it. But doesn't it have a scratch on one leg?

Miss S. calls warehouse, assures me brand new piece being reserved for me. Now about delivery. Another call reveals furniture deliveries made only on Wednesday and Saturday. Must be Saturday, I work and am not home during week. Don't I have a doorman? Admit I am probably onlv customer without doorman, superintendent or butler. Must be Saturday. Hate to spend all day waiting at home in vain. Is Miss S. sure? Barring tidal waves or atomic explosions, I will be mistress of my $258.12 (with tax) furniture on Saturday some time.

Thursday, July 18

Call R's and say can't come to country for weekend, must be home Saturday. Next week? Get nervous. Phone Miss S. In voice that implies she has hand on stack of bibles, she soothes me. I give her both home and office telephone numbers, just in case.

Saturday, July 20

Beautiful sunshiney day. Move bedroom furniture to make room for newcomer. Need groceries, but dare not leave house. By 8 p.m., decide delivery not coming. Have dinner out of cans.

Monday, July 22

Telephone Miss S. at 11:15. She is not in department, perhaps at lunch. Leave office number, please have her call back. Telephone again at 2. Miss S. not there, perhaps on break. Reach Miss S. at 4. In pained voice, she says my home telephone does not answer. Reply, of course not, am at office. Explain waited all day Saturday, no delivery, Why? She explains that saleschecks were back on her desk on Monday morning. Why? Doesn't know. Will call warehouse and report. She does not.

Tuesday, July 23

Call Miss S. at 10:30—Too early for lunch. Not there, nobody knows where she is. Call furniture adjustment office. They say I must take matter up with Miss S. Three calls later, reach Miss S. Reason warehouse did not deliver is that they had no stock. Will send floor model. What about the scratch? Don't worry. it will be fixed. Next Saturday, then. Will call her on Friday, to be sure no slip-up. Yes, dear, do that, Cancel country weekend.

Friday, July 26

Call Miss S. in morning. Friday is her day off. Call furniture office. Explain situation, tell them Miss S. not there. Can they check on delivery? No, Miss S. must do it. Voice getting shrill, I repeat Miss S. not in store, probably lolling on beach. Insist they check. Reluctantly, ladylike telephone voice agrees to have adjustor check, will call me back. Do not go to lunch, in case I miss call. Lunchless, furious, call Miss ladylike at 1:20. No report, yet, will call me back. How soon? Don't know, may take two hours. Say I'm on way to speak to store president, and hang up, hard.

Take taxi to store, find executive office. Nice office, nice secretary, president out, but will locate assistant. Watching me warily in case I smash things, she makes several calls, flushes out a Mr. O.

Mr. O. arrives. Nice man with handsome suntan (He probably got it while I was waiting at home). Explain problem. We go to furniture office, he tactfully suggests I wait outside. Loud female voices through door. Mr. O. emerges, apologizes, assures me operation chest is all signals go. Delivery will be made tomorrow. Gives me special telephone number to call Saturday morning. If any trouble, feel free to call him on Monday.

Saturday, July 27

Again, nice day. Call special number at 10 a.m. Soothing voice tells me I am among the chosen. Rearrange furniture again and wait. At 4:30, call soothing voice. They haven't come. Be patient, dear, they sometimes are late. Can't go marketing, but cans holding up. Sun sets, no delivery.

Monday, July 29

Call Mr. O. He has the day off. (No wonder such nice tan.) Call furniture office, insist on speaking to adjustor. She is Miss M. Amazed no delivery. Will call right back.

She does, full of apologies. Explanation is that delivery man, noticing scratch not taken care of, decided I wouldn't want the chest and returned it to store. Miss M. and I now desperate. She asks if it's possible to deliver Wednesday to neighbor? Maybe, but accommodating neighbors on vacation, due back tonight. Give her their name and apartment number, will call her in morning to confirm.

Tuesday, July 30

Bill for chest in mail, with usual admonition about prompt payment. Call Miss M. to say o.k. for delivery to neighbors. Her day off. (I'll bet she has a super tan.) Can someone else take information? Sorry, papers are locked in Miss M.'s desk. Nothing to do but keep fingers crossed.

Wednesday, July 31

D day. Neighbors poised for delivery. Phone store in morning. Sorry, store doing inventory, everybody incommunicado until after 12. Call back at 1 for Miss M. She is not there, came in at noon. now at lunch. Neighbors report no action yet. They phone triumphantly at 4. Chest has arrived along with a lamp shade bought from another store only on previous afternoon.

Wednesday evening

I am now the possessor of chest of drawers. Am afraid to scrutinize carefully. Please, God, suppose the drawers stick?

That New Car Will Cost Plenty

Are you sure you need a new car or a second car? You'll spend about 15.89¢ a mile to drive and maintain a 1974 standard size car for 10 years. This adds up to about $15.892.36 for the estimated life of the car. These figures are published by the National Consumer Finance Association.

Costs will be less if you have a 1974 compact. You'll spend about 12.88¢ a mile or $12.879.53 for using the car 10 years. To drive a subcompact you can count on spending 11.15¢ per mile or $11.153.10 over a 10 year life span of the car.

The purchase price is the first cost in the long line of costs that must be paid in operating your car during its approximate 100.000 mile, 10 year trip from the assembly line to the junkyard.

The National Consumer Finance Association lists depreciation of about $4201 as the greatest single cost. Other major costs for a 10-year period are: (1) $4032 for some 7,700 gallons of gas: (2) $2940 for maintenance, parts, repairs and tires: (3) $1618 for insurance and (4) $1960 for garage, parking and tolls.

Cost averages given here will vary according to location, how the car is used, and fluctuating costs for fuel, repairs, etc.

More detailed information may be found in the pamphlet, "Cost of Operating An Automobile". A copy may be obtained by writing to the Federal Highway Administration, Transportation Dept., Washington, D.C. 20590.

Lincoln Homemakers Worth $7,037 A Year

How much is the housekeeping time of the housewife in Lincoln, Nebraska worth? This question was answered by Dr. Florence Walker, associate professor of Education and Family Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Jobs listed for the housewife included nursemaid, dietitian, food buyer, cook, dishwasher, housekeeper, laundress, seamstress, practical nurse, maintenance person, gardener and chauffeur.

The housewife with an average size family spends 99.6 hours each week carrying out these duties. Most of the time is spent as a nursemaid — 44.5 hours. Housekeeping takes up 17.5 hours per week, and cooking consumes 13.1 hours of the housewife's week.

The rate assigned to each task varied from one dollar an hour for a nursemaid to $2.25 per hour, for a dietitian.

The total value of the homemaker's housekeeping time was determined to be $135.34 per week, or $7,037.68 per year. These figures were based on wage rates in Fall, 1973

Dr. Walker said it is evident from the studies that it is the child who is bearing the burden when the wife starts working.

"The husband may contribute to certain tasks, such as marketing or yardwork, but it is the children who are doing the everyday chores."

Educational TV To Reach More Homes In '75, '76

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

Educational television programming will remain steady, but it will reach more Nebraskans.

That is the outlook in the proposed Nebraska Educational Television budgets for the next two years, NETV officials told members of the governing commission Tuesday.

Requests to the Legislature, approved Tuesday by the Nebraska Educational Television Commission, show a 5.1% increase for the 1975-76 fiscal year and a 4.1% increase for the 1976-77 fiscal year over the 1974-75 year.

This came despite a request by Gov. J. James Exon to hold next year's budgets to the level of the current fiscal year because of expected low tax revenues, caused by the June-July drought.

To Improve Reception

NETV General Manager Jack McBride said the largest increases in next year's budget are to improve statewide NETV reception and to continue "Grand Generation," a program for the elderly now financed by the Nebraska Commission on the Aging.

The first is a result of a legislative request to study and improve NETV reception in Nebraska.

Commissioners Tuesday approved use of $114,500 to build network translators in Falls City and Ord to boost signals from the nine stations' towers.

There are four translators in Nebraska. Long-range plans, financed by $231,125 in the 1975-76 budget request, are to construct 13 translators to boost reception in problem areas — central Nebraska and the state's southeast and northwest tips.

HEW Matching Grant

A project to boost reception in Omaha may be partially financed by a federal Health, Education and Welfare Department grant of matching funds in 1975-76, according to W. Boyd Rooney, assistant general manager of operations.

Rooney said similar matching-funds grants, expected to help pay for the other translators and a truck carrying color camera equipment, are no longer likely.

Commissioners decided to investigate submitting a scaled-down request for the camera and truck.

The total 1975-76 budget request is $2.63 million. Included in that are $12,700 more for programming, $3,287 for expanding station air time to morning hours and $10,640 to hire an engineer to maintain the new translators.

Ron Hull, assistant general manager for programming, said the $12,700 would maintain programming at the past year's level.

Research Specialist

The 1976-77 budget request is for $2.79 million. That includes $17,104 for a network research specialist to supervise audience research used in program planning, Hull said.

Both requests are due at the Legislature by Sept. 15.

Mal Adams' appointment as NETV minority affairs coordinator was announced to commissioners. Adams has worked at stations KOWH and KETV in Omaha.

Money from Nebraskans for Public Television, the NETV citizen-support group, will be used to produce programs with the Lincoln Symphony and Omaha ballet company, Hull announced.

To Buy Programs

He said the network will also use money from the group to buy national programs, "Lilius," "Yoga and You" and "Romanali's Table," similar to the Julia Child series.

Assistant Manager for Administration Paul Few said $24,900 from the 1974-75 budget has been reallocated to meet increasing utilities costs, to begin weather warning services to NETV channels and to bring national Public Broadcasting System programs to Channel 26 in Omaha.

4 Lancaster Senators Set Perfect Record

Four of Lancaster County's six state senators did not miss a single day of the 1975 Unicameral's 60-day session.

The other two missed only one day, according to an Associated Press check of the Legislative Journal's records.

Perfect attendance was recorded by Sens. Wally Barnett, Steve Fowler and Shirley Marsh, all of Lincoln, and Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly.

One day's absence was recorded by Sens. Roland Luedtke and Harold Simpson, both of Lincoln.

Speaker Richard Proud of Omaha had the worst attendance record, missing 13 of 60 days.

Chambers Asks Legal Opinion On Letter From Cook's Lawyer

State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha has asked Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer for an official opinion on whether the New York lawyer for G. Bradford Cook has illegally attempted to bring "undue and improper influence" on Chambers.

Chambers enclosed in his request to Meyer a letter from Jonathan Rosner, who said his office is representing the former chairman of the federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Cook has admitted giving false statements to a federal grand jury investigating the Robert Vesco case.

In his letter to Chambers, Rosner said the senator has made "irresponsible" statements regarding Cook who, Chambers has said, should be subjected to disciplinary action by the Nebraska Bar Association.

Cook, a former Lincolnite, is a member of the Nebraska Bar.

"Persistence in these demonstrably false accusations by you, in perpetual ignorance of the facts, for motives evidently political in nature, can well lead to liability for those statements," Rosner wrote Chambers.

"In my opinion," Chambers wrote Meyer, "he has attempted to use the threat of legal action to coerce me into being silent on a matter which I feel relates to my duty as a state senator."

Furthermore, Chambers wrote, "when an attempt is made to coerce a state senator into a position of failing to discharge his duty, that attempt at coercion would seem to be a violation of the law as relates to undue and improper influence on a public official."

Admitted Child Stealer Placed On Probation

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Rodney J. Adams, 23, of Fremont, Neb., who admitted taking a 3-year-old girl from her Avoca, Iowa, home last February, has been placed on two years probation by Pottawattamie County District Court Judge Paul Sulhoff.

Adams was charged with child stealing in the abduction of Cindy McPherson, daughter of Mrs. Vicky McPherson.

The mother was an acquaintance of Adams.

Five days after the abduction, Adams was arrested in Olympia, Wash., and the child was returned to her mother unharmed.

Adams pleaded guilty to the charges May 1, and was released on $5,000 bond.

Prosecutors urged the court to defer sentencing on the guilty plea until the end of the probationary period. Should Adams maintain a "clean slate" during that time, the charges will be dismissed.

City Manager Quits

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — City Manager Ray Wells, an architect of Iowa City's controversial urban renewal project, announced his resignation to accept a similar position at Lakewood, Colo.

From letter transpositions — Ryma for Mary — to borrowing ethnic names — Aki, Japanese for girl born in Autumn — new parents are letting their imaginations help in name selection.

Choose A Special Name For Your Child

By COLLEEN DISHON

Call me Karolina (kah-roh-lee). That sounds more like me. My byline doesn't settle so well since my introduction to Sue Browder. Karolina, she points out, is the Russian and Hungarian development of the French for "petite" or "feminine."

Or, since I'm part Indian, of several generations ago, how about Heta (HEH-tah)? Ms. Browder explains that Heta is a Hopi Indian nickname which is a corruption of Yeta, the name for the traditional race to the village after the rabbit hunt. Well, who's been to a rabbit hunt recently? More like a rat race. That's easy: Since I care to win, just call me Aleta (ah-LEH tah), the Spanish name meaning "little winged one."

My mother might drop a few tears over Aleta, but Ms. Browder would applaud. When it comes to selecting names, she feels that Americans have been entirely too careless and most certainly lacking in imagination — up until now.

Happily, she says, today's young people are beginning to see things differently, and are choosing names that say from the outset that their child's life be a very special and individual one.

But you thought you would name your first son John Jr., after his Daddy? Don't, advises Ms. Browder. Not only is it a dull thought, she insists, but researchers find that boys hate being called junior. So, "if the father's name were Daniel . . . compromise between Daniel and a totally different name by calling the baby Dani, the modern Israeli form of Daniel, used for both boys and girls."

This brings up another point. Ms. Browder, writing her well-researched book, "The New Age Baby Name Book" (Workman Publishing), observes that less emphasis is being put on stereotyped masculine and feminine names. For instance, Harper, Lindsey and Darcy are used for either sex.

The methods available for creating names are endless, and parents who lack a commitment to Zero Population can experiment, for example, with anagrams, taking a word which has special meaning and switching the letters until they have a pleasant sound such as earth to Retha; combining parents' names, Joseph and Ellen into Joselle for a girl; aphereis, dropping the unaccented syllables, for Tilda from Matilda, and inversions, with Mary becoming Ryma.

However, once parents become more sophisticated, Ms. Browder sees them moving with ease into ethnic names, perhaps from heritages close to their own or even widely different from their own.

American Indians set good examples, she suggests. Their names imply more than their literal meanings indicate, which could, of course, give a modern child something to hang onto. For example, "Sweaty Blanket" probably would be going too far. Though the moniker has more to do with being a tireless rider than B.O., it might be hard to live down in the first grade.

On the other hand, if the child is born during a rain storm, while a couple is living in a modest first home, a whimsical Lokni would be appropriate. Ms. Browder translates Lokni as "rain coming through a small hole in the roof."

The idea of stamping a child unique by giving him or her a totally unique name has been traditional in many cultures, according to Ms. Browder. For example, she notes that the "Chinese have few 'common' first names because each child is believed too special to be given a name many others have used before him. The same is true of some American Indians who believe a person's name is his soul and so must be totally personal."

"In fact," she adds, "it is said of many an Indian paradise that you have only to tell the gods your name to be admitted. Among these Indians, then, if two people accidentally end up with the same name, one of them will choose a new one.

"The Purim Kukis, a tiny Tibeto-Burmese tribe in Manipu State in China, actually have clan monopolies on names, and if anyone takes a name from another clan, he is fined a pig and a pot of rice brew, but allowed to keep the name."

This is intimidating, but for novices, perhaps it's still better to crib a little, and if you stick with foreign intrigue, the relatives and neighbors will hardly be the wiser.

Try Aba (ah-BAH), the Ghanaian name for a girl born on Thursday; Aki (ah-KEE), Japanese for a girl born in autumn; Bibi (bee-bee), Swahili term of politeness derived from the arabic for lady; Danior (DAH-nee-ohr), the English Gypsy name for a child born with teeth; Holt, the ecological name meaning "son of the unspoiled forests." Or, Choomia (CHOO:mee-uh), the English Gypsy word for "a kiss."

And, if the newborn cries a lot, Mojag (MOH-yahg), the North American Indian name for one who is "never quiet" is suitable. If you have second thoughts, switch to Pedzi, a Southern Rhodesian name. Pedzi literally means finisher and is bestowed on the last child a mother plans to have. So says Sue Browder, author from Connecticut and mother of Dustin (German for brave, strong fighter) and Erin (Irish for peace).

An Innovative Slicing Method

To slice a pound cake or layer cake very thin for a torte use a piece of nylon thread or thin wire. To make even layers, place toothpicks at measured intervals on opposite sides of the cake. Using the toothpicks as a guide, gently cut through the cake. Remove cut layers with large spatula or pancake turner. It is easier if the cake is cold. Reassemble layers using quick and easy canned fillings or frostings.

Eye Damage from Microwaves Unlikely

Evidence does not support eye damage from microwave ovens or any other machines that produce those tiny wavelengths from 1 mm to 2 meters long that bombard us in today's environment.

That's the word from Col. Budd Appleton of the Marine Corps, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

There have been contentions and court cases that microwaves cause eye lens damage and lead to cataracts.

Col. Appleton said workers using diathermy machines in the Physical Medicine Service at Walter Reed Army Medical Center were examined for eye damage, along with another group of workers from elsewhere in the hospital and that no difference was found. The diathermy, like microwave ovens, produce microwaves.

He added that a survey of workers on an unnamed military base who were exposed to microwaves as part of their work was conducted by a team that included two opthalmologists.

dear abby — Should She 'Forget' The Pill?

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for 14 months. He had a 3-year-old son by a previous marriage. We had no trouble getting custody of the boy because his mother didn't want him. (She hasn't come to see him once.)

I am 29 and John is 35, and I want to have a child of our own. John's son, whom I honestly couldn't love more if I had given birth to him, would dearly love a little brother or sister, and I desperately want one, but John says no. His excuses are lame. ("The world is in such a sorry state, we shouldn't increase the population now. We have one healthy, normal child now, why press our luck?")

I am on the pill, and could conveniently "forget" to take it a few mornings, but I hate to be dishonest. If I were to get pregnant, he couldn't force me to have an abortion, and I'm sure that after the child was born he would grow to love it like he loves his son.

Please help me sort out my feelings, Abby.

TORN IN CHICAGO

DEAR TORN: About your scheme to "conveniently forget" the pill: Forget it. (The scheme, not the pill.) Ideally, you and John should get some counseling together. Most clergymen are well equipped; also Chicago has many expert marriage counselors. If John refuses to go, you can't force him, but do go alone. You need some sound, objective counseling to help you resolve this knotty problem.

DEAR ABBY: A writer was unhappy about her flat chest and asked you whether breast implants were considered deceitful and therefore sinful in the eyes of the Lord.

You suggested that she ask her clergyman for a ruling.

I disagree. Every clergyman cannot keep abreast of new developments in plastic surgery; some clergymen are big busts as advisers on these points.

The writer should look behind her breast — where her heart is — for the answer. Whom is she trying to deceive or please?

"Capping" one's teeth for cosmetic reasons has been an accepted practice for years. Are teeth more important to beauty than breasts?

BEVERLY HILLS M.D.

DEAR M.D.: Only to those who have trouble keeping their mouths shut.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SHIRLEY: I agree. Something is wrong. Maybe he gave at the office.

Problems: You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Concrete Pouring Delay Worries Airport Board

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Airport Authority board members are worried that the scheduled Nov. 1 opening date of the new terminal complex will be pushed back because of a new delay.

Abel Construction Co. has not yet begun pouring concrete for the east-west taxiway, a terminal taxiway, aprons, access roads and parking lots which will serve the $4.7 million terminal.

Engineer Carl Christopherson said Abel originally agreed to begin pouring concrete by Aug. 12.

Not Enough Time

Board members, upset by delays which have plagued the terminal's construction, said in a Tuesday meeting they did not think there was enough time to get the job done between now and Nov. 1.

Abel vice president Bill Bowen assured the group that the $2.6 million paving project will be done by Nov. 1.

Bowen acknowledged that the contractor is behind schedule since crews have been concentrating on a construction project on Cornhusker Hwy. Bowen said the crews will be transferred to the airport project by Thursday or Friday of next week.

Chapin Skeptical

Board member Dick Chapin was still skeptical that the timetable can be met. Referring to previous delays the board has encountered with the firm, Chapin said, "The track record of believability is not good."

Chapin said board members were getting pressure from the public to get the job done.

And, he said, he doesn't blame them. With the access road to the airport torn up, and with the terminal's construction, Chapin said people need a "Chinese roadmap" to reach the airport now.

Bowen said the contractor is aware of the situation adding, "We don't even like good publicity, let alone bad."

Prevent Problems

Board members also urged the contractor to work with Frontier and United airlines and the Air National Guard to make sure some problems are avoided when the contractor speeds up its work next week.

Opening of the terminal has been pushed back several times due to delays in ordering equipmet and bad weather last winter which bogged down the project.

Airport Workers Get 7% Pay Hike

Airport employes were granted a 7½% cost of living increase Tuesday, effective July 1, the start of the airport's fiscal year.

The increase was patterned after the 7½% pay hike granted to city employes by the City Council last week.

The vote to grant the increase to airport workers was not unanimous. Board member Dick Chapin voted against a blanket increase. Chapin said he believed employes should be given raises based on work performance.

In other business the board delayed action for one month on a proposal to increase the fuel flowage fee which is paid by airport operators to the airport.

The Authority collects two cents on every gallon of fuel sold and is contemplating increase that fee to three-cents.

Board Chairman Bob Phillips said the fee has not been increased for ten years and recommended the one-cent hike to keep Lincoln in competition with Omaha and Grand Island. Both cities levy a three-cent fee.

The authority held off action until it can be determined whether federal regulations will permit the increase to be passed on to the consumer.

In further business Frontier Airlines reported a 6% increase in passengers carried during this July compared to July, 1973. United Airlines recorded a 19% increase in passengers during the same period.

Navy League Hosts New Commander

Rear Adm. Warren O'Neil, new commandant of the 9th Naval District, will visit Lincoln Tuesday as a guest of the Lincoln Navy League Council. He will address the Navy League members Tuesday evening following a dinner in his honor.

While in Lincoln, O'Neil also will visit the Naval Reserve Center, the naval recruiting offices and the Naval ROTC Unit at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

O'Neil became 9th Naval District commandant April 30. His command includes all Navy activities in a 13-state area of the Midwest.

Following graduation from the Naval Academy in 1944, his first assigment was on the USS Boston.

O'Neil also has served as aide to the chief of naval personnel and as commanding officer of the USS Sacramento and the USS Saratoga.

Plant Plans To Seek Vote On Centrum

Lincolnite J. James Plant announced his intent Tuesday to mount an initiative petition drive to compel the City Council to place the issue of building the proposed Centrum on the November ballot.

Plant, an unsuccessful candidate for both City Council and Board of Regents posts, said he will try to gather the necessary 1,500 signatures this week to present to the council Monday.

The petition will ask the council to approve an ordinance placing the Centrum issue on the ballot.

However, City Atty. Dick Wood questioned whether that move would be legally valid. Wood noted that the council has decided to finance a portion of the Centrum with revenue bonds, which under the charter, does not require voter approval.

Such a decision on financing may be administrative in nature, not legislative, Wood said. An administrative action would not be subject to an initiative petition drive.

Wood said, however, that if the council approves a bond ordinance authorizing the issuance of revenue bonds that action would be subject to a referendum petition drive. The council is expected to take such action in September.

Wood also advised that Plant's proposed petition drive would not be legally binding since it focuses in on one specific project, the Centrum.

Citizens could propose a change in the Charter provision which authorizes the council to issue revenue bonds for off street parking facilities without a vote.

Plant said he thinks the people ought to decide whether the city builds the Centrum, a proposed parking garage built by the city attached to retail stores, built by private interests.

If Plant obtains the required number of names on his petition, the Charter requires that the council either enact the ordinance as is, or submit the proposal to a vote. The council has 30 days in which to act.

Plant acknowledged he is working under a time problem to obtain the signatures, present the petitions to the council and obtain council action in time for the Nov. 5 general election.

Educational TV To Reach More Homes In '75, '76

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

Educational television programming will remain steady, but it will reach more Nebraskans.

That is the outlook in the proposed Nebraska Educational Television budgets for the next two years, NETV officials told members of the governing commission Tuesday.

Requests to the Legislature, approved Tuesday by the Nebraska Educational Television Commission, show a 5.1% increase for the 1975-76 fiscal year and a 4.1% increase for the 1976-77 fiscal year over the 1974-75 year.

This came despite a request by Gov. J. James Exon to hold next year's budgets to the level of the current fiscal year because of expected low tax revenues, caused by the June-July drought.

To Improve Reception

NETV General Manager Jack McBride said the largest increases in next year's budget are to improve statewide NETV reception and to continue "Grand Generation," a program for the elderly now financed by the Nebraska Commission on the Aging.

The first is a result of a legislative request to study and improve NETV reception in Nebraska.

Commissioners Tuesday approved use of $114,500 to build network translators in Falls City and Ord to boost signals from the nine stations' towers.

There are four translators in Nebraska. Long-range plans, financed by $231,125 in the 1975-76 budget request, are to construct 13 translators to boost reception in problem areas — central Nebraska and the state's southeast and northwest tips.

HEW Matching Grant

A project to boost reception in Omaha may be partially financed by a federal Health, Education and Welfare Department grant of matching funds in 1975-76, according to W. Boyd Rooney, assistant general manager of operations.

Rooney said similar matching-funds grants, expected to help pay for the other translators and a truck carrying color camera equipment, are no longer likely.

Commissioners decided to investigate submitting a scaled-down request for the camera and truck.

The total 1975-76 budget request is $2.63 million. Included in that are $12,700 more for programming, $3,287 for expanding station air time to morning hours and $10,640 to hire an engineer to maintain the new translators.

Ron Hull, assistant general manager for programming, said the $12,700 would maintain programming at the past year's level.

Research Specialist

The 1976-77 budget request is for $2.79 million. That includes $17,104 for a network research specialist to supervise audience research used in program planning, Hull said.

Both requests are due at the Legislature by Sept. 15.

Mal Adams' appointment as NETV minority affairs coordinator was announced to commissioners. Adams has worked at stations KOWH and KETV in Omaha.

Money from Nebraskans for Public Television, the NETV citizen-support group, will be used to produce programs with the Lincoln Symphony and Omaha ballet company, Hull announced.

To Buy Programs

He said the network will also use money from the group to buy national programs, "Lilius," "Yoga and You" and "Romanali's Table," similar to the Julia Child series.

Assistant Manager for Administration Paul Few said $24,900 from the 1974-75 budget has been reallocated to meet increasing utilities costs, to begin weather warning services to NETV channels and to bring national Public Broadcasting System programs to Channel 26 in Omaha.

4 Lancaster Senators Set Perfect Record

Four of Lancaster County's six state senators did not miss a single day of the 1975 Unicameral's 60-day session.

The other two missed only one day, according to an Associated Press check of the Legislative Journal's records.

Perfect attendance was recorded by Sens. Wally Barnett, Steve Fowler and Shirley Marsh, all of Lincoln, and Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly.

One day's absence was recorded by Sens. Roland Luedtke and Harold Simpson, both of Lincoln.

Speaker Richard Proud of Omaha had the worst attendance record, missing 13 of 60 days.

Chambers Asks Legal Opinion On Letter From Cook's Lawyer

State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha has asked Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer for an official opinion on whether the New York lawyer for G. Bradford Cook has illegally attempted to bring "undue and improper influence" on Chambers.

Chambers enclosed in his request to Meyer a letter from Jonathan Rosner, who said his office is representing the former chairman of the federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Cook has admitted giving false statements to a federal grand jury investigating the Robert Vesco case.

In his letter to Chambers, Rosner said the senator has made "irresponsible" statements regarding Cook who, Chambers has said, should be subjected to disciplinary action by the Nebraska Bar Association.

Cook, a former Lincolnite, is a member of the Nebraska Bar.

"Persistence in these demonstrably false accusations by you, in perpetual ignorance of the facts, for motives evidently political in nature, can well lead to liability for those statements," Rosner wrote Chambers.

"In my opinion," Chambers wrote Meyer, "he has attempted to use the threat of legal action to coerce me into being silent on a matter which I feel relates to my duty as a state senator."

Furthermore, Chambers wrote, "when an attempt is made to coerce a state senator into a position of failing to discharge his duty, that attempt at coercion would seem to be a violation of the law as relates to undue and improper influence on a public official."

Admitted Child Stealer Placed On Probation

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Rodney J. Adams, 23, of Fremont, Neb., who admitted taking a 3-year-old girl from her Avoca, Iowa, home last February, has been placed on two years probation by Pottawattamie County District Court Judge Paul Sulhoff.

Adams was charged with child stealing in the abduction of Cindy McPherson, daughter of Mrs. Vicky McPherson.

The mother was an acquaintance of Adams.

Five days after the abduction, Adams was arrested in Olympia, Wash., and the child was returned to her mother unharmed.

Adams pleaded guilty to the charges May 1, and was released on $5,000 bond.

Prosecutors urged the court to defer sentencing on the guilty plea until the end of the probationary period. Should Adams maintain a "clean slate" during that time, the charges will be dismissed.

City Manager Quits

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — City Manager Ray Wells, an architect of Iowa City's controversial urban renewal project, announced his resignation to accept a similar position at Lakewood, Colo.

Omaha Board May Reinstate Tech Ninth Grade

Omaha (Ap) — The Omaha Board of Education has before it a suggestion that ninth grade be reinstated at Technical High School to increase enrollment.

Thomas Jackson told the board Monday night that members of a group he represents also want the board to:

—Develop policies that will allow Tech to receive overflow of students from Mann, Monroe, McMillan, Lewis and Clark Junior Highs and Central and North High Schools, and to reach an 80% black to 20% white student ratio.

—Continue the "magnet" concept for the school, but eliminate the provision that

Board President Paul Kennedy assigned the group's requests to a meeting of a board committee August 28th.

Tech lost its ninth grade in 1971 when the junior high portion of the building was vacated.

At the time, officials said the decision to close the junior high was based on recommendations from the black community which thought that mixing junior and senior high school students was unwise.

—Affirm the "quality and worth of Tech High as a viable educational institution" with a strong academic program.

Concrete Pouring Delay Worries Airport Board

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Airport Authority board members are worried that the scheduled Nov. 1 opening date of the new terminal complex will be pushed back because of a new delay.

Abel Construction Co. has not yet begun pouring concrete for the east-west taxiway, a terminal taxiway, aprons, access roads and parking lots which will serve the $4.7 million terminal.

Engineer Carl Christopherson said Abel originally agreed to begin pouring concrete by Aug. 12.

Not Enough Time

Board members, upset by delays which have plagued the terminal's construction, said in a Tuesday meeting they did not think there was enough time to get the job done between now and Nov. 1.

Abel vice president Bill Bowen assured the group that the $2.6 million paving project will be done by Nov. 1.

Bowen acknowledged that the contractor is behind schedule since crews have been concentrating on a construction project on Cornhusker Hwy. Bowen said the crews will be transferred to the airport project by Thursday or Friday of next week.

Chapin Skeptical

Board member Dick Chapin was still skeptical that the timetable can be met. Referring to previous delays the board has encountered with the firm, Chapin said, "The track record of believability is not good."

Chapin said board members were getting pressure from the public to get the job done.

And, he said, he doesn't blame them. With the access road to the airport torn up, and with the terminal's construction, Chapin said people need a "Chinese roadmap" to reach the airport now.

Bowen said the contractor is aware of the situation adding, "We don't even like good publicity, let alone bad."

Prevent Problems

Board members also urged the contractor to work with Frontier and United airlines and the Air National Guard to make sure some problems are avoided when the contractor speeds up its work next week.

Opening of the terminal has been pushed back several times due to delays in ordering equipmet and bad weather last winter which bogged down the project.

Airport Workers Get 7% Pay Hike

Airport employes were granted a 7½% cost of living increase Tuesday, effective July 1, the start of the airport's fiscal year.

The increase was patterned after the 7½% pay hike granted to city employes by the City Council last week.

The vote to grant the increase to airport workers was not unanimous. Board member Dick Chapin voted against a blanket increase. Chapin said he believed employes should be given raises based on work performance.

In other business the board delayed action for one month on a proposal to increase the fuel flowage fee which is paid by airport operators to the airport.

The Authority collects two cents on every gallon of fuel sold and is contemplating increase that fee to three-cents.

Board Chairman Bob Phillips said the fee has not been increased for ten years and recommended the one-cent hike to keep Lincoln in competition with Omaha and Grand Island. Both cities levy a three-cent fee.

The authority held off action until it can be determined whether federal regulations will permit the increase to be passed on to the consumer.

In further business Frontier Airlines reported a 6% increase in passengers carried during this July compared to July, 1973. United Airlines recorded a 19% increase in passengers during the same period.

Navy League Hosts New Commander

Rear Adm. Warren O'Neil, new commandant of the 9th Naval District, will visit Lincoln Tuesday as a guest of the Lincoln Navy League Council. He will address the Navy League members Tuesday evening following a dinner in his honor.

While in Lincoln, O'Neil also will visit the Naval Reserve Center, the naval recruiting offices and the Naval ROTC Unit at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

O'Neil became 9th Naval District commandant April 30. His command includes all Navy activities in a 13-state area of the Midwest.

Following graduation from the Naval Academy in 1944, his first assigment was on the USS Boston.

O'Neil also has served as aide to the chief of naval personnel and as commanding officer of the USS Sacramento and the USS Saratoga.

Plant Plans To Seek Vote On Centrum

Lincolnite J. James Plant announced his intent Tuesday to mount an initiative petition drive to compel the City Council to place the issue of building the proposed Centrum on the November ballot.

Plant, an unsuccessful candidate for both City Council and Board of Regents posts, said he will try to gather the necessary 1,500 signatures this week to present to the council Monday.

The petition will ask the council to approve an ordinance placing the Centrum issue on the ballot.

However, City Atty. Dick Wood questioned whether that move would be legally valid. Wood noted that the council has decided to finance a portion of the Centrum with revenue bonds, which under the charter, does not require voter approval.

Such a decision on financing may be administrative in nature, not legislative, Wood said. An administrative action would not be subject to an initiative petition drive.

Wood said, however, that if the council approves a bond ordinance authorizing the issuance of revenue bonds that action would be subject to a referendum petition drive. The council is expected to take such action in September.

Wood also advised that Plant's proposed petition drive would not be legally binding since it focuses in on one specific project, the Centrum.

Citizens could propose a change in the Charter provision which authorizes the council to issue revenue bonds for off street parking facilities without a vote.

Plant said he thinks the people ought to decide whether the city builds the Centrum, a proposed parking garage built by the city attached to retail stores, built by private interests.

If Plant obtains the required number of names on his petition, the Charter requires that the council either enact the ordinance as is, or submit the proposal to a vote. The council has 30 days in which to act.

Plant acknowledged he is working under a time problem to obtain the signatures, present the petitions to the council and obtain council action in time for the Nov. 5 general election.

Omaha Board May Reinstate Tech Ninth Grade

Omaha (Ap) — The Omaha Board of Education has before it a suggestion that ninth grade be reinstated at Technical High School to increase enrollment.

Thomas Jackson told the board Monday night that members of a group he represents also want the board to:

—Develop policies that will allow Tech to receive overflow of students from Mann, Monroe, McMillan, Lewis and Clark Junior Highs and Central and North High Schools, and to reach an 80% black to 20% white student ratio.

—Continue the "magnet" concept for the school, but eliminate the provision that

Board President Paul Kennedy assigned the group's requests to a meeting of a board committee August 28th.

Tech lost its ninth grade in 1971 when the junior high portion of the building was vacated.

enables students to attend Tech part-time.

—Affirm the "quality and worth of Tech High as a viable educational institution" with a strong academic program.

Student Says 'Breach Of Ethics' Not Sufficient For Ph.D. Denial

A Ph.D. candidate at the University of Nebraska has asked the court to enjoin the university and its staff from denying him a passing grade on the comprehensive examination for the degree.

Larry Edward Wegener of Omaha, contends that on June 24 he was administered the comprehensive examination for the Ph.D. degree in English and on July 1 was notified he had not passed a portion of the examination.

He says the Examination Committee reported their decision was based on his alleged commission of "a serious breach of academic ethics."

Wegener contends that his failure to denote in his answer to a question the name of one critic, and to use quotation marks for certain terminology identical to that in an article by another author, is not sufficient grounds for the accusation by the committee resulting in a failure of the second portion of the examination.

According to the petition, Wegener made numerous attempts to resolve the matter with members of the committee and other officials.

On Aug. 9, Graduate Dean James Drew rejected the proposal for an amicable settlement and informed the plaintiff that he could retake the examination during the upcoming academic year or appeal the failure, Wegener says.

He contends his attorney was also told that to appeal the decision would not be a "productive course of action".

Would Mean Failure

Wegener says this left him "with the sole alternative of retaking the examination." and that retaking the exam "would amount to an indication of an admission of failure to meet the standards".

He asks that the defendants be ordered to retract and repudiate in total the contents of the letter which stated that the plaintiff committed a serious breach of ethics.

Dow Ind.: +5.01

Stocks Twist And Turn, Close Higher

New York (AP) — The stock market priced its way through a session of wide twists and turns Tuesday to register its first gain in nearly two weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials advanced 5.01 to 726.85, while gainers edged out losers 703 to 624 among the 1,768 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .16 to 39.32.

NYSE volume increased to 13.82 million shares from 11.68 million on Monday.

The Dow surged more than 10 points in the first half-hour of trading, fell back into minus territory by early in the afternoon, then recovered again toward the close.

Analysts described the gain as almost entirely technical.

"After eight days of going straight down, it was natural for the market to bounce back a bit," observed Eldon A. Grimm at Birr, Wilson & Co.

Grimm said President Ford's assertion that he expected no return to wage and price controls gave some added support to the upswing.

But most brokers agreed the market showed no clear response to Ford's selection of former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as his nominee for vice president.

"The market doesn't care much about vice presidents — unless they become president," one broker commented.

For the record, it was the stock market's first day on the plus side since Ford took office 11 days ago.

Concern over inflation and the economic outlook in general have been widely blamed for the 75-point drop in the Dow over the eight sessions through Monday.

Evans Products was the Big Board volume leader, unchanged at 3¾ in trading marked by a 334,900-share block at 3½.

Foote Minerals soared 5⅛ to 18⅞, and the company's convertible preferred gained 4¾ to 29¼. Newmont Mining offered to buy all the common shares it did not already own at $18.50 each, and the preferred at $28.50.

The American Stock Exchange volume leader was Robintech, up 3½ at 49.

Kleinert's, Inc., tumbled 1⅝ to ⅞ in a 65 per cent drop. The company reported a widened nine-month loss and disclosed plans to sell the Brierwood Shoe Corp. for funds to pay delayed loans.

The Amex market-value index was off .39 at 74.39.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 65.72, up .59.

Livestock Prices Up

Omaha (AP) — Trade was more relaxed on the Omaha livestock market Tuesday than it was the previous session, with a moderate supply producing somewhat higher bids for better finished stock.

Steers drew a fully steady call despite a top that was 25-cents higher than Monday's peak. However, most quotations were generally unchanged.

Heifers posted a steady to 50-cents higher rating, nearly all of the increases on choice or better grade offerings.

Cows were fairly active, and mostly 50-cents higher.

Butcher hogs were 50-cents to mostly $1.00 off, bulking from $39.00-$39.25. One part load of well-sorted butchers topped the day's trade at $39.50 early. Sows were steady to 50-cents lower, bulk sales from $30.00-$34.00, and a top of $36.00 sparingly.

Slaughter lambs were mostly 50-cents lower, choice and prime spring offerings up to $41.00. Ewes were steady.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 8-21

Student Says 'Breach Of Ethics' Not Sufficient For Ph.D. Denial

A Ph.D. candidate at the University of Nebraska has asked the court to enjoin the university and its staff from denying him a passing grade on the comprehensive examination for the degree.

Larry Edward Wegener of Omaha, contends that on June 24 he was administered the comprehensive examination for the Ph.D. degree in English and on July 1 was notified he had not passed a portion of the examination.

He says the Examination Committee reported their decision was based on his alleged commission of "a serious breach of academic ethics."

Wegener contends that his failure to denote in his answer to a question the name of one critic, and to use quotation marks for certain terminology identical to that in an article by another author, is not sufficient grounds for the accusation by the committee resulting in a failure of the second portion of the examination.

According to the petition, Wegener made numerous attempts to resolve the matter with members of the committee and other officials.

On Aug. 9, Graduate Dean James Drew rejected the proposal for an amicable settlement and informed the plaintiff that he could retake the examination during the upcoming academic year or appeal the failure, Wegener says.

He contends his attorney was also told that to appeal the decision would not be a "productive course of action".

Would Mean Failure

Wegener says this left him "with the sole alternative of retaking the examination," and that retaking the exam "would amount to an indication of an admission of failure to meet the standards".

He asks that the defendants be ordered to retract and repudiate in total the contents of the letter which stated that the plaintiff committed a serious breach of ethics.

Stocks Twist And Turn, Close Higher

New York (AP) — The stock market priced its way through a session of wide twists and turns Tuesday to register its first gain in nearly two weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials advanced 5.01 to 726.85, while gainers edged out losers 703 to 624 among the 1,768 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .16 to 39.32.

NYSE volume increased to 13.82 million shares from 11.68 million on Monday.

The Dow surged more than 10 points in the first half-hour of trading, fell back into minus territory by early in the afternoon, then recovered again toward the close.

Analysts described the gain as almost entirely technical.

"After eight days of going straight down, it was natural for the market to bounce back a bit," observed Eldon A. Grimm at Birr, Wilson & Co.

Grimm said President Ford's assertion that he expected no return to wage and price controls gave some added support to the upswing.

But most brokers agreed the market showed no clear response to Ford's selection of former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as his nominee for vice president.

"The market doesn't care much about vice presidents — unless they become president," one broker commented.

For the record, it was the stock market's first day on the plus side since Ford took office 11 days ago.

Concern over inflation and the economic outlook in general have been widely blamed for the 75-point drop in the Dow over the eight sessions through Monday.

Evans Products was the Big Board volume leader, unchanged at 3¾ in trading marked by a 334,900-share block at 3½.

Foote Minerals soared 5⅛ to 18⅞, and the company's convertible preferred gained 4¾ to 29¼. Newmont Mining offered to buy all the common shares it did not already own at $18.50 each, and the preferred at $28.50.

The American Stock Exchange volume leader was Robintech, up 3½ at 49.

Kleinert's, Inc., tumbled 1⅝ to ⅞ in a 65 per cent drop. The company reported a widened nine-month loss and disclosed plans to sell the Brierwood Shoe Corp. for funds to pay delayed loans.

The Amex market-value index was off .39 at 74.39.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 65.72, up .59.

Livestock Prices Up

Omaha (AP) — Trade was more relaxed on the Omaha livestock market Tuesday than it was the previous session, with a moderate supply producing somewhat higher bids for better finished stock.

Steers drew a fully steady call despite a top that was 25-cents higher than Monday's peak. However, most quotations were generally unchanged.

Heifers posted a steady to 50-cents higher rating, nearly all of the increases on choice or better grade offerings.

Cows were fairly active, and mostly 50-cents higher.

Butcher hogs were 50-cents to mostly $1.00 off, bulking from $39.00-$39.25. One part load of well-sorted butchers topped the day's trade at $39.50 early. Sows were steady to 50-cents lower, bulk sales from $30.00-$34.00, and a top of $36.00 sparingly.

Slaughter lambs were mostly 50-cents lower, choice and prime spring offerings up to $41.00. Ewes were steady.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 8-21
